$3,700,000 CUT IN EXPENSES IS CITY PROGRAM

Jacobs Finds Way to Save $8,700,000.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

[illegible] Jacobs, efficiency expert [illegible] county and city, told Gov. [illegible]'s revenue commission re[illegible] last night that $8,700,000 a [illegible] be saved on the city's corpo[illegible] expenditures alone, without de[illegible] services or lowering efficiency. [illegible] millions were immediately in[illegible] the saving for half a year [illegible] be half of his estimate.

[illegible] J. M. Myers of the school [illegible] has promised action today by [illegible] on his proposals to trim [illegible] expenses of that tax expending [illegible] between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. If a $5,000,000 reduction were [illegible] by the board, a total saving of [illegible],700,000 would be possible for the [illegible] corporate fund and schools com[illegible]. The city corporate fund sup[illegible] the cash for such services as [illegible] police and fire departments, street [illegible], health, and street cleaning.

Jacobs to Give Figures.

[illegible] is expected to have his in[illegible] into city expenses far enough [illegible] by Aug. 24 to demonstrate [illegible] to the revenue commission the sav[illegible] to be effected and a more definite [illegible] of the total.

[illegible] Clark [29th], chairman [illegible] of the finance committee of the city [illegible], took issue with Jacobs. He [illegible] before the close of the ses[illegible] of the Union League club.

"[illegible] or ten million dollars can [illegible] be saved without crippling the [illegible]. But $5,000,000 can be [illegible] out of the budget without [illegible] service, but in times like the [illegible] we unquestionably should cut [illegible] expenditures."

Asks for Jacobs' Estimate.

"[illegible] your best estimate on the [illegible] which the city can [illegible]," said E. E. Thomasen of the [illegible] commission in beginning his [illegible] of Mr. Jacobs.

"[illegible] is plainly possible to save be[illegible] 15 and 20 per cent, according [illegible] the department," said Jacobs. [illegible] of some mistakes the service [illegible] be improved."

"[illegible] a budget of $53,000,000—[illegible] certain portions—would [illegible] that 15 per cent could be [illegible]," protested Thomasen.

"[illegible] is quite conservative," re[illegible] Jacobs. "Also savings can be [illegible] in other funds than the cor[illegible] One person head with whom [illegible] have conferred now plans on [illegible] expenses 60 per cent."

Thomasen Questions.

"What bureau is that?" asked Ald. [illegible].

"Every bureau," responded Jacobs. [illegible] annual budget of $400,000 can be cut $50,000 or $125,000."

"At the first impression go out," [illegible] Alderman P. Nelson [46th]. "But I understand that you claim that a saving of 15 per cent can be [illegible] of the corporate budget?"

"That's the minimum," Jacobs shot [illegible].

"Are you going to cut salaries?" asked Ald. Nelson. "About 80 per [illegible] of the corporate budget is sal[illegible]."

"It will probably be desirable to [illegible] some adjustment to a reclassi[illegible] of the service performed," re[illegible] Jacobs.

Back to the 15 Per Cent.

"[illegible] of 15 per cent can be [illegible] on the corporate budget?" asked [illegible] H. Britten, chairman of the [illegible] committee.

"I believe that is a conservative es[illegible]," repeated Jacobs.

"Then can't we have some of that [illegible] at once without [illegible] on the annual budget?" asked [illegible] Britten.

"Some of the departments are doing [illegible] trimming, and the mayor [illegible] accomplished substantial[illegible]," said Jacobs. "Our investi[illegible] in progress two months, dis[illegible] that the police, for example, [illegible] all performing police work. [illegible] doing police work can be [illegible] without decreasing the po[illegible] to the taxpayers."

Clark Is Questioned.

[illegible] Clark in questioning the [illegible] followed on Ald. Clark. Probably [illegible] sensational of his statements [illegible] the city corporate fund contin[illegible] running at its present rate we [illegible] finish the year with a deficit of [illegible].

"On what do you base that esti[illegible]," asked Mr. Jacobs.

"I estimated the taxes on the [illegible] there would be a loss and [illegible] collection of only 10 per cent," [illegible] the alderman. "It now looks [illegible] per cent. That means a loss

A stout man of 50 years, accompanied by a slim youth about half that age, sauntered up the broad drive to the servants' entrance of the home of Mrs. Marion Whipple Deering, situated on the lake shore behind a tall hedge at 2645 Sheridan road in the most exclusive part of Evanston yesterday. The time was 12:30 p. m.

The owner of the house, whose husband, Charles Deering, had been chairman of the board of the International Harvester company and left $25,000,000 on his death three years ago, was traveling abroad. The caretaker, Chris Christiansen, was enjoying a siesta in his third floor bedroom.

Meets Pair at Door.

The callers rang the doorbell. A pert woman in black, Miss Anna Brostus, who has been a Deering family retainer for most of her 79 years, went to the door.

"Any old clothes today?" the stout man inquired.

Miss Brostus looked sharply at their spruce clothing and white Panamas, then glanced out over the rolling lawn where the gardener, Harold Malloy, was mowing grass. Reassured, she asked them to wait while she looked in the clothes press.

Miss Brostus had just turned her back when the screen door creaked and something blunt prodded her between the shoulders.

Backs Command With Gun.

"Hop upstairs now, mother, and don't turn around on the way," said a voice. "This gun might go off."

The gun at her back, Miss Brostus led the pair through the kitchen, hall and dining room and up the staircase. At the second landing she encountered the caretaker's wife, and her 18 year old daughter, Anita. Mrs. Christiansen suppressed a scream.

"Now, where's the old man?" the stout intruder demanded.

They entered his room and Christiansen awoke to find the muzzle of a pistol tickling his ear. The young robber explained their mission and asked where the jewels were. Miss Brostus, not quite reduced to speechlessness, declared her mistress was in France and had the jewels with her.

"I'll look around," said the stout man, and started downstairs.

Robber Answers Phone.

The telephone rang. The stout man paused on the second floor and picked up an extension instrument. They could hear his quiet voice informing the caller that Miss Brostus couldn't answer now, because she had a headache.

The young man pocketed his gun, skipped downstairs and was back in a moment with a pail of water and a dipper.

"Have a drink, all," he invited. "If you don't mind, I'll have one, too."

Captive Girl Is Called.

The phone rang again. This time the stout man, apparently afraid to answer himself, called his confederate to send some one down. The slim man sent the girl, Anita. The choice was good, for the caller proved to be her sweetheart, seeking a date. She hastily put him off and returned upstairs, the stout man accompanying her to the third flight.

It was now nearing 3 o'clock. The gardener had finished his task and gone home. The stout man was still prowling on the first floor and the prisoners upstairs were down to the last dipper of water.

Then the doorbell rang.

With a bathing suit on her arm Miss Vera Decker, 511 Main street, Evanston, strolled in and asked for Anita. Taking the stranger for a friend of Christiansen's, she explained that she and Anita were going to the beach together.

Another Girl Made Prisoner.

"You'll find her upstairs," he said, and Vera went to the third floor to become a prisoner.

Half an hour later the stout man finished his search. He climbed the stairs and was mopping his brow when he entered the bedroom.

"No jewels," he said to the slim man. Both stepped outside in the corridor and the prisoners heard a whisper about calling Charlie.

"You've got 300 cases of liquor in the basement," said the slim man, going back into the bedroom. Miss

Jerome Quaffs a Puddler and Finds a Thrill

A puddler is a drink consisting of three fingers of whisky followed by a stein of beer as a chaser. It is so named because of its popularity in the iron mill district among some of the steel "puddlers" whose capacity for alcohol is traditional.

With this explanation the reader's attention is directed to the dramatic story of Jerome Lucas, his introduction to puddlers as a beverage, and the interesting consequences.

At midnight Monday Mr. Lucas finished his shift as motion picture machine operater in the Adelphi theater, 7074 North Clark street. It was a muggy evening and Mr. Lucas decided to drop in at a convenient speak easy and quaff a mug of beer.

Meets a New Drink.

After giving his modest order, Mr. Lucas glanced at the other customers. One figure stood out among the usual policemen, hoodlums and minor politicians who frequent such neighborhood saloons. He was a man of mighty girth with massive shoulders and arms like healthy saplings.

As Mr. Lucas watched, the big man tossed down a drink of whisky and followed it quickly with a long draught of beer.

"That's an interesting drink," remarked Mr. Lucas to his neighbor. "It ought to bring results."

"It's a man's drink," shouted the big man who had heard the comment. He pounded the bar with his fist. "None of you punks could stand more than one of them without falling on your faces."

Mr. Lucas' pride was aroused. There stirred in him an urge to show up this boaster.

"Fix me up one of those," he said to the bartender. He downed it. "And another," he ordered quietly.

Also a New Friend.

After the sixth puddler, when Mr. Lucas still stood proudly facing the world, only slightly unsteady on his feet, the big man came over and put his arm around Mr. Lucas' shoulders.

"You're there, little feller," he asserted. "You 'n' me are pals."

"Two more puddlers, please," said Mr. Lucas.

Several hours passed.

At 4:30 a. m. yesterday morning Mrs. Marjorie Lucas, 4215 North Kedvale avenue, received a telephone call from her husband.

"I've been kidnaped," he gasped. "Get the police."

Lieut. John L. Sullivan and his squad were summoned. They traced the call to the Stratford hotel, 4131 Sheridan road. They hurried there.

"A big man brought in a friend some time ago," said the hotel clerk. "The friend was feeling high and the big man locked him in a room to keep him from hurting himself."

Lucas was found in the room. He had tied sheets of the bed together and was about to escape from the window when the police walked in.

"It must have been the puddlers," he said, some time later. "I woke up with the clothes around me and I thought I was tied up. I was sure I had been kidnaped. I fought with the bed clothes for some minutes and finally got myself free. The door was locked and I thought I was being held for ransom."

"We will settle this matter in private," Mrs. Lucas told Lieut. Sullivan, leading Mr. Lucas firmly homeward.

MR. A SEEMS TO HAVE SHORTEST NAME IN THIS BREVITY RACE

A dozen claimants to the shortest name in the United States clamored for the title yesterday following the death on Monday in Coldwater, Mich., of H. P. Re, for whom the title had been claimed. In the lead, if first initials are allowed, is A. A—

AARON A.

The first claimant was J. Ur of Torrington, Conn., but others disputed his claim or, at least, claimed joint title. C. Ek and J. Ek of Duluth, Minn., brothers, and a Mrs. V. Ek also entered the lists. A former Duluth policeman, C. Sy, said his name was as short as that of any of his fellow townsmen.

In Fairmont, Minn., the same contention was held by E. Py, a farmer, and Clinton, Ia., put forward C. Au, J. Au, and W. Au. Indiana entered Ed Py of New Castle, an inmate of the jail charged with stealing an electric drill. He said his name was two periods shorter than the former titleholder, Mr. Re. Far in the rear was Fix Ax of Indianapolis.

Unless some one exists with a name like O, or some other unattached initial, A. A was holding the field against all comers last night.

Bombay Governor Narrowly Escapes Assassin's Bullet

POONA, India, July 22 [Wednesday] —(AP)—Sir John E. B. A second shot went wide. The governor overpowered the youth, who was arrested.

Dry Navy Shot Hits Man on Crowded Ship

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—(AP)—Two liquor runners in a speedboat took refuge from pursuing United States customs border patrolmen alongside the excursion steamer Ste. Claire tonight on the Detroit river, apparently in the belief the patrolmen would not fire on them there.

The patrolmen did, and Arthur Gajeski, 23, a passenger on the excursion boat, was wounded in the arm. The liquor runners escaped. Witnesses said they were not wounded.

Forty Shots Are Fired.

The account of passengers on the steamer said the crew of one of three pursuing patrol boats fired 40 shots at the fugitive boat. The fusillade threw the 1,000 merrymakers into a panic.

At the border patrol base it was said there would be no report on the occurrence until the boats which engaged in the chase came in at dawn.

Gajeski said he had watched the liquor boat loaded with 150 or more cases of beer or whisky roar back and forth across the bow of the steamer, attempting to elude a pursuing patrol boat. Finally, he said, the rum runners almost collided with two other patrol boats which had raced out from the American side.

Hundreds Flee Fusillade.

Then, he said, the rum runners drew alongside the steamer, within six feet of its side, one patrol boat maneuvered to a position abreast the steamer and about 75 feet away, and the crew opened fire with pistols.

"The first shot struck me," he said, "and I didn't see the rest of the battle."

Other passengers said the sound of the first shot sent the hundreds of passengers, who had crowded to the rails to watch the chase, stampeding inside to safety. They did not know where the other shots went.

The passengers said the liquor runners displayed no weapons.

The Great American Habit of Guarding Others' Habits

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—O. W. Hardwick, 50, today saw a young woman in an automobile light a cigaret. It so enraged him, he said, "to see a woman smoking that way," that he walked up and slapped her. The woman, Mrs. Marjorie Palecco, screamed. Her husband jumped out and seized Hardwick. Police rescued the slapper and he was ordered into court for assault.

"My wife and daughter don't smoke," the slapper explained. "This is the first time I ever slapped a woman. But somehow she just made me mad."

London Parley Fails to Budge France on Loan

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—The fate of Germany still hung in the balance tonight after a five and one-half hour conference of the finance ministers of the seven nations deliberating here on means to save her from bankruptcy. The ministers, who went into session at 3:30 p. m., sat until 9 o'clock, when they adjourned without having agreed on any definite plan to steady the tottering German finances.

HENRY L. STIMSON. [Acme Photo.]

The committee discussed plans for an inquiry into Germany's plight and means of affording immediate relief. At the end of the meeting a communique was issued stating that the result of today's deliberations will be laid before a plenary session of the conference tomorrow. The communique emphasized that the new Hoover scheme, reported today from Washington, had not been mentioned to them and that they knew nothing of it.

Stimson Denies New Plan.

There was some confusion in London in regard to President Hoover's new plan. The wires between London and Washington seemed to have been badly crossed today.

Secretary of State Stimson at noon today denied categorically to the assembled representatives of the world's press that he knew anything of a new Hoover plan. When pressed as to the foundation of dispatches from Washington reporting such a plan, Mr. Stimson replied angrily that he could not conceive where such a story had originated. He denied that he had received any new instructions from President Hoover.

Later in the day, when the text of Assistant Secretary Castle's statement arrived in London, in which Mr. Castle said the plan had been cabled to Mr. Stimson, the latter locked himself in his room in the Hyde Park hotel. He refused to see anyone and sent out word that he would have nothing to say. Both French and German statesmen denied having heard of the Hoover plan, although it was admitted that Mr. Stimson had used practically the same terms in his proposals to the conference.

Statesmen in Row at Parley.

Details of this morning's plenary session of the conference leaked out tonight. They indicated that there were several testy exchanges of observations between the leading delegates.

Prime Minister MacDonald opened the session and his first move was to request Premier Laval to explain the French position. This stroked the swarthy little Frenchman the wrong way, and he arose and dryly remarked that the French attitude was well known and did not require any further talk. In other words, France had not budged an inch from the position taken in Paris last week, which was that she must have political guarantees in return for any financial help to Germany.

Getting nowhere in that direction, Mr. MacDonald called on Secretary

SCHEME TO AID REICH FAILS TO REACH POWERS

And Washington Is Dumfounded.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The latest effort of President Hoover to guide Europe out of the economic wilderness became enveloped tonight in a fog of diplomatic mystery.

This forenoon the state department made public the text of what it called President Hoover's plan for stabilizing the economic situation in Germany. The plan proposed a method of bolstering up the credit of Germany without Germany being required to give the political guarantees demanded by France.

Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. said the Hoover plan had been transmitted to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in Paris last Friday; that Mr. Stimson had submitted it to the French and Germans on Saturday and Sunday, that the French and Germans had reacted favorably to it, that Col. Stimson had presented it to the seven power conference in London today, that it was the only plan presented, and that it was referred to the finance ministers of the nations for further consideration.

But Something Slips.

Later in the afternoon came word from London that Mr. Stimson had declared that he did not present the Hoover plan or any other plan to the conference today. Furthermore, the French and German delegates were described as expressing great interest in the Hoover proposal, saying they had never heard of it.

Whether the administration had made a premature revelation or whether Mr. Stimson was merely working at cross purposes with his chief, as he did on at least one memorable occasion at the London arms conference, it was evident that a cog had slipped somewhere.

President Hoover, Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, Mr. Castle, Acting Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, and Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board, spent the late afternoon in the White House executive offices in a huddle on the embarrassing conflict of versions of what had happened. They failed to dissipate the fog.

Beyond an admission by Mr. Castle that he was puzzled, officialdom took refuge behind a refusal to be interviewed.

The Hoover Proposal.

The plan which Mr. Castle said Secretary Stimson did propose and which Secretary Stimson is quoted as saying he did not propose—but which the administration labels the President's own—contemplates that all existing short term foreign credits to Germany, aggregating about one billion two hundred millions, shall be extended, that additional credits shall be granted if necessary and that all such loans shall be converted eventually so far as possible into long term credits.

Specifically, the President proposes that a committee should be set up "to secure cooperation on the following questions:"

"[A] In consultation with the banking interests in the different countries to provide for the renewal of the present volume of outstanding short term credits from those countries.

"[B] In making an inquiry into the immediate further credit needs of Germany.

"[C] In the development during the course of the next six or eight months of plans for a conversion of some proportion of the short term credits into long term credits."

Reich Must Cooperate.

While outside aid of this character is being extended, Germany, under the terms of the Hoover proposal, is to exercise a strict control of all foreign exchange transactions in order to prevent a further flight of capital and the destruction thereby of the security required for further extensions of credit.

The financial assistance proposed by the President is to be given without political conditions. In fact, it is to be given without the participation of France, if France should persist in making political guarantees the price of extension of French credit to Germany in this emergency.

So far as that part of the plan relating to renewal of existing foreign credits to Germany is concerned, the position of France is more or less negligible. Of the twelve hundred millions of such credits, France has advanced only 60,000,000, while American banks, industries and investors have advanced 600,000,000. America is the largest single creditor of Germany.

If Mr. Hoover should succeed in obtaining the assent of all the powers but France to his proposal for aid to Germany without political guarantees, France, as a comparatively negligible creditor, would be unable to exact conditions. The others would proceed without her.

From this point of view, the President's proposal constituted a sort of flank movement upon the position of France.

Hoover Pleads for "Good Will."

Mr. Hoover in his proposal dispenses the question of political guarantees with the expression of hope that "through mutual good will and understanding the European nations may eliminate all friction so that the world may rely upon the political stability of Europe."

The President does not blink the fact, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle Jr. explained, that the economic situation of Germany is complicated by political problems such as those figuring in the relations of Germany and France, but these are problems which European nations must solve without intervention by the United States.

What the President hopes is that the solution of the German economic problem will enable Europe to approach the political problems with the same spirit that has animated the discussions in the London conference. Mr. Castle said that an admirable spirit had characterized the contact of the French and Germans at London.

Approved by Bankers.

The step taken by Mr. Hoover was indorsed in advance by American financial groups whose attitude toward the renewal of the present short term credits to Germany and the extension of additional credits, if necessary, was canvassed by the Federal Reserve bank of New York and communicated to Eugene Meyer, governor of the federal reserve board.

The American bankers took the position that with 600 millions sunk in short term German credits alone, the only way to insure their payment is to do whatever is necessary to bolster up the credit of Germany. Hence they favored the renewal of present and extension of new credits, if necessary. Otherwise, in the event of the financial collapse of Germany, they might lose their entire stake.

The opinion of the bankers is that no new money probably will be needed, except possibly to support the mark under proper safeguards.

Text of Hoover Proposal for the Restoration of Germany

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The text of President Hoover's proposal drawn up for submission to the London conference for stabilizing the economic condition of Germany follows:

"The essence of the problem is the restoration of confidence in Germany's economic life, both in Germany and abroad.

"1. On the political side the United States hopes that, through mutual good will and understanding, the European nations may eliminate all friction so that the world may rely upon the political stability of Europe.

"2. On the economic side, the present emergency is strictly a short term credit crisis. Fundamental pressure upon German economy during the period of depression has been relieved by the joint action of the creditor powers in suspending all payments upon governmental debts during the period of one year.

Credit Structure Weakens.

"But Germany has financed her economic activities to a very great extent through the medium of short term foreign credits. There is no reason to doubt the soundness of the basis upon which these credits rest, but the general uncertainty which has prevailed for the last few weeks resulted in such a loss of confidence that the German banking and credit structure was subjected to a very severe strain. This strain took two very definite forms, both of which resulted in a drain of banking resources and the depletion of German gold and foreign exchange holdings.

"In the first place there was a flight from the mark within Germany. In the second place there was a withdrawal of foreign deposits and a curtailment on the part of foreign banks of outstanding lines of credit.

"Fundamentally there is nothing to justify these movements and if, through cooperative action, they can be arrested, there is no reason why the present emergency cannot be immediately and definitely surmounted.

Reich Doing Its Part.

"[A]. As to first, namely, the internal flight from the mark, this can be and is being successfully combated by the vigorous action of the German government and the Reichsbank. Once unreasonable fear has been eliminated, it is certain that the patriotism of the German people can be relied on to prevent the destruction of the credit of their own country.

"[B]. As to the external credits, we believe that the first approach to this problem is the development of a program that will permit the maintenance for an adequate period of time of the present outstanding lines of credit. In this connection, it is our understanding that this volume of credit together with the freed reparations and the natural gain from the allayment of the panic should be adequate to meet the needs of German economic life for the immediate moment. On the other hand, it must be apparent that unless provision is made for the maintenance of these credits, an attempt to provide new ones, whether of a short or long term character, would be ineffective.

A Moment for Cooperation.

"In the development of such a program, the governments of the countries having principal banking centers, including the United States, Belgium, France, Great Britain, Holland, Italy, Japan and Switzerland, and other important banking centers, might well undertake to encourage their bankers so to organize as to permit the maintenance for an adequate period of time of present day outstanding lines of credit to Germany.

"The responsibility for working out the details of such a program and the methods of making it effective with due regard to the protection of the banks and the needs of German economy, should be left to the banking communities of the respective countries and the central banks could, we believe, be relied on to furnish the necessary leadership, cooperation and direction.

"Such voluntary arrangements should be supplemented, for the time being, by strict control of all foreign exchange transactions by the Reichsbank so that the integrity of the program can be maintained and the banks that are participating can be assured that there would be no arbitrary withdrawal either from within or without Germany.

Prompt Action Needed.

"3. It is our belief that if such a program could be made promptly effective, it would result in an immediate restoration of confidence and that in a comparatively short time the necessity for restrictions of this character would disappear and normal conditions would once more prevail. There is all the more ground for faith in such a result in view of the fact that the United States debt suspension program has now become effective and that the events which succeeded the announcement of that program, clearly demonstrate that relief from payment of intergovernmental debts established in the minds of the business world, the basis for renewed confidence.

"4. A committee should be selected by the B. I. S. or created by some other appropriate method to secure cooperation on the following question:

"[A] In consultation with the Banking interests in the different countries to provide for the renewal of the present volume of outstanding short term credits from those countries.

"[B] In making an inquiry into the immediate further credit needs of Germany.

"[C] In the development during the course of the next six or eight months of plans for a conversion of some proportion of the short term credits into long term credits."

LONDON PARLEY FAILS TO BUDGE FRANCE ON LOAN

Refuses to Consider Any Letup in Demands.

Stimson to speak, anticipating that the much advertised American plan would be unfolded. Instead, Mr. Stimson denied authorship or knowledge of such a scheme, but he added that he had a proposal which he meant to put forward in a few minutes, which he believed would bring the financial question to a head.

Cross Examines Delegates.

Before introducing his proposal, however, he settled down to a questioning of the other delegates. He asked them to set out briefly their positions, but concentrated on the Germans.

He wanted to know what the Reichsbank could do and what it was prepared to do in the present emergency, and, what was most important, just how much it needed in the way of credits to revive and restore the country. The Germans squirmed out of the examination and nothing much was gained in definite knowledge.

Mr. Stimson, thereupon, was left with nothing to say except his promised proposal. Strangely enough, this was almost identical with the Hoover statement given out in Washington today—so similar that in some instances the same figures computing Germany's needs were used.

Urges Bankers' Consortium.

The most concrete suggestion was the formation of a consortium of international bankers, both large and small, having interests in Germany in order to establish in Germany for the time being the credits already there. It is reported that the he further suggested that the committee of bankers might work under the Bank for International Settlements at Basel.

In the next breath he placed an estimate of what Germany probably needs at between $1,000,000,000 and $1,200,000,000. The latter is the figure President Hoover used in the statement issued by Mr. Castle.

Mr. Stimson also denied that America, as is popularly believed in Europe, had withdrawn large sums in short term credits from Germany, and he declared the Americans would not withdraw any more. He appealed to the other nations holding short term German securities to act similarly, and he said if this was done the problem would be half solved.

Secretary Stimson declared that he was confident that the big American banks would coöperate by keeping their existing credits in Germany, provided the banks of other nations would do the same.

Laval Annoyed Again.

The next brush came when Mr. MacDonald suggested that the finance ministers constitute themselves into a committee to hammer out the practical terms of the American proposal. He added that it probably would be a good plan to invite the heads of the central banks to participate. He suggested Montagu Norman to act for the Bank of England.

This annoyed Premier Laval again. The French premier remarked that the governor of the Bank of France was not in London and that he did not intend to send for him.

He was supported by the Belgian finance minister, who declared he thought the committee should be purely governmental. This was accepted and it was thereupon arranged that the committee of finance ministers should meet this afternoon.

French Threaten to Quit.

That the conference has run into serious difficulties became evident tonight with reports that the French at today's meeting not only had refused to make any concession from their position, but had threatened to go home at once, saying they were not interested in stabilizing the present short term credits to Germany, as they have none, and that they are not interested in other people's troubles.

It is evident that the British and Americans are working in the closest collaboration with the Germans. From 9 to 10 o'clock this morning Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden and Sir Leith Ross, a British treasury expert, conferred with Chancellor Bruening and Herr Schöffer of the German ministry of finance, while at the same time Foreign Secretary Henderson, Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, and Herr Bulow of the German foreign office, held a conference.

Hint at British Rift.

Some significance is attached in diplomatic circles here to the fact that Prime Minister MacDonald presided over the meeting of the ministers of finance instead of Foreign Secretary Henderson, thus giving color to the rumor that Mr. MacDonald is of the opinion that Henderson gave way too much to the French in Paris last week. Stories of a serious disagreement between the British premier and the foreign secretary, however, are strenuously denied.

LUMBER OFFICE HELD UP.

Two young bandits entered the offices of the A. T. Stewart Lumber company, 7859 Greenwood avenue, yesterday afternoon, and at the point of a revolver took $60 from Henry Husenga, 11320 South Union avenue, the manager.

Von Hindenburg Orders Halt on Rule by Emergency Decree

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 21.—President von Hindenburg today called in Dr. Hans Luther, president of the reichsbank, and members of the cabinet and urged them to abandon "the idea of running Germany entirely with emergency decrees." He demanded that they find means of governing the country without continually running to him to proclaim extraordinary measures.

The ire of Germany's grand old man was aroused when he was asked to sign a decree providing that only half of all salaries of state servants and employes of private concerns need be paid at the end of the month. At first he refused to sign the decree, but when he was told that the national coffers were so empty the finance minister believed he would not have enough to pay salaries at the end of the month, he grumblingly agreed.

Balance to Be Paid Next Month.

The government promised that the balance of the salaries will be paid by the tenth of next month, and also decreed that nobody who fails to pay rent owing to the curtailment of his pay can be evicted or sued.

The cabinet tonight was seeking means to soothe the wrath of Austria, Belgium, Switzerland and Szecho-Slovakia, who are protesting against the $23 tax all Germans must pay before they may leave the country. The most strongly worded protest came from the Austrian minister, who pointed out that he had received 2,000 telegrams from small Austrian resorts, which declared they would go bankrupt unless their middle class German holiday clientele is allowed to make excursions to Austria. Wilhelmstrasse promised to consider alterations in the anti-travel ukase.

Communists are working with renewed activity as a result of the general atmosphere of restlessness, and police today raided the communist headquarters here. Communist Deputy Gohlke of the Prussian parliament and a score of his aides were arrested and policemen are spending the night at the headquarters studying the red files. Two communists were killed by police and a policeman was seriously injured at Dortmund tonight when reds and Fascists clashed.

Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, and Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist chairman, united with leaders of the Steel Helmet and peasant organizations today and wired Chancellor Bruening in London, warning him that "despair has grown so great among our tortured people, especially our young people, that the most dangerous ideas are developing in all parts of the country." The statement said the "national opposition will not recognize any new political ties imposed by France."

The Nationalists at a meeting tonight worked out the program for a campaign for a referendum on Aug. 9 to force a dissolution of the Prussian parliament, break the majority of the Socialists and replace it with a Fascist majority.

Demands Foreign Currency.

BERLIN, July 21.—(AP)—An emergency decree issued by the government tonight calls upon all persons domiciled in the country, including incorporated companies, owning foreign currencies or foreign credits to the value of $5,000 and upwards, to offer these currencies and drafts to the reichsbank or allied institutions before July 29.

The reichsbank, the decree said, would decide as quickly as possible whether to take over the funds. Persons owning less than $5,000 in foreign values may be called upon at a later date, the decree added.

CHILE'S WEEK OLD CABINET QUITS IN RELIEF DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 21.—All but two members of Chile's week-old cabinet resigned today. The cabinet officers, with the exception of Minister of War Charpin and Minister of Marine Marchant quit after a disagreement with President Ibanez over economic and financial relief measures.

The resigned cabinet, headed by Premier Pedro Blanquier, was formed four days after the resignation of Premier Jaramillo and after Francisco Garces Gana had failed to form a new government. The third cabinet within a year quit when President Ibanez refused to sign a decree slashing salaries of government employes.

Burn Ibanez in Effigy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, July 21.—A correspondent telephoned from Chile tonight that news of the cabinet's resignation had caused a riot in Santiago and that thousands of residents were milling about the streets of the capital tonight shouting "Down with Ibanez!" and "Up with Liberty!" Mobs, according to reports, are burning effigies of Ibanez.

PARIS PRESS COOL TO NEW HOOVER RELIEF SCHEME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 22.—The new Hoover plan to relieve Germany's situation by maintaining existing credits and studying her "new money" needs was received coolly by the Paris press this morning.

A representative attitude was expressed by the famous political writer, "Pertinax," in the Nationalist Echo de Paris.

"All right, go ahead," he says. "Premier Laval will sit back and say nothing about France's political guarantees until the United States or somebody else inevitably suggests that France transform her short term credits into long term ones, or that France lend Germany new money."

CHICAGO YOUTH IS FINED $500 FOR HAVING ALCOHOL

Denver, Colo., July 21.—[Special.]—Stewart Patterson, a 22 year old youth, formerly of Chicago, was fined $500 and costs today in federal district court after he had pleaded guilty to the transportation of two and a half gallons of alcohol. The youth was graduated from Yale last spring, and with two companions, Thomas Boal and Benjamin Crawford, was arrested last Thursday in Julesburg, Colo.

The town marshal came upon Boal and Crawford scuffing upon the lawn of a Julesburg residence, and arrested them on a disturbance charge. A search of Patterson's automobile revealed the alcohol, which Patterson said he bought in Chicago. Along with the fine, Judge Symes ordered Patterson's automobile restored to him.

The three youths were en route to Medford, Ore., for a vacation. Patterson is the son of the late Stewart Patterson of Chicago and Medford.

WAR PLANE CABLE HITS LINE; SHUTS OFF ELECTRICITY

Electrical service in the suburban area extending along the north shore from Evanston to Lake Bluff and as far west as Niles Center and Park Ridge was cut off for a short time yesterday when an army plane from Fort Sheridan dropped a cable across the 132,000 volt "high line" west of Highwood.

The cable caused a short circuit which, officials of the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois charged, damaged their equipment to the extent of $5,000. The cable was used by the army flyer in towing an aerial target for gunnery practice by anti-aircraft units at the fort. Two similar accidents, involving smaller power lines, have happened in the last few months, utility officials said.

Col. Edward Davis, commandant at Fort Sheridan, said that he had heard of the previous accidents, but not of the one yesterday.

"Apparently it could not have been very serious, or I would have had an official report from the power company officials," he said. "Anyway, the plane was engaged in useful work."

Cicero Clerk Sits Up Late Hoping for Bid on Bonds

The town of Cicero advertised several weeks ago that it would receive bids for a bond issue of $300,000 on July 21. James J. Pelikan, town clerk, kept his office open last night until 8 o'clock to receive the bids, but not one arrived. About $21,000 of the $300,000 was to have been used in paying off 300 clerks and judges of election who have been clamoring for their money.

FRANCE INSISTS SHE HAS REACHED ARMS CUT LIMIT

Says Problem Is Political One, Not Technical.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 21.—France today took advantage of the international powwows, started by President Hoover's moratorium proposal, to launch a campaign for putting teeth in the Kellogg pact, outlawing war, and the league of nations' covenant.

In a 20 page memorandum issued at the Quai d'Orsay this evening the government sets forth its official view, which is that disarmament is impossible unless some sort of an effective international police force is set up under the aegis of the league, or reciprocal obligations are undertaken to prevent aggression by a military force.

An Apology for Arms.

The document is ostensibly a reply to the league's request for information to facilitate the work of the world disarmament conference at Geneva in 1932. In reality it is an apology for French armaments, containing no precise figures. The government does declare, however, that French armaments have been reduced to the lowest possible point "under the present conditions in Europe and the world."

The memorandum explains that the reduction in the period of military service from eighteen months to one year made it necessary to have a large force of professional soldiers on hand. The memorandum does not give the exact number, but THE TRIBUNE understands from a reliable source that long term effectives—those enlisting for service from two to five years—number over 106,000, mostly stationed in the colonies, but also comprising a large expeditionary force normally stationed in France.

The size of the air force was given as 1,219 planes in France, three small dirigibles in the naval air fleet, sixty-two hydroplanes, and 395 planes in the colonies.

France Demands Guarantees.

France, in the memorandum, in no way refuses to consider modification of her armaments, but on this question, as well as the financial one, she demands guarantees.

"The task of the coming conference should be rather to seek a political than a technical solution, because it is the general international situation that requires to be modified," the memorandum states. "And France will be ready to collaborate in any system of organization for world peace based on mutual assistance in case of aggression in which the nature and guarantees of such assistance has been clearly defined."

The memorandum points out that the existing treaties admit the close relationship between armaments and national security, and that in conformity with these provisions France has based her armaments upon "a minimum that accords with her geographical situation and special conditions of national security."

France Outlines Her Need.

"But without the assurance and guarantee of action in common by the various nations in the event of aggression, France, which has been invaded three times in the last century, will require land forces in proportion to the very forces needed by the great maritime powers," the memorandum further specifies.

Another important point brought out relates to the position of Germany, whose armaments were fixed by the treaty of Versailles. Treaties have limited the armaments of certain countries, and the treaty provides that other countries shall reduce, but nowhere is it specified that either the methods or the degree of disarmament, which has been fixed for the first class powers, should be adopted by others. In order that these countries be legitimately held to equality in armaments it would be necessary that their situations and special needs be studied, which seems improbable for any two nations, the French argue.

The memorandum finally contends that insecurity for one state means insecurity for all, and the idea of security is incompatible with the notion of solidarity of states.

GERMANY ARGUES TREATY DOES NOT SHACKLE AUSTRIA

Berlin Concludes Its Side Before World Court.

THE HAGUE, July 21.—(AP)—Concluding Germany's side of the proposed Austrian customs treaty, Dr. Victor Bruns told the world court today that the projected treaty alienated Austria's sovereignty no more than did Germany's relations with the United States on the mixed claims commission.

DR. VICTOR BRUNS. [A. P. Photo.]

Dr. Bruns, who had been speaking since yesterday afternoon, will be followed tomorrow morning by Dr. Erich Kaufmann, professor of law at the University of Vienna, who will expound Austrian reaction to the treaty.

Discusses Sovereignty.

Discussing the aspect of violating Austrian sovereignty and independence, as opponents of the projected customs accord put forth, Dr. Bruns said:

"Germany never alienated her independence by acting on a committee with the United States in matters following the war."

"We requested America to name an American umpire and they did," he said. "After many years experience, I am happy to say that Germany cannot complain of an American majority on this commission. Did Germany alienate her independence when she placed her future in the hands of an American?

Denies Charges of Foes.

Among the points made in his summary, Dr. Bruns said any undertaking under which any nation agrees to refrain from doing a thing, or agrees to limit activities in any way, is in truth a violation of its independence of action, but the law recognized the power of respective states to enter into such agreements voluntarily.

A blanket denial was made by Dr. Bruns that any function of the Austrian government whatsoever would be in the slightest way infringed by the projected union.

Dr. Bruns discussed other treaties, among them the Austro-Italian accord, under which both nations set an arbitrary list of customs duties on interchanged products. Dr. Bruns claimed this in fact is no farther than the Austro-German project planned to go.

THREE CONFESS HOLDUP MURDER ON SOUTH SIDE

The murder of Oscar Erickson, 23 years old, 340 West 118th street, a vendor for the South Shore Good Humor Ice Cream company, during an attempted holdup at 115th and Halsted streets on June 4, was believed by the police to be solved last night with the arrest of three young men by Capt. Michael Grady of Kensington station. According to Capt. Grady, the three confessed that Erickson was shot when he resisted their attempt to take from him the $13 he had in his pockets.

The prisoners are Joseph Bielecki, 18 years old, 15101 Second avenue, Phoenix; Stanley Sroka, 17, of 640 East 151st place, Phoenix, and Edward Smith, 20, of 326 East 147th street, Harvey. A fourth youth, Robert Ver Wey, implicated in the confessions, is being sought by the police. According to Capt. Grady, Bielecki confessed firing the fatal shot and said Ver Wey stood beside him while the other two sat in an automobile nearby.

County Police Seize Slot Machines in Cicero Raids

County highway policemen under Lieut. Edward Weber of the Willow Springs station made two slot machine raids in Cicero yesterday. At an ice cream parlor at 2500 South Cicero avenue, owned allegedly by Mrs. Anna Georgackis, 37 years old, the raiders confiscated two machines. Two more were taken at the Western Lunch room next door at 2502 South Cicero avenue. George Marinos was held as keeper there.

FATALLY STABBED BY PARING KNIFE IN WOMAN'S HAND

Edward Henry Brandt, 45 years old, was stabbed and fatally wounded last evening, apparently by accident, with a small paring knife held by his sister-in-law, Mrs. Leah Tippet, in the kitchen of his home at 6938 Dante avenue.

MRS. LEAH TIPPET.

Mrs. Tippet, who is 39 years old; her 12 year old son, Harry, and Mrs. Vera Brandt, wife of Edward, were all in the kitchen when Brandt arrived home. He stepped over near the sink where Mrs. Tippet was peeling tomatoes and said "Hello." Mrs. Tippet turned quickly. The knife she held, which had a blade only about 3 inches long, struck Brandt in the side and touched his heart.

According to the story later told to the police and Coroner Bundesen neither of the women nor the boy was aware that Brandt was injured until he fell after walking into a hallway next to the kitchen. A physician was called, but Brandt died before he arrived.

Brandt was a switchman employed by the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. Mrs. Tippet, a divorcée, had made her home with the Brandts for several years. Although the coroner and the police expressed belief in the story she told, Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the Woodlawn station ordered that the sisters, the boy, and John Shipley, father-in-law of the man killed, all be held for the inquest today.

50 POLICE GUARD PRISON TO FOIL BOMBING PLOT

Fifty highway policemen stood guard around the penitentiary at Stateville, near Joliet, yesterday afternoon after Warden Henry C. Hill had heard rumors of a convict plot to bomb the walls. The warden kept his guards on the walls with machine guns ready, but there was no outbreak.

Two o'clock in the afternoon was to have been the "zero hour" for the attack, according to the information received by the warden. Seven hundred convicts working in the yard, repairing damage caused in the recent fire, and 1,400 convicts in their cells remained quiet, however.

Last night, quiet still reigned and the prison authorities decided that the information had been false or that the plotters had been alarmed by the extra guards.

TENNESSEE GUARDS USE BAYONETS, TAKE PRISONER FROM 5,000

Springfield, Tenn., July 21.—(AP)—Pushing their way with bayonets, National Guardsmen tonight made their way through a crowd estimated by them at 5,000 and started for Nashville with Everett Holloway, whom they were called to protect after his arrest yesterday for seriously wounding Sheriff J. Mart Murphy.

Holloway was placed in a car with five guardsmen followed by another car of troops, shortly after 40 guardsmen had arrived to reinforce thirteen who had guarded the jail since early afternoon.

Maj. C. C. Robinson said the crowds jammed the sidewalks as Holloway was brought out and that the troops cleared a path with their bayonets.

The situation became tense this afternoon when the guardsmen were deterred from taking Holloway out of the county by James Murphy, brother of the wounded sheriff.

POLICE BITTEN, BEATEN, KICKED IN ONE GIRL RIOT

Riot squads were sent from the Des Plaines street police station last night when it was reported a crowd of 500 men and women were milling about and fighting at Morgan and Madison streets.

When the details arrived at the scene they found that all but one in the crowd were spectators. Miss Marie Gallagher, 30 years old, 1411 West Washington boulevard, however, was almost a full sized riot in herself. She had announced, the police were told, that she was descended from the queens of Ireland and would not stand for any interference. Besides, she had punched several men who tried to enter a store in the door of which she had taken her stand.

The police arrested her. But the accident report at the station showed that Sergt. Michael Jennings had been struck on the nose, that Policeman Charles Foote had bruises and cuts where Miss Gallagher had kicked him, and that Wagonman James Clune had been bitten on the leg so severely that he had to go to the county hospital for treatment and then home for a rest. Miss Gallagher, who had been arrested on Sunday for fighting at Western avenue and Madison street, and dismissed in the Des Plaines street court yesterday morning, was again charged with disorderly conduct.

OPEN VERDICT IS RETURNED IN PAVLEY DEATH

An open verdict was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the Chicago avenue police station after investigating the death last June 26 of Andreas Pavley, 38 years old, internationally known dancer and former ballet master of the Chicago Civic Opera company. The jury could not determine if Pavley leaped or fell to his death from his sixteenth floor suite in the McCormick hotel, 616 Rush street.

Serge Oukrainsky, whose real name is Leonidas Orlay de Carva, a Russian nobleman and partner of Pavley in a dancing school at 64 East Jackson boulevard, identified a letter he received from Pavley while in Paris, which was written the day before Pavley's death. A translation of the letter, originally in French, was read in part. He spoke in the letter of the extortion demand to pay $100 under threat of alleged scandalous exposure which had been made of him. The extortion letter, signed "Edward Wall," was exhibited. Oukrainsky testified he did not believe his friend had sought death.

Edward G. Wall, who said he was a newspaper reporter from Pueblo, Colo., was arrested on suspicion when he appeared at the postoffice on the Monday after Pavley's death, the day his payment of $100 was asked by the extortionist. Wall, who has been held in the county jail for 23 days, denied that he had heard of Pavley before and denied all knowledge of the letter. After questioning him Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewel recommended his release. Handwriting experts declared he had not written the letter, police testified. He will appear in Felony court today on a disorderly conduct charge.

U. S. Jury Convicts Alien of Transporting Narcotics

Edward Bender, former German seaman and an alien, was found guilty of possessing and transporting narcotics by a jury in Federal Judge Barnes' court yesterday. He will be sentenced today. Evidence presentd by Assistant United States Attorney Mary D. Bailey showed that Bender was arrested in the Palmer house two months ago with a suitcase which contained $50,000 worth of opium, morphine, and cocaine which the prosecutor said was sent here by a New York dope syndicate. Prosecutor Bailey received word of the shipment when Bender left New York, she said.

MUNICIPAL COURT HEADS REFUSE TO ACCEPT PAY CUTS

Office Luxury Revealed in Controversy.

Chief Justice Sonsteby, Clerk Gill and Bailiff Horan of the Municipal court refused yesterday to agree to salary deductions totaling $5,200 for themselves and their employés under Mayor Cermak's economy plan.

City hall employés who are being docked 14 days' pay under the economy plan were quick to point out public records which showed that Municipal court officials have spent $7,200 recently in furnishing their private offices.

The court executives each sent a letter to City Controller Szymczak, stating that the plan to deduct fourteen days' pay from the wages of all city employés could not under the law be applied to themselves and their staffs. News that the court employés were to escape the pay cut moved other employés to delve into council proceedings and other records and bring forth the details of the luxury with which the three officials furnished their offices.

They took office the first of the year, and authorizations for the furniture for Clerk Gill and Bailiff Horan were approved by the council under the previous administration. No record of an authorization for the chief justice's expenditure could be found.

Old Furniture Removed.

All of their offices were completely furnished when they entered them. That furniture, however, was turned over to the city hall custodian, to be renovated and redistributed as minor officials asked for it.

Bailiff Horan stated in his letter to the controller: "I beg to advise that I believe this is a laudable and economic policy of the mayor to pursue [referring to the pay cuts]. However, on the advice of the chief justice of the Municipal court, and also my personal attorney, I understand this ordinance does not apply to the Municipal court act and it would materially affect the workings of the court, for which I personally am liable under bond."

The pay roll deduction which he refused to make for himself and his employés, constituting one day's pay for the pay period ending July 15, was $1,700. The employés in other departments found another of the city council authorizing payment of more than twice that sum, $3,542 to be exact, to furnish Horan's office.

New Furniture Listed.

The list of the furnishings follows:

Table to match	80
Telephone stand [with cupboard], solid walnut	40
Waste basket, solid walnut	16
Container, solid walnut	16
Revolving chair	45
Four side chairs	156
Letter tray	5.75
Two bronze supporters	7.50
Furniture for secretary's office, also solid walnut	456
General office furniture	1,706
Furniture for a second office	194
Carpeting for three offices	618

In the furniture listed for the second office there was an item of $30 for "one swivel chair of extra heavy construction," indicating that that piece of furniture might have been for the office of Chief Deputy William J. Connors, who weighs approximately 300 pounds.

The one day's pay which Clerk Gill refused to trim off pay rolls in his department amounted to $2,400. A council authorization for the expenditure of $2,406 for his office was brought forth.

The larger items on Gill's list were:

Senator desk	$360
Senator table	240
Revolving chair to match	84
Waste basket	28
Two letter trays	28
Davenport	200
Club chair	120
Carpeting reception room	250
Carpeting private office	225
Carpeting small office	136

Deductions on the chief justice's pay roll, which he says cannot legally be made, amounted to $980, and those for court probation officers, $156. A complete list of the expenditures for furnishing his office could not be found, but a partial list totaled $1,237.

Attached to a requisition for some of the purchases was a letter from John A. Cervenka, acting city purchasing agent, dated June 23, which stated:

"Evidently these goods already have been received. This department prefers not to handle these requisitions, inasmuch as it has not been given the opportunity to secure competitive bids."

Eight pairs of casement cloth curtains	$356
Oak desk	200
Walnut waste basket	16.50
Oak waste basket	10
Carpeting, 200 yards	574
Two letter trays	14
Telephone stand	32
Container	10

Mayor Cermak was informed of the refusal of the court officials to put the pay roll cuts into effect. He called Chief Justice Sonsteby on the telephone.

"You have the law on your side," the mayor assured him, "but don't you think you are taking the wrong attitude? What will you do if we can't pay your rolls?"

Judges to Discuss Cut.

He was informed that the judges of the Municipal court would meet later in the week to discuss the retrenchment plan and expressed the hope that they would adopt the fourteen day pay cut. In addition to the city, he stated, the library board, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, county and forest preserve district have adopted it, while the sanitary district and park boards were reported to be considering it.

Although 116 beds have been added to the tuberculosis sanitarium since April, the cost of operation and maintenance has been reduced there under the present administration. The average cost of caring for a patient for one month has been cut from $21 to $17, while $140,000 has been saved through elimination of unnecessary positions and reduction of miscellaneous expenses, the mayor stated.

500 TEACHERS ASK SCHOOL BOARD TO GIVE UP SCRIP PLAN

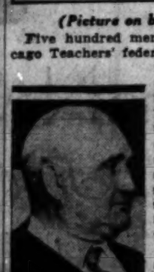
Five hundred members of the Chicago Teachers' federation appealed to the school board yesterday to drop the scrip plan. They urged that the board pay its employés in tax anticipation warrants of small denomination instead of in scrip based on a tax warrant trust.



HAYDEN N. BELL.

The federation meeting was addressed by County Treasurer J. B. McDonough, his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, and County Attorney Hayden N. Bell. They laid the failure to pay the teachers as well as all of the other financial troubles of local government at the door of the board of assessors.

They declared the board had failed to expedite the assessment process necessary before taxes can be collected.

"It is an unwieldy, overgrown organization," Attorney Bell said. "The only hope for relief is to get a competent organization which will formulate an assessment roll in which there is no suggestion of fraud."

He pointed out that he was attacking the present assessment system and not the individual officers functioning under it.

in revenue of $5,000,000. In the second place, John E. Conroy of the board of assessors has said that the tax assessments will be reduced at least 25 per cent. That will cut our taxes a quarter."

Reduction of Expenditures.

"Do you not think that expenditures should be cut in a business depression such as we are having?" asked Mr. Nixon.

"I think we should eliminate everything that will not reduce service," replied Clark, "when taxes on real estate have gotten to the point of almost confiscation. I believe that some of the service should be reduced."

"How can that be accomplished?"

"By getting the coöperation of the city administration," replied Ald. Clark.

"Mayor Cermak when he was before the committee said that economies could be effected if he could get the coöperation of the council," commented Mr. Thomason. "Why can't you get together, and put some of these ideas into effect?"

Jobs Assigned to Committees.

Attorney Max Murdock for the governor's commission interrogated Ald. Clark at length on the jobs assigned to the council committees.

"The total appropriation for these this year is about $1,000,000," said Mr. Murdock. "Couldn't those services be performed by the administrative departments of the city?"

"Some of those jobs could be eliminated," replied Clark, "but I ask that you question the chairmen of the various committees. For my own committee — finance — I believe that the expense of the staff is fully justified for legislative purposes."

"Would you say that this $22,000 item of your committee is necessary?" asked Murdock, scanning the list of appropriations.

"That is for the purpose of tax investigations," replied Ald. Clark. "This year perhaps $12,000 of it will be spent and it will aid the city in getting omitted property on the tax books."

"Would you care to comment on this item of $33,340 for auto maintenance paid the aldermen at $60 per month?"

"No, except that I think the aldermen spend much more than that in looking after their duties."

Defends Expenditure Increase.

"Would you justify the increase in the city corporate expenditures?"

"The increase in the corporate expenditures has been less than for any other local government. More money could be spent to the advantage of the citizens."

"Do you think it expedient under present conditions to spend more?" asked Mr. Thomason.

"No," replied Clark, "not when taxes are so burdensome."

"Don't you think this is the time to spend considerably less?"

"Yes, I do."

Ald. Clark promised to write and submit his suggestions for economy.

Nelson on License Bureau.

Ald. Nelson was asked for his opinion on the abolition of the license bureau.

"I believe that it is advantageous to keep it," said Nelson. "The present mayor has recently added 75 men to that bureau and I understand they have collected $700,000 more in revenue."

Ald. Clark said that he thought several bureaus and departments could be consolidated and that it would result in economy.

Asked for a general statement, Ald. John A. Massen [48th] said:

"To make substantial savings, such as this commission apparently has in mind, the trimming out of jobs will be insufficient. You must have wholesale consolidation of local governments, and you must cut the high cost of constructing public works and of buying supplies."

Ald. Nelson made a plea for the spending of bond money to provide employment.

The commission adjourned until next Tuesday when the members of the board of assessors will be asked to appear and submit to interrogation.

Insists Money Was Only a Loan.

Members of the special grand jury probed last night in their examination of police captains and police captains' bank accounts to inquire about a $300 check made payable to William J. Balmer and cashed by Balmer last December when he was the $6,000 a year commissioner of public service in the former city administration. Balmer appeared before the jury and said the $300 was a loan not yet repaid but which would be repaid some day when he had the money.

The check was taken from the pockets of William D Shideler, 6915 Yale avenue, when Shideler was brought to the state's attorney's office a week ago on information he was concealing about not having received his fifty cents from Balmer, who is the Republican committeeman of the 17th ward in which Shideler lives. The check had been canceled and bears the indorsement of Balmer the name of Edward F. Moore appeared as its reverse side.

Tells Why He Wrote Check.

Shideler said he was a 60-day city employe by virtue of Balmer's influence during the last administration at $200 a month. He was a machinery inspector in the city engineer's office and he had taken a civil service examination in the hopes of keeping the job during ensuing administrations. He and William Rogers, 3212 West Garfield avenue, felt sure they would surpass other contestants in the examinations because the questions were technical and fitted perfectly to their jobs. But the civil service commission didn't post the results of the examination.

"I met Balmer," said Shideler to Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Stoffle, "I asked him about the posting of the list and he said it would be safe to swing it."

When Shideler was asked to sign the statement he corrected that reply of Balmer's to read: "I need some cash. About $300."

Balmer was then manager of the former mayor's campaign and Moore, then deputy commissioner of public works was secretary. Moore told the state's attorney's office he had added the indorsement to the check as an accommodation so Balmer could cash it at a loop hotel.

Says Balmer Kept Money.

"Was it a campaign contribution?" Moore was asked.

"No," he replied, "the money was kept by Balmer."

Predicts New Contract Plan Will Save Millions for City

Millions of dollars in excess profits will be trimmed off city contracts by the ordinance requiring all contractors on public works of the city to keep a uniform system of accounts and to file duplicates of such accounts. This was predicted yesterday by Ald. John A. Massen [48th], sponsor of the measure.

JOHN A. MASSEN. [U. & U. Photo.]

The ordinance, introduced in the council on Monday with a recommendation for passage by the committee on efficiency, reorganization, and consolidation, will come up for a final vote on July 30.

The ordinance requires that the city controller shall prescribe a uniform system of accounts for all contractors and subcontractors on public works. The contractors shall conform to that system of accounting, and shall furnish the controller with such duplicate records, memoranda, or accounts as he demands.

Must Keep Accounts Five Years.

The original accounts on any public work must be retained by the contractor for five years after it is finished, unless he obtains permission from the city to destroy them. For failure to comply with the provisions of the ordinance, the city is empowered to withhold payments for the work, or to recover such payments as shall have been made.

"Competitive bidding has failed to produce minimum prices for public work, equipment, materials and supplies," said Ald. Massen in introducing the ordinance in the council. "The possibility of criminal prosecution has failed to prevent excessive prices for these things. Apparently the situation permits of no alternative except publicity."

Wolfe Contract Recalled.

Last December Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works under the administration then in office, was summoned before the council committee on efficiency and questioned regarding the contract for the north approach to the Wabash avenue bridge, let by his office.

The contract for the work was not let to the lowest bidder. The city has since refused to pay the Ketler-Elliott company, which did the work, for the full amount of its contract, on the ground that some of its charges were excessive.

In the examination of Wolfe, Ald. Massen suggested the necessity for a uniform accounting system with provisions for publicity through duplicate accounts furnished the city. The same plan was advocated on March 12 by George E. Q. Johnson, United States district attorney, in a speech before the Chicago better business bureau, in which he commented on the disclosure of graft in public contracts in the federal income tax prosecutions.

The jury then proceeded to question Police Capts. John Ptacek, Michael Tobin and Albert Christensen about their personal finances and Capt. Luke Garrick about a gambling raid.

CHICAGO MAN KILLED ON HIGHWAY.

Valparaiso, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—A man, 25 years old, struck and killed by a motorist on Dunes highway Saturday afternoon, has been identified as Ben Saldman of Chicago.

Fred G. Campbell Becomes Clerk of U. S. Appeal Court

Fred G. Campbell, 5138 Cornell avenue, for 32 years chief deputy clerk of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, was appointed clerk yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the death on Saturday of Edward M. Holloway. He was sworn in by Judges Samuel Alschuler and Will M. Sparks.

DENIES FURTHER DELAYS ON TAX SALE OBJECTIONS

Friday Is Deadline, Judge Warns.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki announced yesterday that there will be no extension from Friday noon of the deadline for filing objections to the sale of real estate for 1929 taxes. The closing time previously had been set for noon Tuesday but three day extension has been granted.

"We will start classifying the objections as soon as the deadline passes and then will conduct hearings upon each kind of objection," Judge Jarecki explained. He said he could not determine the number of objections filed, but that 12,000 to 15,000 might be a fair estimate. Only about 15 new objections were filed yesterday, the bulk having come in the day before.

Commenting upon a suit filed by Attorney Robert N. Holt, representing 100 clients, charging, among other things, that two county bond issues totaling $5,500,000 are illegal, Judge Jarecki said:

"These issues have not been declared illegal but if they are questioned in the courts and declared legal, the objections will automatically be thrown out. If they are declared illegal, cuts in taxes will be made."

Twenty Illinois organizations of private land owners and the property owners' divisions of real estate boards were invited by the Illinois Association of Real Estate boards to hold special meetings to formulate suggestions for solution of the tax problem. The suggestions will be submitted to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission.

Mrs. Stuart Logan

Beautiful. Chic. Wouldn't you guess she is French? With dresser drawers full of gorgeous pink satin and lace lingerie? With linen shelves groaning under piles of priceless Flat Venise lace and Rose Point lace tablecloths and tinted bed linens?

How would you launder such treasures?

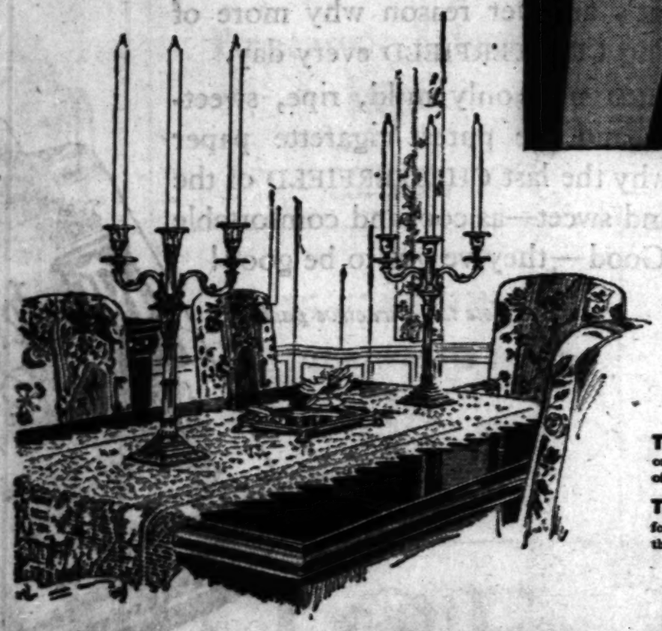
"This lingerie," says Mrs. Logan, "has never been laundered in anything but American Family Flakes, and you see it looks just as pink and satiny as new. (It certainly does.)

"This chiffon (picking up an exquisite bit of pink fluff and Alençon) has been laundered constantly for three years, and hasn't faded or worn at all.

"You'd think these napkins were never used (slipping caressing fingers under the most gorgeous needlework you ever saw), but they've been laundered regularly for years, and just see how white and new they look. Do you wonder I love American Family Flakes?

"I wouldn't trust my beautiful china to any other soap, either. It never eats off the gold patterns or leaves soap film on my ebony glassware, or silver, or crystal. We buy American Family Flakes by the two-dozen packages, and use it for all our household cleaning. I know I owe the long wear and beauty of my things to the purity of this fine soap."

If you want that same satisfaction—that same economy with all your washables—use American Family Flakes and Soap, for dishwashing, household cleaning, and laundering. The sooner you begin, the more you save.



Her husband is the retired financier. Her home, two sunny floors overlooking Lincoln Park. Furnishings, French—of exquisite silk-brocade. French boudoir. Dining room, summery in flowered-linen chair slips and draperies. Colored tile bathrooms, curtains, objets d'art, everything shining with American Family Flakes cleanness—up to the very-very-modern roof garden whose gay summer furniture has its daily double-suds bath. Two small daughters supply the laundry with plenty of frocks, undies, sports woolens. "But this soap makes washing and ironing awfully easy, and no worry about anything spoiling—even my hands," says smiling Helen, the Logan laundress.

The Flakes—double-sudsing—the only soap trusted with the costly laundry of 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women.

The Cake Soap—double-sudsing—for 90 years used by more Chicago women than all other laundry soaps combined.

Brosius spoke up again and said it wasn't true.

"We'll see," said the stout man, going back downstairs.

Robbers Bind 5 Captives.

He was away about twenty minutes. He returned, bringing a clothes line for the prisoners and word for his confederate that the truck had arrived. Miss Brosius, the Christiansens, their daughter, and Miss Decker, were laid on the floor and bound, hand and foot.

"There are seven of us now," said the slim man, "so don't try to wriggle out and call the police."

The prisoners were left alone in the room. It was 5 o'clock when Christiansen loosened his bonds, untied the others, and led them downstairs. He called the police.

The house was in order. The paintings, antique china, and tapestries adorning the rooms were undisturbed.

Pre-War Whisky Taken.

Then came Lieut. Carl Ekman and a police squad. The search led to the basement. There, outside the door of a wine bin, were twenty empty cases bearing such labels as John Dewar, Black and White, Old Crow, and Old Smuggler.

"Pre-war stuff," said Lieut. Ekman, tracing the dust on the looted cases.

"I can still hardly believe it," averred Miss Brosius. "I could have sworn there wasn't a drop in the house."

CALIFORNIA'S GRAPE MEN SEEK NEW U. S. LOAN

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Despite the fact that drought has cut the prospective California grape crop some 30 per cent below last year's production of more than 2,100,000 pounds, the grape growers intend to ask the federal farm board for another loan, it was announced today by Ralph Merritt, Washington representative of the California grape control board.

CHICAGOAN AND 2 GIRLS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Two Others Hurt in Indiana Accident.

Three persons were instantly killed and two others critically injured yesterday when the roadster in which all five were riding overturned on the highway near Crawfordsville, Ind. One of the dead and both the injured were Chicagoans. The dead:

William Ennis Seaman, 24, 6751 West Grand avenue.

Elizabeth Coffman, 18, of New Richmond, Ind., and Louise, 16, her sister.

Seaman's brother, Charles, 22, and the latter's fiancé, Miss Elinor Wood, 20, were critically injured. The two brothers and Miss Wood were visiting the young men's mother, Mrs. Elisabeth Seaman of New Richmond.

There were no automobile fatalities in Cook county yesterday and the year's toll remained at 629.

Dudley S. Young, 1101 Columbia avenue, was freed yesterday when a coroner's jury declared accidental the death of Francis Fitzpatrick, retired architect, who was fatally injured in Evanston, July 10. Young had been charged with manslaughter but this was changed to speeding when testimony brought out that he was exceeding the speed limit when the accident occurred.

A man who was struck and killed by a motorist on the Dunes highway Saturday was identified yesterday as Ben Seidman, 21, of Chicago. Identification was made through a card of a San Francisco society found in a coat pocket.

DUKE OF NORFOLK IS HARD UP AND SELLS VILLAGE

LONDON, July 21.—Littlehampton, a Sussex summer resort, this morning discovered that it had changed hands, and the inhabitants are wondering what the new owners are going to do with it. The young duke of Norfolk, proprietor of all property in Littlehampton, except the Catholic church, two hotels and one farm, today announced that he had sold his holdings to a real estate firm because of the heavy taxation.

The town council is perturbed, since the duke allowed the commons adjoining the sea front to be used by the public, and it is feared that the new owners may supplant the quiet green with shops.

The duke of Norfolk explained he needed the money and could not withhold the public green. He is 23 years old.

SCHUTTLER JR. CRITICALLY HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Car Runs Into Ditch with Wagon Maker's Heir.

Peter Schuttler Jr., wealthy retired grandson of the wagon builder, Peter Schuttler, was critically injured last evening when the automobile in which he was driving alone swerved from the roadway just west of Central Park avenue in Church street, Niles Center, and overturned. Three motorists who were driving behind Schuttler and witnessed the accident dragged him from the wreckage.

He was taken to the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, where he was found to have internal injuries and fractures of the left leg.

Find Car Is Borrowed.

Policeman Lan Murphy of Niles Center searched the wreckage of the large roadster and discovered a half emptied bottle of whisky. Investigation showed that the license plates had been issued to Arthur J. Braun, 1142 South Michigan avenue. Braun told the police that Schuttler had borrowed the car.

The witnesses, Julius Brunner, 4010 Morton street, and David Kennedy, 5204 North Leavitt street, who were riding in one car, and Mrs. Florence Hobbs of Niles Center, who was alone in a second, were unable to give any reason for the accident. They said that the road ahead was clear and that Schuttler was driving westward at a moderate rate of speed. Suddenly, they said, the car's front wheels left the pavement and it plunged into a four foot ditch beside the road.

Assists in Own Rescue.

Schuttler was conscious and gave his directions to help in extricating him from the wrecked car. His mother, Mrs. Peter Schuttler, 2800 Lake View avenue, was summoned to the hospital at his request.

Schuttler lives at 637 Drexel avenue, Glencoe. His grandfather, Peter Schuttler I., founded his wagon industry in 1838 in a shop at Randolph and Franklin streets. The Schuttler name became known to farmers throughout the nation during the 80's and 90's.

MILWAUKEE COP SEIZES BANDIT TRIO IN ILLINOIS

Policeman Ray Smith of Milwaukee was off duty yesterday and improved his time by crossing the state border into Illinois and capturing three young hoodlums who admitted thirty holdups in his home city.

With his wife and two children, the policeman decided early in the morning to drive to Evanston and spend the day with relatives. The family stopped for breakfast at Fehr's restaurant on Waukegan road near Deerfield, ordered some sandwiches and sat in their car eating as a sedan containing three youths drew alongside. Two of its occupants entered the restaurant, one carrying a small bag. The third fumbled in the pocket of a rear door then opened the door so violently that it banged against Smith's car.

"Here, what're you doing?" the policeman objected.

"Keep your face closed," snarled the other and drew a pistol from his pocket.

"You march inside that place," ordered Smith, pulling his own gun. Inside, the others were eating, close to the cash register. The bag contained a revolver, a glass cutter, and some keys. Smith took the three to the Deerfield police station, where they admitted the thirty robberies and added that their car had been stolen on Monday night. Their names, they said, were Raymond Hollencamp, 18 years old, 438 South 28th street, Milwaukee; John Cissa, 18 years old, 1818 South 31st street, and Willard Bartelmehs, 16 years old, 1337 South 26th street. They were returned to Milwaukee.

Does Your Automobile Insurance Policy Say What You Think It Does?

If your car should be burned or stolen, will your insurance company pay you the amount stated in the policy? The amount named in the policy is a valuation used to determine the cost of the insurance, the rate for fire and theft insurance being a certain price per hundred dollars of valuation.

The policy says that in the event of a total loss you will receive an amount not to exceed the actual loss sustained, the settlement to be agreed upon by you and the adjuster for the insurance company. This is the policy known as the "non valued" form.

Then there is the "valued form" policy. Under the terms of this policy you are paid the face value of the policy, the amount on which you have paid premium.

The Inter-Insurance Exchange of the Chicago Motor Club issues a VALUED FORM POLICY, which covers you anywhere in the United States or Canada.

Other services of the club are: Free mechanical first aid and towing service, home district service, accident prevention work, travel service, and bail bond service.

SEA MONSTER OF PUT-IN-BAY CAUGHT ALIVE

25 Feet Long and Has a Mean Look.

Sandusky, O., July 21.—[Special.]—The terror of the deep which of recent weeks has been scaring fishermen into quitting fishing and rum runners into reform is a captive.

The sea-serpent that has played tag with the rum fleet off Sandusky and Put-in-Bay, causing the speed boats to speed faster than the government could, lies tonight an ignoble prisoner in a tightly nailed packing box.

Two fishermen who were attacked so suddenly they could not flee socked the monster so successfully with heavy oars that they were able to rope and get it and drag it ashore.

That's the story of the fishermen—Clifford Wilson and Frank Cogenstose of Cincinnati—but the existence of the reptile, fish or beast is confirmed by at least four other persons.

Confirmed by Policeman.

The four are Police Capt. Leo Schively, E. L. Mays, managing editor of an afternoon paper; and C. J. Irwin and Mel Harmon, reporters.

They reported the thing was surely alive; that it is 20 to 25 feet long, and 12 inches thick. Its back is black, dark green and gray and its belly is a dead white. The head they describe as 9 inches long and 9 wide, yellow in color but with a black coronet.

The Cincinnatians said they were fishing for lake bass when the monster suddenly appeared above the water near their boat and started to swim in their direction with the evident intention of attacking them.

Sock It With Oar.

Knowing it was too late for flight, Wilson grabbed and oar and hit the horrendous thing over the head, stunning it. They hit it again and again to make sure. Then Wilson threw out a rope net and pulled the serpent near the boat so they could tow it in.

Their catch began to show signs of returning consciousness when they got it on the beach, Wilson and Cogenstose continued, so they obtained a packing box, coiled their catch into it, and nailed the box shut.

By that time the monster was thrashing about and neither the fishermen nor any of the curious who gathered about the box would take a chance on opening it.

Look Out for Mrs. Serpent.

While thousands milled about tonight trying to see the monster, Wilson announced it would be taken to Cincinnati and presented to the zoo there.

Toledo and Put-in-Bay beaches are deserted tonight in fear the serpent's mate is lurking somewhere in Lake Erie's dark water.

AS SEA SERPENT REVEALED ITSELF 25 YEARS AGO

Drawing of the sea serpent made in 1906 by M. J. Nicoll, naturalist with Lord Crawford's expedition, who saw the creature from the ship Valhalla. The picture shows that the serpent bears some resemblance to the serpent reported to have been captured in Sandusky bay by Cincinnati fishermen, who describe it as 20 feet long, a foot in diameter, black, dark green and white, and covered with a hide like that of an alligator. [Illustrated London News Picture.]

85 PCT. OF CARS TESTED IN LANES FOUND DEFECTIVE

Approximately 85 per cent of the automobiles which passed through the safety test lanes of the Chicago Safety council and the city council traffic committee on Monday were defective in some respect, according to results of the first day's tests announced officially yesterday.

Three thousand cars were submitted to the tests during the day in the seven lanes in various parts of the city. It was estimated that this number increased to 5,000 yesterday. The tests are to be given free each day of the week as part of a safety week campaign.

Of the 85 per cent of the cars found defective on Monday, 49 per cent had faulty lights; 30 per cent, bad brakes; 17 per cent, improperly aligned wheels; 7 per cent, loose steering apparatus, and 1 per cent, defective horns, rear mirrors, or windshield wipers.

SEXTON STUDIES PHONE GRANT FOR POSSIBLE FLAWS

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday was working on an analysis of the new franchise grant to the Illinois Bell Telephone company which the city council passed late Monday night by a vote of 37 to 12. His legal opinion on the ordinance will be submitted to Mayor Cermak.

Asked for his opinion on the ordinance yesterday, Mayor Cermak said: "I am going to go over the ordinance with Corporation Counsel Sexton and others who know more about it than I do. I shall be governed by their recommendations."

Without the mayor's signature the ordinance, which gives the telephone company a grant for 23 years, will not become in force until the next council meeting, July 30. The mayor, also, has until that meeting to veto the ordinance.

Within 24 hours after the ordinance is signed, or becomes effective otherwise, according to Ald. Jacob M. Arvey (24th), chairman of the committee that drafted the franchise, the company will pay to the city $4,250,000 back compensation due since the expiration of the old ordinance in January, 1929.

Delegations from labor unions are expected to ask the mayor to veto the ordinance.

M'GURN AND WIFE SENTENCED IN MANN ACT CASE

He Must Go to U. S. Prison, She to Jail.

"Machine Gun Jack" McGurn, public enemy and reputed executioner for the Capone gang, was sentenced to Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday on his conviction of conspiracy to violate the Mann act. Louise Rolfe, the gangster's "blond alibi" in the St. Valentine day massacre case, was sentenced to four months in the Cook county jail.

JUDGE LINDLEY.

McGurn, whose real name is Vincent Gebardi, and the girl, whom he married shortly before the Mann act case came to trial, were tried without a jury and adjudged guilty by the court. McGurn was sentenced to two years, the maximum for conspiracy, on each of three counts, the terms to run consecutively, but he was admitted to probation for a period of five years on the last two counts, during which time he must get an honest job and violate neither state nor national laws. With time off for good behavioir, he actually will have to serve approximately 19 months unless he is paroled.

Judge Explains His Stand.

"There was no commercial purpose involved in the transportation charged," said Judge Lindley, "but such purpose is not a material element of the crime forbidden by the Mann act."

Later the judge remarked:

"So long as we believe in the principle of monogamous marriage, the marriage vows must be observed. This crime is serious. If our civilization is to amount to anything, we must observe the moral traditions which have come down to us through the ages."

Before the court had pronounced sentence, Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson asserted that a bellboy could have testified that he saw a machine gun and 1,000 rounds of ammunition in one of McGurn's bags at the Dallas Park hotel, Miami, when the gangster stayed there with Louise from Dec. 25 to 31, 1928. This was six weeks before the massacre of seven "Bugs" Moran gangsters in a Clark street garage, and McGurn was arrested with Louise in the Stevens hotel on Feb. 27, 1929.

Trace Travels of Pair.

The government's evidence traced the movements of the pair from the La Salle hotel in Chicago to Miami and return, and on another trip to St. Augustine, then to Biloxi, and back to Chicago. Hotel employés told of their registering as man and wife under various aliases and occupying the same suites.

The case was perhaps the costliest, considering the length of the trial—two days—ever prosecuted here. The court costs were about $4,000. More than 80 witnesses were subpoenaed and more than 60 testified for the government. They came from Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Louisiana, Mississippi, Tennessee and Illinois.

Bonds to permit the defense to take an appeal were set at $15,000 for McGurn and $5,000 for his wife, and the couple were remanded to the custody of the United States marshal while the bonds were being prepared.

REBEL MEETING TO OUST MALOY PROVES A FIZZLE

Motion picture operators, members of the union of which Thomas E. Maloy is business agent, failed yesterday to respond to an anonymous call for a meeting to consider the ousting of Maloy and other union officials. Detectives of the state's attorney's staff said the reason for the nonattendance of the element opposed to Maloy was that Maloy had sent telegrams to all members warning them that their union cards would be revoked if they attended.

Maloy, with four of his henchmen and a representative of the exhibitors' association, was recently indicted on charges of conspiracy.

CHARACTER OF LINCOLN TARGET OF DIXIE LEADER

Declines to Attend Fete at Kentucky Cabin.

Memphis, Tenn., July 21.—(AP)—Sharply criticizing Abraham Lincoln, Gen. C. A. Desaussure of Memphis, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, has declined an invitation to take part in celebration at the Kentucky cabin where Lincoln was born, it was announced today.

The celebration honoring the civil war President is to be held at Hodgenville, Ky., Oct. 4, 5 and 6.

Official correspondence of the Confederate Veteran's organization on the subject was made public today by Adjt. Gen. Harry Rene Lee. Gen. Lee's announcement said the Confederate Veterans would not accept the invitation of Gov. Sampson of Kentucky to take part in the celebration.

Gen. Desaussure said the celebration appeared to him to be "an effort to discount or offset the recently developed emergence of a true portrait of Mr. Lincoln which is not at all to his credit and which denies to him the God-like nature and qualities with which interested persons have deified him."

"Vengeful War."

This was contained in a letter to fellow officers asking their views as to participating in the celebration. Continuing, Gen. Desaussury's letter said:

"The wording of the letter [or invitation] is sufficiently challenging. We are asked to consider Mr. Lincoln as an exemplar of freedom—while the facts stand out that he was the chief cause of a destructive and vengeful war against those who were endeavoring to accomplish their own freedom by means now recognized as proper and lawful.

"We are further asked to join in the exaltation of Mr. Lincoln as a pattern for our children, while of all the characters before the world Mr. Lincoln is easily among those whom I would least wish my children, grandchildren and great-grands to follow or emulate."

Gen. Lee said he informed Gen. Desaussure he was opposed to participating and also pointed out that a resolution unanimously adopted prohibits "any fraternizing with other semi-military organizations, especially our opponents of the 'YP'S."

Sampson's Invitation.

In extending the invitation Gov. Sampson proposed that "you and other representatives of the United Confederate Veterans meet with Gen. John J. Pershing and representatives of the Grand Army of the Republic." The governor's letter added that the meeting is to be "nation-wide, nonpolitical, and nonsectarian."

Declining the invitation, Gen. Desaussure wrote that "it is not within the purpose, practice, or province of the United Confederate Veterans to join in with political, religious, or fraternal demonstrations."

790,500 FAMILIES IN CITY, AND 235,000 FOLKS JUST BOARDING

Statisticians bent on qualifying the population of Chicago from a merchandising standpoint have reported to the association of commerce, it was announced yesterday, that there are in the city approximately 790,500 families, with a collective total of 3,155,000 members.

An additional 235,000 persons, the report states, live in hotels or boarding houses, and are free of family ties.

Ninety-five per cent of the latter group are wage earners or have independent means. The remainder include the floaters, or inhabitants of lodging houses. In the majority group the association of commerce figures each family as one buying unit, which coupled with each of the unattached individuals gives retail merchants 1,025,000 consumer outlets in the community.

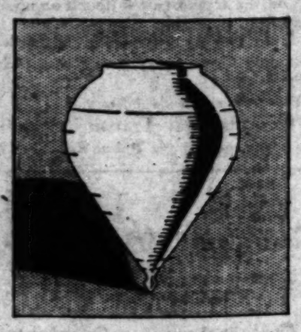
"HUDSON with SELECTIVE FREE WHEELING Runs Like a Top!"



With Selective Free Wheeling you free wheel in all forward speeds. You shift gears silently. You travel through traffic without need to use the clutch and with less gear shifting. You float over rough crossings. It gives a performance more enjoyable than anything you have ever experienced.

That's how thousands of owners of older Hudsons describe their first ride in the Greater Hudson Eight. They travel as on wings! The exhilaration of flying is theirs.

They speak of this Hudson as the smoothest thing on wheels. They like the way its powerful motor causes hills to vanish and the way it purrs along so swiftly, so sweetly. Its nimble getaway, its silence and the way it floats over rough crossings is so luxuriously different that all praise it.

Because they know what Hudson can do, they recognize its impressive value. They know what is meant by rare riding comfort. They have first-hand appreciation of Hudson performance. They compare its size and looks, comfort and performance, cost and economy with previous Hudsons and with other cars they know. It is to their advantage to make such contrasts. It is to the Greater Hudson Eight's advantage, too.

Won't you try the Greater Hudson Eight with Selective Free Wheeling and make such comparisons? We believe you will be convinced that Hudson gives you all anyone could want in motor car luxury — and at a great saving in price.

GIRL WITNESS IN MURDER TRIAL OF DOCTOR VANISHES

Prosecutors Seek Sister of an Alleged Victim.

A missing girl witness who failed to appear yesterday at the trial of Dr. Thomas J. Ney, south side physician charged with the murder of Miss Elma Bromps by abortion, last night was the object of a search directed by Assistant State's Attorneys George Lavin and John L. Murphy.

Prosecutor Lavin was investigating reports which came to him from relatives of the missing girl that she had been persuaded not to appear as a witness.

Sister of Dead Girl.

The missing witness is Miss Julia McElroy, a night club entertainer and sister of Miss Eunice McElroy who died on Nov. 14, 1928, as the result of an illegal operation. Ney is also charged with the McElroy girl's death but has escaped prosecution on this charge through 25 continuances. According to the prosecutors Julia McElroy witnessed the operation performed upon her sister.

The first day's session of Dr. Ney's trial before Judge Joseph B. David in Criminal court ended abruptly yesterday afternoon to allow the prosecutors to hunt for the missing witness, whom they expected to find in a near north side cabaret. They were accompanied in their search by the girl's mother, Mrs. Beeste McElroy.

Girl's Sweetheart Testifies.

Robert Berry, 24 years old, 2211 Indiana avenue, sweetheart of the Bromps girl, was the first witness called by the state after the jury had been completed. Berry, who followed his sweetheart to Chicago from their home at Angora, Minn., told of going to Ney's office at 7010 Stony Island avenue on April 16 to engage him to perform the abortion.

He said he told the doctor that "his sister was in trouble" and paid $50. Five visits were made to the office, he testified, and on each occasion the girl remained inside with the doctor for ten minutes. Finally, when the girl's illness became acute, Ney, accompanied by Dr. William White, under indictment in another abortion case, went to the girl's flat at 2358 Indiana avenue.

Tells of Hearing Screams.

Mrs. Katherine Kolb, the Bromps girl's landlady, described that visit. Through the door to the girl's apartment she said she heard screams of pain.

"When they came out of the room the doctors refused to give me their names, saying it was none of my business," Mrs. Kolb testified. "Finally that one (indicating the defendant) said his name was Dr. Snyder. The other one said he didn't carry business cards."

Entering the girl's room, Mrs. Kolb said she found Miss Bromps in a stupor.

Physician on Stand.

Dr. William T. Carlysle, 4619 Ogden avenue, a member of the staff of St. Luke's hospital, testified that he was called by telephone to the girl's apartment by a man who he said gave his name as Dr. Wright or Dr. White.

"I found that the girl was suffering from a general condition of peritonitis and ordered her taken to the county hospital," Dr. Carlysle testified.

Dr. Edwin J. De Costa of the county hospital staff and Dr. S. A. Lavinson, coroner's physician, testified that their examinations revealed evidences of pregnancy and that the girl died of peritonitis.

During the testimony the defendant yawned, chewed at a pencil and turned a level, dispassionate gaze upon the witnesses. He is being held in custody at the county jail.

CLAIMS MATE KEEPS CHILDREN HOME TO BOTTLE HIS BREW

Mrs. Anna Hartnett, 4948 Maypole avenue, yesterday charged that her policeman husband, John, continuously kept home brew and moonshine in their home and forced her two small children by a previous marriage to stay home from school to bottle the brew and to serve the liquor to himself and his friends, in a bill for divorce filed in the Circuit court.

Hartnett, who is assigned to the Fillmore street station, struck her with his policeman's club and one time chased her out of the house firing a shot over her head as she ran, she charged.

Mrs. Hartnett, whose first husband, a policeman, was slain while on duty, also asked an injunction to restrain Hartnett from interfering with $150,000 worth of property which she owned. Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, will argue a motion for temporary alimony today.

REVEAL CHICAGO NEAR BEER FIRM CITED BY U. S.

Officials of the Blatz Brewing company, Milwaukee, testified at their permit revocation hearing in the Transportation building yesterday that high test beer found in their plant under allegedly irregular circumstances was being used for experimental purposes.

Meanwhile information that the Prima Products company, Chicago, has been cited for a hearing on its permit leaked out of the smoke screen of mystery with which the prohibition officials surround their activities. E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of permits, admitted that the company had been granted two continuances, but refused to say what irregularities were alleged.

The Blatz officials declared that they had received complaints about their near beer becoming cloudy when chilled and that they were experimenting to overcome this. The hearing will be completed today.

URGES CALUMET CANAL PROJECT OF $10,000,000

Sprague Puts Plan Before U. S. Engineer.

A new $10,000,000 project to dig short cut canals into the projected Lake Calumet harbor for Mississippi water way barges and lake steamers was recommended to federal authorities yesterday by Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague.

A. A. SPRAGUE. [McSpit Photo.]

The proposal, accompanied by maps and diagrams, was presented at a public hearing on Calumet harbor improvements held by Col. W. G. Caples, Second district army engineer, and attended by sixty interested officials and citizens. Thomas Pihlfeldt, city bridge engineer, and Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th] represented Commissioner Sprague, who sent a letter but was unable to attend.

Proposals for Canals.

Under the Sprague plan a new one and one-fourth mile channel would be cut into the east side of Lake Calumet for the passage of steamers from Lake Michigan, while a one and three-quarters mile canal would be dug from the southern end of Lake Calumet to be used by barges from the Sag canal. Approximately eight miles of winding river navigation thus would be avoided by craft using the projected Lake Calumet cargo exchange terminal.

Although the theoretical advantages of the Sprague plan previously had been pointed out by harbor experts, the commissioner's statement not only gave it semi-official approval of the city administration, but likewise indicated that it is sound in its engineering principles.

Interest in the Lake Calumet harbor project has been heightened during the last few months by the surveys being conducted by war department engineers in the Calumet region with a view to preparing a terminal for the opening of the lakes-to-gulf waterway two years hence. The army engineers' studies have included the proposed dredging of the Calumet river and partial development of the harbor.

Discussion Is Held Up.

Commissioner Sprague's plan immediately became the center of attention when it was brought in at the hearing. Discussion on it was curtailed, however, when Col. Caples explained that his jurisdiction did not extend over Lake Calumet proper. He asked that the plan also be laid before another engineers' board headed by Col. W. C. Weeks, which has jurisdiction.

Col. Sprague pointed out in his communication the disadvantages of the serpentine windings of the Calumet river and the fact that dredging would not remove them.

A canal from the Calumet river at 115th street west to Lake Calumet, as proposed by the commissioner, would shorten the distance from the north central part of the harbor to Lake Michigan by about three and a half miles, while another from the south end of the lake to the "gooseneck bend" in the Sag canal would shorten the distance to the Sag canal by about four and three-fourths miles.

Cites Canal Advantages.

Each of the canals, according to Commissioner Sprague, would require only three or four new bridges, while the river, if improved, would require as many. The canals, he said, would pass through swampy land which should not be expensive.

"With the introduction of these canals," said the Sprague letter, "the proposed harbor would have three outlets instead of one, affording shorter and fewer movements of traffic in all directions and greatly enhancing the utility of this project and of the lakes-to-gulf waterway. The addition of about five miles of waterway frontage in close contact with the harbor would greatly encourage the development of the region."

Another advantage of the canals would be to bring the harbor in close contact with the Indiana Harbor industrial region by providing a short cut through Lake Michigan between the two, the commissioner said.

Gives Figures on Costs.

Regarding the cost of the canals, the letter said: "The total outlay of funds by all parties, for excavation and for present facilities involved in the construction of these canals, would probably be about $10,000,000, and in view of their effect on projects and developments involving many times that sum, we believe it would be reasonable if it were a direct cost."

Spokesmen for several south side organizations urged that the federal government undertake the dredging of the Calumet river.

Col. Caples expects to report to Col. E. M. Markham, chief engineer for the Great Lakes district, in October. It is expected that the final war department recommendations will be ready for congress in December.

PARK WORKMAN IS DROWNED.

Anton Mancieri, 65 years old, 4943 West Austin avenue, fell from a derrick into the lake at Montrose avenue yesterday and was drowned. He was a laborer employed by contractors making filled land for Lincoln park.

SPANISH RIOTERS LOOT AND BURN; DISORDERS GROW

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, July 21.—While the situation was quiet at Seville today, unrest broke out in neighboring towns and villages, where large numbers of unemployed, kept idle by the continued drought, joined the syndicalist strikers to create more trouble.

At Coria del Rio, just outside of Seville, three persons were killed and several injured in a clash between rioters and civil guards.

About fifty persons were wounded in the day's fighting. In Dos Hermanos a mob attempted to set fire to a building housing the telephone exchange. Shots were fired at telephone girls and male workers who tried to leave the building. Several truckloads of civil guards arrived in time to free the staff. The guards fired into the crowd and sixteen persons were wounded.

Further disorders occurred in the same town when a mob of women entered the market place, plundering food stands and setting fire to them. The civil guards again made use of their arms and several women were injured. Fifteen villagers were hurt in Carmona when police fired into a mob of rioters.

TWO SLAYERS GET LIFE TERMS.

Deadwood, S. D., July 21.—(AP)—Stanley Hatten and Herbert Bonser, both of Lead, were convicted today of slaying C. E. Dowling, aged Parmalee storekeeper and postmaster, during an attempted holdup, and were sentenced to life imprisonment in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A DOWNSTATER ON ILLINOIS PROBLEMS.

Mr. Charles F. Eichenauer, able editor of the influential downstate newspaper the Quincy Herald-Whig, has an article in the Illinois Journal of Commerce which every Illinoisan should read and ponder. The article is entitled "A Downstater Looks at Chicago," and while its author modestly remarks that "no man holds a brief to speak for all the downstate" he adds that by contact he knows the views expressed represent those of a large proportion of Illinois citizens who live outside of the Chicago area. We think we can go farther and say that in spirit and to a considerable extent in substance they are shared by the intelligent citizens of Illinois who dwell within this city.

Mr. Eichenauer says that downstate sees something big in Chicago and admires it. "The tall buildings are not something to gape at. They are symbols of Chicago's genius, vision, courage, and power." We can go farther; they are symbols of the qualities of the people of Illinois without as well as within the limits of this city, and farther still of the qualities of the American people. Our pride may have its local aspect, but for the intelligent it has a deeper and broader foundation, for at its best and strongest it is pride in our common Americanism and our common qualities. The pity is, we too seldom allow this sentiment to come to the surface and overcome the clashes of local interest and partisanism.

Writing with generosity and discernment of Chicago, Mr. Eichenauer says: "Differences in environment, early training, daily influences, habits of living, standards of conduct, and business and social relations, between the big city and the country, between Chicago and downstate, are filled with possibilities of misunderstanding that, with the extremists at least, mean prejudices resulting in excited and irresponsible utterances. Bitterness is inevitable. The downstater interprets Chicago's attitude as an arrogance born of size and power that expresses itself in a conviction of intellectual superiority. The downstater sees this as the attitude of the slicker toward the hick. The Chicagoan, in disgust, while the row is on, thinks that the downstater is smugly self-righteous, that he considers himself on a more heavenly plane of morality, that he is eager to make a show of exceptional virtue, and that he is determined to impose a primitive rural fundamentalism by law or otherwise on Chicago residents who do not want nor feel the need to be revived or reformed.

"Both downstate and Chicago are offenders. Chicago must quit giving the impression that it believes that intelligence fails to extend south and west of the Cook county line. The downstate is in no position to claim a monopoly of personal character and municipal virtue."

Mr. Eichenauer does not mention it, but we think he will agree that one of our chief difficulties in developing a more cooperative spirit is the profit professional politicians find in fomenting and taking advantage of the local differences which we all recognize and regret. We think better means should be created of bringing the representatives of our nonpolitical, our constructive activities together frequently for discussion and that friendly personal intercourse which removes so many misunderstandings. There are of course such agencies, such as the state banking association, the chamber of commerce, the manufacturers' association, etc., and their service we do not underestimate. But it is a service which tends to be especially directed at their own economic or professional problems and neglectful of the broader aspects of our Illinois citizenship. A conscious effort to get together as Illinoisans and thresh out all differences and strengthen the spirit of general cooperation is one of our plain needs.

Coming to the concrete, Mr. Eichenauer points out that there are two big issues causing bitterness and division, that of legislative apportionment and taxation. On these he states with candor the downstate positions. He asserts that the downstater does not justify the present apportionment in the assembly and concedes that the growth of the cities calls for increased representation. But the downstater, he asserts, is firm in his opposition to a principle that makes population the only basis of representation. He will not consent to any redistricting plan that would give a majority of both houses to one city or county or small area of the state. Mr. Eichenauer believes that the federal constitution and those of several states recognize a "system of checks and balances" supporting this opposition to the principle of equal representation.

As to taxes, Mr. Eichenauer says: "No downstater who is fair desires to tax Chicago unfairly in order that the downstate may evade its just share of the tax burden. However, the downstater does believe that the present general property tax is unsound in principle, unfair in application, and promotive of perjury and in some cases of graft. The downstater believes that income basically is the fairest standard of assessment. A new comprehensive revenue statute recognizing this principle, although not, by any means, making the income tax the only source of revenue for the state, should be enacted."

In closing, Mr. Eichenauer makes two proposals: "Perhaps the way to redistrict Illinois is for a group of business men from the Illinois chamber of commerce to take the map of Illinois and the census figures, forget the previous election returns and make a map with districts compact and contiguous, consider population and geographic requirements, recognizing the American principle of checks and balances, and show the legislature and the people that business men can agree and that the state can be equitably apportioned if politics is adjourned. Perhaps the way to obtain for Illinois a just revenue statute based on a modern instead of an antiquated economic structure is for a group of business men of the Illinois chamber of commerce to investigate tax methods in other states and present a model revenue statute for Illinois, not representing the views of the manufacturer and merchant alone, but giving consideration to the interests of all classes and interests within the state. A campaign of education should then be conducted in behalf of such or a similar statute throughout Illinois."

To the downstate doctrine of restricted representation THE TRIBUNE has given a good deal of discussion. It does not agree with the downstate view and it believes that downstate politics has demonstrated too forcefully its will and its power to work serious injustice to the metropolitan districts to encourage any weakening of our present demand for proportionate representation. But we welcome thorough, frank discussion of the whole problem and hope it may be carried on in the spirit of Mr. Eichenauer's admirable article, which is, we are confident, the spirit of the most responsible citizenship throughout the state.

We think the suggestion for a nonpolitical conference on taxation is an excellent one which should be promptly acted upon, for our tax muddle is a serious affliction and obstruction to the prosperity of the state and all its people.

O YES. THE SUBWAY.

There is $60,000,000 in the traction fund which ought to be at work. The voters of Chicago a year ago approved a traction ordinance under which the fund was to be spent to pay part of the cost of building subways.

Plausible explanations can be given for the failure to get started. The lawyers can say that the legal difficulties cannot be ironed out in a moment; city officials can say that the city has done all it can and must wait for the rest of the procession to catch up; the security holders and company executives can say that it is extremely difficult now to obtain the additional capital needed to launch the new company. All these statements have some validity, but it is not to be doubted that a few years hence Chicagoans will wonder how it happened that in a period of unemployment and stagnation in the construction industries a fund of $60,000,000 was available for use on a productive improvement of great usefulness and was not used. And to that inquiry there can be no sufficient answer.

DISORDERLY CONDUCT IN DISORDERLY PARKS.

The Lincoln park authorities who are seeking to suppress hoodlumism at the Oak street beach might properly consider the advisability of adopting a somewhat less tolerant attitude toward other offenses against civilized behavior in the parks.

Lincoln park on a Monday morning presents a view that can only be described as disgusting. The lawns everywhere are strewn with papers and scraps of food left by careless picnickers. Perhaps this abuse has been permitted to develop because it is less expensive to employ common laborers to clean up than to employ policemen to insist upon the decencies. Or perhaps the park administration does not wish to earn the ill will of the citizenry.

Any one who was in the army knows the moral value of insisting upon neatness in the individual soldier and cleanliness in the camp. Disorderly conduct and disorderly appearance are generally found in the same units. This is not a coincidence. Where slackness in outward appearance is permitted, slackness in personal conduct is invited.

Undoubtedly the great majority of park visitors would welcome an insistence upon standards of neatness. If such standards were enforced they would not interfere with the value of the park as a place for physical relaxation, but they might be expected to do away with a good deal of the moral laxness which is now proving troublesome.

Editorial of the Day

RECOMMENDING A SLAP ON THE WRIST.

[Illinois State Journal, Springfield.]

Circuit Court Judge Thomas Taylor, delegated by the Illinois Supreme court to hear testimony and make recommendations respecting the misconduct of lawyers accused of participating in the Chicago sanitary district pay roll graft, has prepared and made public his report.

The commissioner recommends that nine of the lawyers be disbarred, that eleven of them be suspended for a period of two years, and that twenty-seven be suspended a year. In the list of those recommended for a two year suspension is Maclay Hoyne, who from 1912 to 1920 was Cook county's public prosecutor. Hoyne was head of the malodorous sanitary district's staff during 1926 and 1927.

Press reports say the commissioner's finding severely condemns Hoyne for having permitted, without protest, the padding of the sanitary district's pay roll. It declares that it was his duty, as chief counselor of the district, to protect the public—that his failure so to do amounted to unprofessional conduct. A two years' suspension, in the opinion of the commissioner, is coming to the ex-prosecutor.

Laymen who have not yet forgotten the scandal which brought about the proposal to disbar lawyers connected with the sanitary district and its "whoopee" administration will have their own opinion concerning the adequacy and the effectiveness of the discipline recommended. Mindful, however, of the peril involved in expressing themselves concerning the doings of judges, they will keep that opinion to themselves.

It is much to know that Commissioner Taylor regards as reprehensible a lawyer's treason to the long-suffering public. It is gratifying to learn that, in the opinion of the commissioner, it is possible for a public pay roll lawyer to be guilty of unprofessional conduct. Laymen have been given to understand that the legal profession frowns on the practice of double crossing clients, and Commissioner Taylor's assurance that this displeasure extends to instances where the lawyer is representing taxpayers begets a glow of gratitude.

We understand, of course, that the lecture and recommendation for a slap on the wrist are merely advisory. It is possible that nothing will come of them. For all that Commissioner Taylor should be commended for his courage.

SWOLLEN ANKLES.

THIS discussion includes swelling of the soft parts in various sections of the body, well known illustrations being the ankles and feet and the loose tissues around the eyes. Probably similar swellings occur with frequency in all loose tissues in the body, inside and out, but we cannot see the results and, having no other way of learning about them, we never know.

When a man gets out of bed in the morning he instinctively looks in a mirror, and what he sees makes him wish he had not. He goes straightway to a wash basin and uses cold water to reduce the swelling. Swelling of the face, and particularly of the loose tissues around the eyes, is most noticeable after sleeping. It is sometimes attributed to fighting booze the night before, often justly. More frequently it is ascribed to sleeping hard—whatever that means. We rarely hear now that a swollen face means that witches have been riding the possessor of a swollen face.

Swelling of the ankles is generally noticed at night. When the shoe is removed a swelling is noticed as marking the location of the shoe top. It would have included the entire foot, but the pressure of the firm shoe against firm bone made that impossible, although some puffiness under the protection of the large ankle protuberances is often noticed.

Such swelling of loose tissues is very likely to mean Bright's disease or heart disease. Bright's disease, existing alone and in a mild stage, is more likely to cause swelling of the face. Heart disease, on the other hand, is more liable to cause swelling of the ankles.

Among other somewhat properly called "organic diseases" which cause these swellings are, cirrhosis of the liver, pernicious anemia, phlebitis, and varicose veins. Among other causes to be suspected are trichinosis and myxedema. Some obstruction in the abdomen, pelvis, or leg may be the cause of swelling of the ankles.

Whenever there is any swelling in any of these localities there should be search for an organic cause. In many cases such cause will not be found, particularly in warm weather. In these cases the cause is said to be a local acidosis. The tissues in a given area are said to become less alkaline than is normal, and this serves to cause an unusual amount of fluid to ooze into the area and more or less stagnate there. The increase of fluid locally is responsible for the puffiness. The theory is quite plausible, at least in part. There is some change in the local chemistry. Whether the change is a local acidosis is not so certain.

By way of treatment the following procedures are advised: Cold bathing will cause the swelling to disappear temporarily. The face is washed in cold water. If the swelling is in the feet a cold foot bath is used. A cold shower is of service. So is massage of the swollen area. Massaging the face with ice is recommended. Some advise changes in diet. More fruit and vegetables, and less cereal, breads, pastries, and proteins. Others advise a low salt diet. There are people who think the tendency to swollen ankles in summer is due to the custom of eating salted meloes and vegetables more than to the heat. However, most of this is speculation, and may be right or wrong. Pepping up by cold baths seems to be based on ground as to which we are surer.

A family living across the alley persists in burning their rubbish in the alley. We are obliged to close our windows to keep out the smoke, sparks, and odors. We have asked them to cease doing this, to no avail. J. J. E.

FRANCE, ENGLAND, BELGIUM AND ITALY, with the U. S. looking on, were seated around the banquet board in London, tucking their napkins under their chins and smacking their lips with anticipation. Finally, Germany, fried a rich golden brown and done to a turn, was brought in on a big platter. "We will now proceed to save Germany," said England, picking up the carving knife.

"Save me a drumstick," said France, passing her plate. A fine drumstick was put on France's plate and England started to pass it back.

"Wait a minute!" exclaimed France. "Save me the other drumstick, too."

The other drumstick was put on France's plate, but she immediately shouted: "And the wings, too, and the neck and the heart and the gizzard and the liver."

"Couldn't we save you some of the white meat, too?" asked England.

"Both," said France, "and all. Likewise all the stuffing and the gravy."

"But what is going to be saved for us?" shouted England, Italy, Belgium and the United States all together.

"You can have the bill," replied France, laughing gayly.

FOR ROBIN.

Bee-and-honeysuckle wise
And haystack-wild
Now that for a little while
You have been a summer
Country-child.

There is a deeper satin blush
To your cheeks,
And more gold in your hair,
And some tiny things
All these sunny weeks
Have crossed your face
Leaving a speckled trace;
Perhaps fairies, with leaky pails
Of flower dust and pollen.

Up on the bluff, and high
The sheep roamed, almost in the sky
Among the clouds,
And the tinkling of their bells
Must have seemed an angel chime
Afar, far off at any time

Down in the barn
And Birth with Death
And Their feet made no alarm.

So, caught, for a bit of summer
Among the simple ways
Of country days, it will be many Years before you know
How more, much more than
Bee-and-honeysuckle wise
And haystack-wild
You were, my child!

Have Cornwallis walk up to Washington and hand over his sword. Then as George takes the sword and starts to walk away Cornwallis gives him a kick in the pants. FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 22, 1915.

LONDON.—A series of great battles between the Russians and the Austro-German armies, the result of which will seal the fate of Warsaw, is being fought to the northwest and south of that city. To the north, on the Narew river, the Russians yesterday delivered three fierce counter-attacks from the fortresses of Rozan, Pultusk and Nowogeorgiewsk. The attacks were repulsed by the Germans. Immediately to the west of Warsaw, on the Blonie-Grojec line, the Russians have suffered a reverse and are retreating toward the Vistula. To the south of Ivangorod, Field Marshal von Mackensen has reached the Russian lines, and here the greatest of all the battles is being fought for possession of the Lublin-Cholm railway.

LONDON.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail reports that the Italians have captured several elevated positions and are pressing on. The Archduke Eugene, he says, has demanded reinforcements and it is estimated that at least 400,000 are engaged in the battle of the Isonzo.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt addressed the Panama-Pacific exposition crowds on "Preparedness for War." At one point in his speech he said, "I firmly believe that there should be universal military service for our young men on the Swiss model."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 22, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Yesterday was the hottest day Chicago ever has known. While the instrument on the Auditorium tower was expressing itself at 103 degrees, those on the street below marked 110, 112, and even 118 during the late afternoon, and long after the sun had set still hovered about 100.

CHICAGO.—Placards were posted Saturday night in the vicinity of practically all the Catholic churches in Chicago by mysterious men, who drove about in carriages. The placards attack the consecration of the Rev. P. J. Muldoon as auxiliary bishop of Chicago, scheduled for July 25.

CHICAGO.—Nine persons were injured and two cable cars were smashed when a defective cable caused a wreck on the Madison street line at California avenue. The train was speeding along at the rate of ten miles an hour when the cable parted.

CHICAGO.—The promised revelation was not made at Zion City yesterday. In its stead was delivered the announcement that Irving Ward, LL.B., of New York, who claimed to have seen a wonderful vision of "Elijah appearing on earth in the person of John Alexander Dowie," was unworthy of belief. Although over 4,000 people assembled in the great tent in expectation of hearing the New York man, to whom the "truth had been revealed," they were disappointed. Mr. Ward not only failed to appear, but failed to return $200 expense money which Dowie had sent him to defray his trip to Chicago.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 22, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The slight change which has taken place in the President's condition since the date of the last official bulletin has been in the direction of further improvement. He has passed a comfortable day, has taken a little solid food again in the shape of boiled chicken, and has gained in strength. The afternoon fever has subsided and at 1:30 a. m. the President was sleeping quietly.

LONDON.—Private advices from St. Petersburg report that the nihilists are everywhere active, and that Gen. Ignatieff's efforts to destroy the organization meet with no success. The czar is still immured in the castle at Peterhoff. He visits St. Petersburg occasionally, but the press is forbidden to record his movements in advance.

CHICAGO.—In connection with the movement in behalf of the New Ulm sufferers, the fact should be noted that Mr. John B. Drake, after reading the accounts of the disaster, telegraphed Gov. Pillsbury of Minnesota to draw on him at sight for $100 for the benefit of the sufferers.

MOVING THE LAKE.

Chicago, July 13.—The present heat spell, when thousands are crowding to the beaches from all sections of the city, raises more than ever the question of moving out the lake from its original shore line. The water ought to be as convenient to the populace as possible. With the filling in has come a long walk to get to the beaches. The filling has been costly and much of it unwarranted from every standpoint.

A case in point is that of Lincoln park where Diversey beach has been left in a small pocket for the large number of bathers going in there. Yet under the announced plan another similar place would be developed at Lake Shore drive and Oak street. Regardless of whether bathing continues there or not, the beauty of the water front would be obstructed by a filled in roadway. Yet at this particular point Count von Sternberg stated to a Chicagoan before the war no city in the world had a beauty spot comparable to it.

The removal of the lake from the old line out in Hyde Park makes a difference of fully 10 degrees in temperature—it is that much hotter due to the greater distance to the lake from hotels out here. If this is so in a residential section, Chicagoans can well consider how much hotter the loop office buildings and streets are as a result of the filling in of Grant park, of which only a small part is used for recreation purposes.

The primary point in providing parks is being lost sight of—namely: places for wholesome relaxation away from the rush and throb of usual city environment. A park should not be a speedway. Speedways should be removed to districts where the destination of the driver can be kept in view without detriment to the enjoyment of those through whose neighborhood he rushes. CITIZEN.

SCHOOL COSTS.

Chicago, July 13.—A cursory examination of the records of school costs in Chicago will reveal a clear cut path for the board of education to follow in seeking ways and means of reducing the budget to meet income. Selecting two school plants at random from the 350 in the city we find that the salary item for janitors and engineers in school X before the civil service rule threw the system into the hands of politicians amounted to $750 per month. The cost today in that school, with the same floor space, is $1,900 per month plus the cost of washing windows. In school Y the cost for these services is today $1,590 per month while under the old system it was $600.

The salary item for teachers in those same two schools has remained practically static, the number of teachers having remained the same, and the size of classes having been increased slightly. The civil service rule cannot be thrown out, but the number of appointees to each school for janitorial work can easily be cut down 40 per cent without impairing efficiency at all. I would be glad to contract to clean school X with civil service help at a figure that would save the board of education $600 per month on that one building. OBSERVER.

A GOOD IDEA.

Chicago, July 17.—May I suggest that the lieutenant governor's $25,000 prison inspection entourage pick up the stranded school teacher at Berlin?

SHILELAH.

CHEWING LIKE A GENTLEMAN.

Chicago, July 14.—Hardly a day passes that I do not feel the urge to write you a letter. But having long since become convinced of the uselessness of writing and complaining, I snarl and fume the inactivity, the stupidity, and the annoyance one experiences in this life. However, I've reached the limit of my endurance—and for the first time since 1912, when I wrote a letter to the editor of a small weekly in the east (I was the editor and owned the paper), I intend to let myself go.

A correspondent in today's Tribune waxes nasty and pens: "... but no warning is sounded against this dirty old tobacco chewer." Dirty old tobacco chewer! Dirty old tobacco chewer, eh? So he calls me a dirty old tobacco chewer!! I wish this fellow had a few million in notes in the bank coming due, that's what I wish! There would be another fresh guy swallowing his words and begging for mercy, if he had.

I, sir, am a chewer of tobacco, and I am neither old nor dirty. The late Associate Justice Harlan of the supreme court of the United States was one of our most distinguished chewers of tobacco, and, while he may have been old in years, he was not, most emphatically he was not, dirty. As fine a gentleman as ever lived. What a delight it was to watch that great tobacco chewing jurist in action—I mean his jaws. Neither was President Harding a dirty tobacco chewer. Neither was the great Boston editor under whom I served and who taught me to chew and to hit the spittoon ten feet away. Then there was the eminent professor at Harvard who always carried a plug in his hip pocket when he went fishing—the fish wouldn't bite until he had squirted the proper amount of amber fluid upon the waters. Fine, clean, cultured gentlemen, all of them.

Because an occasional fireman who prefers scrap to double mint doesn't wipe his mouth with the back of his hand as often as he should, or an old, enfeebled farmer or G. A. R. veteran has lost something of the fine art of expectorating, the rich brown juice of the glorious weed, are those of us who use the plug as we do everything else, like gentlemen, to be labeled "dirty old tobacco chewers"? Not without a most vehement protest! F. D.

A WHEAT POLICY.

Chicago, July 18.—If I might make a suggestion, based on my 65 years in the wheat business, I would say, let the government take over the farm board holdings and agree to hold same for one of two years or until the price reaches a dollar a bushel, which would mean that the general demand had overtaken supply and the stock could then be gradually marketed, in all probability. With this wheat in the hands of the government the farm board could be closed up and the grain trade of the different exchanges left to function in a natural way.

I think the farmers should hold all they possibly can of this wheat crop and let as much land lie fallow the coming year as they can, which would be a real benefit to the farmer and his land. WILLIAM DUNN.

FIVE HENDERSON WILLS LEFT; EACH UPSETS OTHERS

Latest Disinherits Granddaughter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—The sound and bequeathing mind of Mrs. John B. Henderson was a changeable mind indeed, it was revealed today, as the admission of her will to probate disclosed that Washington's grand old lady had climaxed a uniquely eventful, often eccentrically colorful, life by disinheriting her adopted granddaughter, Mrs. Beatrice Henderson Wholean, and leaving $200,000 to her Japanese secretary.

In addition to the final will of Mrs. Henderson, whose funeral was held yesterday from the turreted brownstone mansion all Washington knew as Henderson castle, four prior instruments were presented for the information of the court. Each made a different disposition of the estate, which has been estimated at between five and six millions, and each successive will, it was shown, pared down Mrs. Wholean's inheritance a little more, until, in the last will, dated April 8, the 90 year old widow of the former senator from Missouri stated emphatically:

"It is my express wish, and I so direct, that Beatrice Henderson Wholean shall have nothing of my estate."

A Petticoat Feud.

That was the culminating act in a series of events which made the name of Mrs. Henderson—already famous as social dictator, zealous vegetarian, ardent prohibitionist, calculating real estate owner—synonymous with the unexpected.

Twice Mrs. Henderson had insistently offered one of her houses to the government as a home for the vice president. Mrs. Wholean brought suit to restrain her. And it was then that Mrs. Henderson retaliated by announcing that Mrs. Wholean was not her granddaughter by blood but had been adopted in infancy.

The bulk of the Henderson estate, the final will provides, is to go to Mrs. Henderson's nephew, Henry N. Arnold, and her niece, Frances A. Arnold, both of New York City.

$5,000 to Congressman.

A bequest of $5,000 is left to Representative Ernest W. Gibson of Vermont, who sympathized with Mrs. Henderson's desire to house the vice president by introducing an enabling bill in congress in 1929. Dr. Paul Bartsch, curator of mollusks of the Smithsonian institution, also is left $5,000.

The Smithsonian institution is to receive the valuable collection of paintings, statuary and medallions gathered by Mrs. Henderson and her husband.

While specifically disinheriting Mrs. Wholean, the will points out that, in 1926, Mrs. Henderson had established a $365,000 trust fund for her benefit and that she also receives income from the estate of Mrs. Henderson's son, John B. Henderson Jr.

It was disclosed at that time that Mrs. Henderson, in a secret proceeding, on Dec. 30, 1924, petitioned the District Supreme court for permission to adopt Mrs. Wholean and make her her heir. Mrs. Henderson later denied any recollection of such a proceeding.

Chauffeur Gets $3,000.

The will leaves $3,000 to William Carter, Mrs. Hendersons' chauffeur. Carter is said to have been the one who first told Mrs. Henderson that Mrs. Wholean was an adopted child.

As for Jesse Shima, the Japanese secretary, he was very smiling, very grateful, very talkative about the $100,000 left him outright and $100,000 placed in trust, the income for his use. He would carry out his late mistress' wishes by completing his education, he thought.

Of the four additional wills filed today two were prepared in 1927, one in 1926 and one in 1924.

Mrs. Wholean was named chief legatee in the 1924 will.

Two other hobbies of Mrs. Henderson, "race betterment and biologic living," including anti-stimulants and vegetarian diet promotion, and a campaign against inhumane treatment in trapping animals, were aided under the earlier wills.

"Having for many years been greatly concerned respecting the future of the human race because of the growing menace of degenerative influences, particularly through an unsuitable dietary and various poison habits, particularly the use of alcohol, tobacco, tea, coffee, and other drugs," Mrs. Henderson said in the July, 1927, document, ". . . I desire to make such use of the bulk of my fortune as will to the highest degree promote such efforts as will oppose race degeneracy and encourage race betterment."

Some Other Bequests.

In this will she bequeathed the bulk of her estate to the Battle Creek college, Michigan. In another will she left $10,000 for a campaign against steel traps.

In three of the early wills she provided that her "remains shall be cremated after cutting through the neck to be sure of death."

Two Alleged Extortionists Are Held in $20,000 Bonds

Gustave Apple, 47 years old, 2340 Maypole avenue, and Frank Richards, 48 years old, 4544 South St. Louis avenue, were arraigned before Judge Matthew Hartigan yesterday on charges of attempting to extort money from John Friedman, druggist at 3201 Washington boulevard. It is alleged that they wrote a note in which they threatened to throw acid on the druggist and his wife unless $5,000 was paid. Apple was arrested when he picked up a dummy package and he then led the police to Richards. The defendants were granted a continuance to Friday and bonds were fixed at $20,000 for each.

GOVERNOR TALKS OF FISH; NARY A HINT ON POLITICS

Whether He'll Run Again Is Still a Mystery.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Gov. L. L. Emmerson returned from the northern Wisconsin lakes yesterday full of fish stories and ozone, but mum as ever on politics. His catch of a five pound small mouth black bass was sung by the piscatorial party in the good old Izaak Walton style, but as to whether he will be a candidate for reelection the governor was as noncommittal as an Illinois river clam.

Meanwhile, for days past some cronies and friends of the executive have been exuding reports that he will run again. They point out that all through the legislative session Mr. Emmerson displayed all the usual symptoms.

Governor Won't Comment.

The governor, himself, however, is as chary of committments as he was at Springfield. As an Egyptian he was brought up in a school of politics that had among its mottoes such proverbs as: "You can't play politics in a Panama hat," "Haste makes waste," and the 600 odd political saw, "The early worm gets the bird."

"I don't know, myself, what I'm going to do," said the governor, "but let me say there won't be any announcement of purpose for some time. We've been fishing, that's all."

On revenue, the governor inquired how the commission he appointed is getting along, and repeated his intimation that a special session of the legislation, if called, will be summoned late in September or early in October, after vacation days and the hot weather are over.

A Rumor in Democrat Camp.

Democratic circles echoed a rumor that some Republicans are urging the governor to include in the call for a special session an item for abolition of the presidential primaries and direct election of national delegates, and to shove the state primaries from April to August. The Republican argument is that this would enable the sending of an uninstructed delegation—under Emmerson control.

At Springfield, for months past, the governor's friends have been turning loose every so often a swarm of vice presidential bees. Some administration men have been holding that the buzzing was one reason for the governor's veto of the state prohibition repealer—on the theory that this might put him in favor with the party drys as a possible dry western running mate for the presidential nominee.

One reason for the effort of administration men to put the primaries in August instead of April was announced as a desire to get the national conventions in June out of the way before the state tickets are nominated.

SENATOR GASSED IN MINE STRIFE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Tear Bombs of Police Affect Davis.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 21.—(AP)—The mining districts of West Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania were the scenes of strife today.

At Scranton, Pa., United States Senator James J. Davis was slightly gassed when state policemen and other officers hurled tear gas bombs to break up disorder at the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America. The senator was to make an address.

Miners working in the strike harassed bituminous coal fields were ambushed for the second time in two days and one man was wounded seriously today. A fusillade of bullets fell among a group of fifty miners at the McKinleyville mine of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Coal company near Wellsburg, W. Va. The man fled for cover, but one, William Thompson, was shot through the shoulder.

About two score shots came from a wooded hillside. Officers found no trace of the attackers. Members of the national miners union have picketed the mine.

5 Arrested For Monday Deaths.

The first instance of sniping since the strikes began more than two months ago, occurred yesterday in southern West Virginia, where two men were killed from ambush. Five men are under arrest in connection with the shooting.

Ohio authorities today were guarding a suspect held in the killing of a youthful picket near Martin's Ferry last night, fearing mob resentment. The youth was shot when pickets and working miners, who declined to join the strikers, clashed at the Gaylord mine.

The Pennsylvania coal fields were quiet, violence having subsided since a fight between the National Miners' union and the United Mine Workers of America at Canonsburg Sunday. The National Miners' union, alleged by the United Mine Workers to be communistic, broke up a meeting of the U. M. W.

The National Miners' union held a "hunger march" in Steubenville, O., today, although city officials had refused a permit.

Some Partial Settlements.

None of the strikes seemed near settlement. The United Mine Workers have obtained wage agreements and recognition from some operators, negotiating as individuals, but none of the operators had shown any disposition to deal with the National Miners' union, which demands recognition.

The southern West Virginia strike was called by the West Virginia Miners' union, which announced it was not allied with the U. M. W. Thus far the operators have not acceded to the demand for a wage parley.

ROBBER HELD INSANE.

Vandalia, Ill., July 21.—(AP)—Fred C. Burch, 25, under indictment for robbery with a gun, was found to be insane by a jury here today and ordered committed to the state insane asylum at Jacksonville.

ONE PISTOL SHOT ENDS BETROTHAL IN LAKE FOREST

Miss Sarah Whyte, 29 years old, 901 North McKinley road, Lake Forest, announced yesterday that her engagement to Fred Hanson, 31 years old, chauffeur for E. J. Bermingham, wealthy resident of Lake Forest, was broken.

The announcement was made in the court of Police Magistrate Samuel Sorenson, where Miss Whyte was arraigned on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. It was alleged that she had gone late Monday night to Hanson's cottage on the Bermingham estate at 620 North Mayflower road and had fired at least once outside his window.

"We were to be married on Labor day," Miss Whyte said. "But I got a letter saying that he was going with another girl and I went to see him about it. When I got near Fred's window somebody was talking to him and it sounded like a woman. So I went away. The engagement was off. I didn't shoot at him. My pistol went off accidentally when I tripped over a bush. I was carrying the gun to give it to him so he could protect himself on his vacation."

Magistrate Sorenson held Miss Whyte, who was formerly a bookkeeper, to the grand jury in bonds of $5,000.

DIES AS RESULT OF BURNS.

William A. Johnson, Negro, 39 years old, 4324 Cottage Grove avenue, died yesterday in the Cook County hospital as the result of burns he suffered July 6 when he lit a match in an attempt to find a gas leak in the ballroom of his home.

TOWN "BAD BOY" SENTENCE LEADS TO STATE QUIZ

Judge Holds 13 Year Old to Be Incorrigible.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 21.—[Special.]—Gov. Harry G. Leslie tonight began an investigation of the sentencing of John Tooley, 13 year old Princeton boy, to the Indiana Boys' school at Plainfield until he reaches his majority, following the theft of a meat cleaver and a pair of tongs from a blacksmith shop.

L. O. Chasey, secretary to the governor, tonight wrote to Judge Claude Smith of the Gibson County Circuit at Princeton, asking a complete explanation of the case.

According to the letters received by the governor and news dispatches from Princeton the judge ordered the boy to leave the county, and when the lad failed to do so sentenced him to the boys' school.

Among letters received was one from A. E. Martin of Fort Wayne, a Democratic representative in the 1931 state legislature. He asked that Smith resign or that a special session of the legislature be called to consider impeachment.

Judge Is Threatened.

Sentiments of citizens of Gibson county are divided on the situation, which has aroused considerable feeling, and Judge Smith announced tonight that he had received several threatening letters, saying a mob would hang him unless he changed the boy's sentence.

Judge Smith tonight defended his action in sentencing Tooley. He asserted that "the boy is incorrigible" and that "he had been sent back to Gibson county from every institution to which he has been committed, as being to bad to keep there."

"The boy is a confirmed thief," explained the judge. "He was sent to the county orphans' home some years ago, but could not be kept there because of his bad influence. He ran away from St. Vincent's Catholic school at Vincennes and was sent back here from the state boys' school at Plainfield. He was committed to that institution for the theft of chickens, and is back at the school now for having admitted second degree burglary."

The judge said that when the boy was brought before him the last time he did not know where to send him.

Father Asks for Sentence.

"I thought perhaps his father, Alfred Tooley, could get him some place out of the county," Smith said. "But the father brought John to me that afternoon in an automobile and asked that I send him to Plainfield. The following morning I did so, sentencing him to the institution until he is 21 years of age.

"The boys' school has informed me that they are going to send another of our child incorrigibles, Walter Roberts, home next week because he is too bad for that place. I wish some one would fine a place for these boys that nobody wants."

Smith said young Tooley is mentally feeble and only in the second grade in school. He said the boy, in his opinion, should be in the state school for the feeble minded at Fort Wayne, but that this institution is overcrowded and admission is almost impossible.

COUPLE HOLD UP CAB DRIVER.

Harold Lieberman, 604 South Western avenue, a taxi driver, was robbed of his cab and $7 early yesterday by a man and a young woman companion whom he had taken to South Winchester avenue and West Van Buren street.

Overproduction Peak Passed Dairy Prices Begin Ascent

BY PAUL POTTER.

A turning point from the peak of overproduction in dairy products by farmers of not only the middle west but, almost without exception, of the entire nation, has been witnessed by dairymen, in the opinion of economists and farm leaders interviewed here yesterday.

Prices of milk and dairy products reached the lowest levels in twenty years during June, and have started upward. Curtailing of milk production, with a resultant reduction of oversupplies of butter and other milk products, has been the principal factor in the upturn.

Decline in Milk Volume.

There has been a decline of 35 per cent since May 1 in volume of milk produced by the 19,000 dairy herds supplying Chicago and twenty-six nearby communities, according to A. M. Krahl of the Pure Milk association here. Dry pastures of Indiana and Wisconsin, untouched by recent rains, have been a contributing factor, with unfavorable market prices leading to some curtailing.

Milk prices in Wisconsin, the leading dairy state, went below a dollar per hundred pounds average for the state in June, reports W. H. Ebling, federal farm statistician at Madison. This is the lowest since June, 1911.

"Conditions seem favorable for some improvement in milk prices to farmers," Ebling states. "Milk flow is likely to be somewhat reduced for the remainder of the year, following the peak in June. Recent information indicates that production is now below the high level of 1930, and pasture conditions are distinctly subnormal in midwest states."

Butter Prices Rise.

Wholesale butter prices already have reflected the decline in overproduction in Chicago markets of the last three weeks, rising from 21 to 24 cents per pound. Reserve supplies, according to C. L. Pier, federal market specialist here, have been decreased to about the five year average. Consumption of butter and other dairy products has increased due to low prices, he reports the sentiment of dairymen to indicate.

Chicago dairymen in the Pure Milk association receive $2.33 per hundred pounds (46½ quarts) for milk sold in this area, but the surplus they have been marketing to be made into cheese or butter has reduced their average to $1.92 for June. Present trends will bring the July average to about $1.95, it is estimated, with further increases of gradual nature during the fall. Farmers supplying the Milwaukee market averaged about $1.41 in June, this price including delivery to the city.

Gov. La Follette Pauses in City on His Way East

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

TWO novels, just published, have one thing in common, though they are poles apart in every other way: they both tell a simple story in a delightful and fascinating manner. As fiction, minus any hidden purpose, any ulterior motive, as it were, they rank as A1. They're not reactionary; they're not heavy; they're not sad. They are just admirably good stories. One is a simple peasant tale," by E. Phillips Oppenheim (Little Brown), and the other is "Thursday April," by Alberta Pierson Hannum (Harpers). The first is an English tale; the second has for its background the West Virginia hills of this country.

E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM.

Mr. Oppenheim has departed from his usual form. His new book is entirely devoid of murders, Scotland Yard men, international intrigue, and mystery. It is, instead, the story of the revolt of a lower middle class Englishman—and a most interesting revolt it is, too. Peter Cradd, until he was well over forty, was nothing but a wage slave, a drudge, and a timid ticket. He had an impossible wife, a nag and a scold, a woman who never gave him a pleasant word; he had two selfish sons and a jazz mad daughter, and all of them looked on him with mild (and sometimes not so mild) contempt. His life was one round of commuting and toil.

"I've lived with my wife all these years because I married her and because I had to," he says. "I took the responsibility and I've done my best to live up to it. As for my children, if I'd known how they were going to turn out, I can assure you I should never have had any. But I didn't have. One doesn't.

"There must be thousands of other decent beings in the same position as I am, but they won't own up to it. Perhaps they have taken to drink, or gone with women, or found some pleasure to keep them from going mad. I didn't; I just went on until I sometimes think that another year would have seen me in the lunatic asylum."

He earned £400 a year and was scarcely ever out of debt. He had not had a new suit of clothes for four years, or any new shirts or underclothes. He hadn't had a meal in the middle of the day except on holidays for five years. He'd given up smoking; he scarcely tasted a drop of beer. Poor chap, what a life!

Then, presto! heaven smiles. A distant cousin dies in New Zealand and leaves him three hundred thousand pounds. And Peter Cradd stops being a worm. He turns. He gives half his wealth to his family, then washes his hands of them and departs for good and all. For the first time in twenty-five years his time is his own, he has abundant leisure, he can be as solitary as his soul dictates, and he can actually take a taxi!

All those who recall with tenderness a very lovely character created by Jean Parker some years ago in "So Big" will enjoy "Thursday April," the narrative of a brave and idealistic mother, who, like Selina in "So Big," lived in her children and for them, particularly for her son. Thursday April [odd name, isn't it?], like Selina, did not have very much "to do with." She lived in a poor cabin in the mountains and all her life long she never had a pretty dress or a box of powder.

She was the mother of eleven children, all girls except little Square, who, tragically, was born a cripple. And her consuming desire had been to bear her husband sons! Thursday April has the seeing eyes of a poet, the sensitive heart of a person who has suffered much and so wants to shield her children from it, and a great understanding and sympathy.

Her husband, a great lout of a man, is one of those taciturn creatures who seem to fear that a kindly word or an expression of affection will blister his lips. Never does he show any love for Thursday April, never does he give a sign that he likes anything she does or is. But in spite of his unfortunate nature she loves him straight through the years with a devotion as wholehearted as it is undeserved. Life is like that, as the song writers say.

Alberta Pierson Hannum writes of these mountain people as one who knows and understands them, their strange dialects, their quaint customs. Her book is full of spicy humor, dry wit, homely beauty. The hill folk move across the pages clearly defined and so lifelike that one can almost reach out and touch them.

New Students at U. of I. to Get Better Service

Senior Advisers to Help Select Courses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., July 21.—A better registration system, it is believed, has been developed by the faculty committee at the University of Illinois.

"The student pays the penalty when not registered properly," Milton J. Olander, chairman of the general committee, said today. "A large portion of the students go to college, without any idea of what they want to study or what they should study. In the past, many of them have enrolled in courses not suited to them. Thus handicapped, discouragement caused them either to fall behind in their work or withdraw from the course or the university. The university wants all students to have a fair chance to succeed.

"The new plan is now under way. During the summer all new students, as fast as permits to register are taken out, are being assigned to certain groups, no group exceeding thirty. A member of the faculty and a senior student will be responsible for each group when the newcomers arrive in September. The freshmen will be required to come here on Sept. 16, one week in advance of the regular time. During the ensuing week personal conferences with the faculty and senior advisers of each group will enable the newcomers to work out the right schedule of courses."

Those personal conferences with advisers, efficiency examinations in several elementary courses, psychological tests, the preparation of study lists, and the actual acts of registration will keep the freshmen busy most of the week. In between times there will be campus tours, social events, and concerts, "mixers," etc., which will serve to acquaint them with the university and with their fellow classmates.

On the evening of Sept. 16 there will be a general freshman welcome at which President Harry Woodburn Chase will talk and the deans and directors of the various colleges will be introduced to the new students.

Then there will be "mixers," parties at which the freshmen meet each other. On Friday morning the first half of the sections will start registering and finish Friday afternoon. The other half will start Friday afternoon and finish Saturday morning. While one half is registering the other half will tour the campus.

Friday evening will be known as "student night" with a general get-together of the class with entertainment, varsity cheering, and the like.

On Saturday night the freshman stag will be held in the gymnasium annex, while the sorority dinners and a lantern festival will occupy the time of the women.

2 Illinois Composers Win Prizes During Contest at Hollywood

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—(AP)—American composers, two of Illinois and one of California, won all three awards in the recent fourth Hollywood bowl $1,000 prize competition, it was announced today.

Foreign composers have figured largely in previous lists of winners. No prizes were awarded last year because entries failed to meet requirements.

First prize winner this year was Arne Oldberg of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., for a piano concerto with orchestra. Second prize was won by Alois Reiser of Hollywood with a violoncello concerto with orchestra, and third prize went to Radie Brittan of Chicago for a symphonic poem.

Oldberg's concerto will be played next summer as a feature of the bowl program.

Gov. Bryan Tells Women Parents Can End Wars

Lincoln, Neb., July 21.—(AP)—On their way to Washington from Los Angeles five women spokesmen for the International League for Peace and Disarmament arrived here today and were welcomed by Gov. C. W. Bryan, who told them American mothers and fathers can end wars "by taking the profits from them."

Operatic Concert Wins New Laurels for Ravinia Cast

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is usually opera at Ravinia, but last night they added concert to opera with results that gave as much evident pleasure to the audience as any full length opera of the season. Elisabeth Rethberg and the Chicago Symphony orchestra gave a concert mostly of German music of about an hour and a quarter duration.

Then Yvonne Gall, Giovanni Martinelli, Giuseppe Danise, Leon Rothier, Marek Windheim and the chorus went into the full throated fourth act of "Les Huguenots." Altogether the program covered about as wide a range as could be expected to be covered in one single evening.

Three conductors were called upon before the program was completed. Eric DeLamarter directed three overtures, Weber's "Euryanthe," Tschaikowsky's "Francesca da Rimini," and Wagner's "Flying Dutchman." In between these Wilfrid Pelletier took the baton for Mme. Rethberg, who sang the aria of her namesake in "Tannhaeuser," a group of songs by Wagner and Strauss, and Senta's ballad from "The Flying Dutchman." Finally Louis Hasselmans came to the stand for the excerpt from "Les Huguenots."

Mme. Rethberg, a singer for whom songs always mean great beauty of tone, was in the finest of her lovely voice and the audience quite properly went into a torrent of applause. In fact, it showed high approval of all the concert section. One sometimes suspects, however, that even orchestral numbers and accompaniments for songs would by no means be injured by a bit of rehearsing, just as operatic scores are supposed to be improved by the process.

In "Les Huguenots" the chorus was augmented by a number of the company's principals. They were unnamed on the progam, but between them and the listed stars they gave the act a brilliant resonance such as Meyerbeer's ancient tunes are seldom blessed with. This is the essence of the older grand opera.

French Exposition Draws 3 Million Visitors, It's Said

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, July 21.—Thanks to the colonial exposition the gap in France's tourist trade this summer, resulting from the business depression in the United States has been filled by the unprecedented number of visitors from Europe, Egypt, South Africa, and the extreme orient.

"During the summer months Paris has been host to an average of 2,000,000 tourists each year since the war," declared M. Marcereau, chief of the government tourist bureau today.

"The colonial exposition this year already has drawn more than 3,000,000 visitors. An unusually large number have come from Egypt and the orient particularly the extreme orient and South Africa. The marked defection of American visitors this year because of the Wall street crisis and unimproving economic conditions has been compensated more than a hundred times, hotel men say.

ELGIN ACADEMY GIVES HONOR STUDENTS FREE USE OF THEIR TIME

Increased responsibility and changed academic routine are the basic principles of a new educational plan announced yesterday by Elgin academy. The plan is similar to that in effect now in several institutions of higher learning, notably Chicago university.

Elgin academy's plan, as announced, has a twofold object:

Adequate preparation for entrance in the relatively free life of a university.

The development of manhood through an appeal to pride.

Educators have classified the early morning hours as the most worthwhile from a class standpoint and the hour immediately following luncheon as the least valuable. Under the new plan the last class of one day is the first class of the next.

Class periods are lengthened to 80 minutes and alternated by study periods of the same length. Two study periods are also held at night. An instructor is in charge of each study period and no student is allowed to use the period for other than the specified subject without permission.

Honor students are permitted to miss the study periods and are placed on their own responsibility for the preparation of their lessons. A close budget is kept of study hours and subjects studied and more time is allotted for those in which the individual experiences trouble.

Other innovations include a bi-weekly directed review of material studied and definite rewards through a continuing increase in the responsibility load for honor students.

Cheers Greet Shaw on Visit to Red Russia

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP)—Soviet Russia today gave the glad hand to George Bernard Shaw, who arrived here from England with Mrs. Shaw and Lord and Lady Astor for a vacation.

Shaw left the train at the Belorusski station. There a crowd of workers and peasants cheered him lustily. He went immediately to visit the tomb of Nikolai Lenin in Red square.

Shaw was greeted at the station by representatives of soviet literary and educational agencies and he seemed to be in excellent health. He will be 75 years old next Saturday.

One of his first experiences here was being stuck for five minutes in the elevator shaft of the Hotel Metropole when the elevator became wedged four feet below the level of the main floor. Shaw and Lady Astor were in the elevator, together with a servant girl and a Mongolian mushik. The other members of the party had walked.

The party was starting on an afternoon of sightseeing. The operator, apparently overcome with the importance of his passengers, let the lift sink too far below the lobby floor. There it jammed.

Shaw assumed a pained expression when repeated shaking by the operator failed to budge the car and Lady Astor also became impatient.

Both heaved sighs of relief when rescuers appeared in the persons of two American newspaper correspondents, who assisted in lifting the playwright and the lady parliamentarian out through a narrow aperture.

The party expects to spend nine days in Russia. They will leave for Leningrad at the end of the week and return here before going home.

In the throne hall of the palace of the former czars, now the meeting place of soviet committees, Shaw ascended the rostrum which occupies the spot where the throne dais used to stand and tested the acoustics by shouting loudly.

He pronounced the sound effect satisfactory.

Looking at the body of Lenin during his visit to the tomb, Shaw called attention to the Red leader's hands, declaring that their fine lines marked them as those of "a born aristocrat."

Shaw was photographed near the Kremlin, perched atop a czarist cannon ball. Tonight he attended a special performance of the "Beggars' Opera," given in his honor.

Lady Astor, her husband and one of her sons are among the six making up Shaw's party. She several times visibly shocked members of the communist party who accompanied them on the sightseeing tours by reiterating frequently: "I am a capitalist" and criticising the soviet system for what she described as "it's materialism and lack of religion."

Told that the little old red church, which stands next to the large cathedral where the czars worshiped, would be destroyed, Shaw said: "Well, then, I think they'd better have a five year esthetic plan."

"But," he added, "if a revolution like this had happened in America, England or France, they would have looted everything. Such churches are art treasures, as these here in the Kremlin would not have been left untouched as they have been here."

"If you stand there soliloquising," Lady Astor interrupted, "we won't cover the ground," and she led him away by the arm.

HAS LIFE JOB

DR. S. W. STRATTON.

[Associated Press Photo.]

Scientist Sets Himself Tasks for 100 Years

Dr. Stratton to Specialize on Flood Control.

West Springfield, N. H., July 21.—(AP)—Dr. Samuel Wesley Stratton, chairman of the executive committee of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, plans to live to be 100 and has mapped a huge program of research for the next 30 years.

Dr. Stratton, who has just passed his 70th birthday, looks forward to the task of taming the nation's great rivers, fettering floods and harnessing currents.

Dr. Stratton, now at his mountain top home here, told guests of his hope of developing one of the greatest hydraulic laboratories in the world. He expects to construct accurate working models in which currents, silt deposits, power and rate of flow may be studied.

His birthday brought a tide of well wishes. His most remarkable gift was a large red leather volume containing 1,000 congratulatory letters from the dignitaries of the world as well as from old friends. Notes from President and Mrs. Hoover ornamented the first and second pages.

Dr. Stratton had other things to say—about aviation in war and peace, about the possibility of rocket cars hurtling through interplanetary space, and about education.

To date, Dr. Stratton said, aviation has failed to make obsolete the first class battleship and cruiser.

But, while aircraft alone couldn't win wars, he said, he believed they would make the next war more horrible for soldiers and noncombatants alike.

He foresaw air transportation displacing steam over longer distances. "Air safety," he said "is merely a matter of human care and mechanical development. It is bound to come."

THE STAGE

THE announcement that "Rhapsody in Black," an all colored revue from Broadway, would begin an engagement at the Grand Opera house Thursday night, July 30, must be amended. Manager John J. Garrity received a telegram from his firm's headquarters in New York yesterday instructing him to take no steps in regard to "Rhapsody in Black" until further orders. Which probably means postponement rather than cancellation.

The Dramatic League of Chicago will have Irene Bordoni on its list of stars for next season. It had planned to import "The Improper Duchess," by James Bernard Fagan, from London with its original cast, including a specialist in Parisian charm named Yvonne Arnaud. Upon learning that Miss Arnaud was unable or unwilling to make an American tour the league's board of strategy promptly engaged Miss Bordoni for her rôle. And as La Belle Irene is regarded by American playgoers as the most fascinating lil' French gal since Anna Held, every one is inclined to clap hands over this announcement. Miss Bordoni, oddly enough, was born in Napoleon's home town and island—Ajaccio, Corsica.

Ward Morehouse, who writes theatrical chatter for the New York Sun, is the author of a play called "New York Town" which John Golden intends to stage early in the new season. The piece is apparently in the cinematic style that "Grand Hotel" has popularized, for it contains twenty scenes and calls for the services of fifty players. Mr. Golden lists it as his second production of the season, to follow "After Tomorrow," which will open at his New York theater Aug. 15. Mr. Morehouse was represented in the Broadway catalogue of three years ago with a work called "Gentlemen of the Press."

"Love's Out of Fashion," a comedy from the German of Wilhelm Sterck, will be the first production of the new theatrical season for the Shuberts. It is already in rehearsal. Miss Verres Teasdale, who played one of the three courtesans in "The Greeks Had a Word for It" in New York—the rôle acted by Leona Maricle in Chicago—will be the heroine. Others in the cast are Walter Petrie, Leslie Austen, and Rudolf Badaloni. The play will open in Atlantic City Aug. 3.

The old and reliable Owen Davis, who has written more than one hundred plays, will be represented on Broadway this fall with a comedy of modern manners called "Just to Remind You." Sylvia Field and Paul Kelly will have the leading rôles. Sam H. Harris will give this piece a Broadway premiere on Labor day.

Women Live Longer; Deaths More Speedy

Average Age Now Around 55 Years.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

WOMEN are living longer lives, but they are dying more sudden deaths. Such was the balanced trend revealed yesterday to delegates and thousands of visitors to the international convention of the Women's Benefit association, as the sessions opened at the Palmer house.

Dr. Katherine C. Manion, supreme medical examiner, quoted statistics over a four year period to show that the toll of heart disease has placed that plague at the top of the mortality table, while tuberculosis, once first, has slipped down to seventh place.

Steady increases in the average span of life, she reported encouragingly, has increased the average age at death from 54 years and 4 months to 55 years and 9 months. But the lengthening span, she added discouragingly, inevitably brings the major number of insurance beneficiaries into that part of life where one is more susceptible than before to heart disease and similar afflictions. During the last quadrennial it was heart trouble that accounted for one-fourth of the total deaths, or 2,350 out of 9,434.

Effects of the world wide depression on the health of the membership of 300,000 were noted by Dr. Manion in her designation of 1929 and 1930 as "the tragic years." Undoubtedly, she declared, the worries and stress of those months contributed to aggravate already existing untoward physical conditions.

"But the increase is due chiefly to the increasing length of life," Dr. Manion qualified her statement.

"Every year more and more people are attaining the age where these diseases are more likely to ocur. This of course does not mean that preventive measure are not applicable. Early treatment of many of the diseases of childhood, and infections of teeth and tonsils, etc., will do much to combat heart trouble, which otherwise will show up in ten or fifteen years."

Cancer stands second in the table submitted by Dr. Manion, acounting for 1,541 deaths during the four years. Cancer, however, is not aggravated, she commented, by mental ills, as are heart conditions, and apoplexy and paralysis, which come third in the series. The latter causes totaled 1,233 deaths. Tuberculosis, in seventh place, was credited with 413 fatalities out of the total.

More than a million and a half dollars was paid out in the four years as insurance for the victims of heart disease. In efforts to combat this and other illnesses among the membership, the Women's Benefit association maintains and operates 26 health centers throughout the country, five of them under the direction of women physicians and others under graduate nurses.

Hoover Greets Hotel Delegates by Letter, Praises Efficiency

Boston, Mass., July 21.—(AP)—The American Hotel association was told by its counsel, Frank A. K. Boland, at the opening session of its annual convention today that cooperative efforts were needed to obtain revision of antiquated hotel laws. He stressed particularly the statutes limiting liability, which, he said, frequently were unavailing in suits against hotels.

The 500 delegates were greeted by President Hoover in a letter to the association president, Thomas D. Green. President Hoover said the hotel industry, as a result of sound financing, expansion in the light of proved demand, and elimination of waste and undue overhead, was able to face the future with encouragement.

Polly Moran of Movies Wears "Same Old Face"

Polly Moran, comedienne of the movies, hasn't had her face lifted or her nose remodeled, and won't, she told reporters yesterday on her arrival in the Chicago and North Western railway station on the Los Angeles Limited. Asked if the report were true that she had fallen on her nose and thereafter had a plastic surgeon rebuild it, she said:

"Sure I fell on my nose, but I've got the same old face, with the same old detours, that used to run around the west side in Chicago."

With her mother, Mrs. Mildred Moran, and her son, Jackie, 15 years old, Polly will remain in Chicago, her old home town, two weeks, she said. When she is not appearing on the stage of a loop theater she will visit her old friend, Terry Rasmussen, on his estate in Lake Catherine, she said.

EIERKUCHEN IN BERLIN, MAYBE, BUT NOT IN HOLLYWOOD, CAL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—Although Rudolph Sieber, Marlene Dietrich's husband, thought, in Chicago, that he was hastening to a happy little family here and that his frau would cook him some eierkuchen as in Berlin, maybe, found Hollywood, Cal., isn't Berlin. An inquirer, talking to them here mentioned eierkuchen. The blond husband blushed. Then the inquirer asked Marlene herself about the eierkuchen. Said Marlene: "I never heard of such things."

FLOWER OF THORNS

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS.

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. A porter's lodge, facing the Dixie highway, gives her the idea of starting a hot dog stand. She arranges with a milkman, who says he is Mr. Forman, foreman of the Winstead dairies, to deliver milk. He is really Samuel Forman Winstead, only son of Henry Winstead, town banker and holder of the Oakleigh mortgage. The Rutherford ladies "didn't know" the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, whose estate adjoined Oakleigh. Sally's milkman helps her to make the Shack a success before she discovers his identity. By that time she is receiving the court of Lowndes Jennings.

INSTALLMENT XV.

THE DEVASTATING GENTLEMAN.

For reasons of diplomacy, expediency, and economy, Mr. Lowndes Jennings maintained what he modestly referred to as "my little bachelor diggings"—renting the third floor of a large, old-fashioned house belonging to a cousin of his mother's, an innocent old lady who was quite deaf, a devotee, and who lived a very retired life. The house was commodious, in a quiet, dignified side street, and the rent for the third floor, above which was the great attic, was decidedly nominal. He could reach his rooms by means of the stairway on the outside covered porches. So Lowndes had living room, bedroom, and bath, and his man's clean little bedroom and bath, as well as an efficient kitchen, on the third floor, and was very private and comfortable. If visitors chose to play games of chance there, who was to know or disapprove when all was so quiet?

The dear old lady said, beamingly, that Lowndes could use such of her old furniture as he had a mind to, since he seemed to have a liking for old things, she was glad to see—besides, she had so much more of it than she needed—and she also suggested that he should use part of the disused stables to keep that pretty little car of his in. So Lowndes, whom she admired so immensely, took everything she offered; and he was very charming and attentive to Cousin Lucia.

Eph, Lowndes' man, in his snowy house-jacket and immaculate linen, was, so to speak, the corner stone of the Jennings menage. Lowndes said smilingly that Eph was a family survival. Between the pair existed an unbreakable tie, something very like affection. Lowndes could as easily have gone without his well-pressed trousers as without Eph.

Having attended a theater party and a lively late supper the previous night, Lowndes had risen somewhat later than usual, had had his reviving shower, and was now at breakfast, the morning newspapers and mail beside his plate. The social news contained an excellent write-up of last night's festivities, and mention of the expected arrival of the Reinert family in their beautiful yacht Leda. Here Lowndes tossed the paper aside, scowling. A letter from Miss Gertrude Reinert confirmed the news. She said that dear Lowndes positively must accompany them to the Bahamas—she and mamma simply couldn't get along without him this trip.

Lowndes was actually worried. He thought, resentfully, that he was being driven, taken for granted—quite as though he had no further right to his own will or way. He sensed the net enclosing him. All because two good-looking young ladies were in love with him and he had led each to consider herself the one woman. O, damn!

"She sounds nice," said Sally.

Lowndes Jennings knew thoroughly on which side his bread was buttered. Ordinarily he was cool, careful, calculating, collected. He had played the game skillfully with Gertrude and her ambitious mother, and he seemed to have won. But not for nothing was Gertrude her father's daughter! Lowndes already saw in her her father's own will-to-power, the implacable determination to get what she wanted—and he had made her want him with all her imperious little heart. He had subtly led her into this passion for his handsome self, but he was too wise and wary to cheapen his stock by showing overmuch anxiety in the pursuit. He dangled himself, a beautiful and desirable young man, provocatively before a spoiled and romantic girl's eyes—he was really very clever. Yet for all his cleverness he had fallen in love with penniless Sally Rutherford like the most unsophisticated boy. Worse yet, he had told her so.

Sally went to his head; his affair with her was the sweetest and purest emotion he had ever known. Her prettiness, her pride, her tenderness, the unselfish passion she discovered for him, ensnared him; he adored her for what she was. Gertrude was young, loving, handsome, wealthy; but Sally was youth, truth, love itself. He couldn't give her up—yet. Let him hold her while he could . . . it was to be such a little while! He would be very careful, for Gertrude mustn't know and be angry. He couldn't afford to allow Gertrude to become angry with cause. In the meantime he would see Sally as often as he could.

He went down to his office presently, the picture of calm well-being, and sent a dutiful wire to Gertrude. When Lowndes saw what was the wisest thing to do, he did it. His heart might cry for Sally, but he was going to the Bahamas, and while there he was—as was expected—going to come to a definite arrangement with Gertrude and settle the date.

That night his smart little car was again parked just inside the gates of Oakleigh. Sally had had a dull day, and she gave a little crowing cry of pleasure at sight of him.

Sally thought she had never known Lowndes so loving, so tender, so handsome. Lowndes thought, wildly, that he had never appreciated the true depths of the girl's beauty and sweetness until tonight, which was, as it were, the beginning of the end for him. Such a little while, Sally, such a little while! He felt desperate. He had never wanted anything in his life as he wanted Sally—and he couldn't have her! This girl was his true mate, his true love, the heart of his youth—and he must give her up!

When he had her in the car, he put an arm around her and drew her close. His lips were passionate, possessive, desperate.

"I think you've heard me speak of the Reinerts, haven't you?" he asked presently.

"Those wealthy friends who have been so agreeable to you?"

"Yes. They expect to visit the Bahamas in their yacht. I am one of the invited guests. I cannot afford to decline such an invitation." He explained how necessary it was that he should make just these contacts with wealth. He had made some of his best business deals through people he met on the yacht or at the lodge. So he would have to go.

Sally, as was characteristic of the Rutherfords, had no petty jealousy. She thought it lovely that such an opportunity should come to Lowndes! Of course he must go . . . if only for business reasons. And did he like these friends very much? Sally asked innocently.

O, well enough. They were very decent people, the Reinerts, particularly the old man, who was simple, unaffected and kindly. The wife was a bit of a climber, socially ambitious. The daughter, Gertrude, was really the flywheel. The Reinert family interests and ambitions revolved around Gertrude. Blonde. Twenty-three. Pretty. Dynamic, like her dad, whose favorite she was. Naturally, somewhat spoiled, but at heart kindly and generous.

"She sounds nice," said Sally.

"She has been quite nice to me," admitted Lowndes, modestly. "She and I are fairly good pals."

It was one of those beautiful winter nights in the south. Crisp, with a small playful wind. He began to tell her how he dreaded and hated to leave her, even for the little while he would be absent, but she could understand that he couldn't, for business reasons, lose the opportunity offered. When they passed a lighted road lamp he glimpsed traces of tears on her cheeks.

"Didn't have such a good day, either, did you, darling?" He sought to divert her thoughts away from the Reinerts.

"The usual automobilists. One woman came back clamoring for more old glass like I'd sold her before. And I didn't have any. Sold her all I had in the first place."

"You know, I believe I could get you a lot of old junk from my Cousin Lucia. I saw some of the same kind of glass you had for sale, when I was scouting for furniture in the attic." Cousin Lucia doesn't even know she's got it, it'd been put away so long. I took what I could find for my own rooms."

"But would your cousin care to sell, do you think? The woman I sold the glass to has been such a good customer ever since that I would like to oblige her."

"O, I fancy I can get her to sell, if that's all. But I really don't know if it's the same kind of glass. It looked like yours, so I annexed it and had Eph wash it. It looks nice, anyhow. Blue, brown, green."

"Did you get much of it?" she asked eagerly.

"I took what I found when I found it," said he, laughing. "It's up in my rooms now." And he asked: "Why not come and have a look at it? If it's what you want, I'll search the house like a burglar for more."

They were on the outskirts of the old city, crossing the Ashley river bridge.

"Ought I to, Lowndes?" Sally asked timidly. Lowndes wouldn't have suggested it if it hadn't been all right, but still—

"With me?" asked Lowndes reproachfully. "Besides, I'd like you to see my diggings. They're really nice, thanks to old Cousin Lucia—and Eph. They'd—seem . . . dearer . . . holier . . . to me, if you blessed them with your presence even once, darling. That sounds romantic . . . but I hope you know how I feel, Sally." He pressed his lips to her cheek, a deferential and loverly touch.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Request for Old Radio Parts.

"I have been working and experimenting with radio for some time, but my work has been interrupted recently because my small supply of parts has given out and because of the hard times I can get no more. I would appreciate having any radio or electrical parts any one has to give away. I don't care how old they are or how much they have been used.

"J. N."

If you invested in a new radio recently or dismantled your old one, perhaps you will have some parts to give this young man for his experimental work.

This Is the Age When You Can Be Yourself Without Any Qualms

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One good thing that has come out of our modern beauty preachments is that we don't hear so much wishing from women that they looked like some one else. Possibly, too, when you were a little girl you had an idea that the prince wouldn't give you even a side wink if you couldn't fasten him with a baby blue eye and a string of golden hair tassels. Of course, blond princesses go on getting their full quota of attention, but the brunettes aren't taking any back seat. Nor the reds, nor the in-betweens.

If a girl has dark hair she knows she has an asset that she can do wonderful things with. She can brush it till it shines. If she is wise, she keeps it arranged more closely to the head than is the blond's permission. During the bobbed era, the brunette, with her sleek, shiny mane, came off rather better on the whole than the blond. And for the low-on-the neck effect and the hair parted in the center, the brunette still has a little the best of it. Although, of course, some blonds [not the fluffy variety] come off just as victorious, sleekly brushed and wearing the middle part.

The middle part, by the way, is having an especial run of popularity abroad. But that's one hair dressing that is not recommended for the great majority. It needs a fine profile and a rather oval faced type of beauty with wide set eyes.

What sets the brunettes up beautifully this season is fashion's prediction for white. If the hair is black or nearly so and you wear white or cream, color, you make the hair look blacker. Without cheek rouge and brilliant lips, the black haired siren surely makes a pleasing picture for eye to gaze upon.

But what I started out to say was that with women no longer indulging in the foolish wishing that they could be like some one else, they've turned in and done remarkable things with the stuff they had themselves—and just look at the results all around you.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

A. D.: HAVE THE CORN REmoved by a chiropodist, or do it yourself. Corns should be cut down only after a bath, when the skin is aseptic. Use only sterilized instruments. My leaflet on the feet may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

G. Y.: IF YOU WISH TO MAKE your eyelashes curl, take an eye brush and gently close your eyes over it so that the lashes are curled. Do this several times a day.

Nature Books Thrill Child with Wonders of World Outdoors

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

When you come across a book on any phase of nature that is written for young people so that you yourself can't lay it down you have found something unique.

"Green Magic" is such a book and was suggested in this column last year as a book that makes plant life seem just as amusing, just as wonderful, just as unbelievable as it really is. Though this book is written for young people, it is enthralling to a grownup.

Julie Closson Kenly, the author of "Green Magic," has anew book out this year. It is called "The Astonishing Ant." Her humor, her imagination, and her accuracy as a naturalist revealed in the earlier book make you anticipate a real delight when you pick up this one. When you read it you will not be disappointed.

The life of an ant is, as you probably know, almost unbelievable. To learn something about it as it is described here will not only be intensely interesting to a girl or boy but will give them an inkling of the miracles this world of ours is filled with. That they will also be highly entertained must go without saying when you realize that this book tells about ant housekeeping, ant weddings, ant farming, cow girl ants—about their fastidiousness, their cleverness—in fact, their astonishingness in general.

"The Astonishing Ant," by Julie Closson Kenly, is published by D. Appleton & Co. of New York for $2.50.

If you are interested in opening the world of outdoors to your children so that they will look at sea and shore, at pond and sky and woods with seeing eyes, the books in our list of books of the outdoor world will help you.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 21.—Hollywood has been flooded for weeks with federal men, more even than during the period two years ago when operatives conducted months of investigations which ended with a haul of big and little income tax jugglers, subscribers to which more than forty film stars and executives pleaded guilty to erroneous returns and paid millions to the government. Now the United States agents are here to break up the fabric of rackets and extortion schemes which have flourished and multiplied in the last three years.

A bet for $100 stakes, contest to be decided under the strangest set of rules ever devised outside of a sporting editor's nightmare, is one between Walter Huston and his son, John Huston, and John Meehan, M. G. M. scenarist, and his son, John Jr. The interfamily contest is to commence, they say, with a round of golf, following which the contestants are to bicycle from the golf club to Westport Beach club and compete at baseball, broad and high jumping, ball throwing, and swimming. Next, a couple sets of tennis [maybe they don't intend to do all this on the same day, although terms of their wager don't indicate it], then onto the bikes again and to Culver City Boxing club for a prospective round apiece.

After the shower, a game of billiards and then to a bowling alley. The men standing on their feet at the end of it all to be acclaimed victor. And deserve it, say we.

After being informed that Culver City, the suburb where M. G. M. studio is located, had no appropriation to install stop-and-go signals, Louis B. Mayer, vice president in charge of the studio, spent $15,000 for signals to the busy crossing in front of the studio.

City Indians Launch Boats on Fox River

An annual ceremony took place yesterday afternoon on the shores of the Fox river at a point where the Algonquin Indians not so many years ago brought their canoes to rest and gathered for a council.

The spot now is a camp for children of the tenements, but it perpetuates its historic significance in its name, Camp Algonquin, and in the organized groups of "Indian tribes." So at yesterday's festivities there were Pottawatomies and Menominees as well as the Algonquins, ages 7 to 14 years. And there were the big chiefs, Edwin C. Jones, financial secretary of the United Charities, and A. E. Jessurun, special guest of honor.

While the youngsters were waiting for the brief ceremony to begin, they cast inquiring eyes at two rowboats tethered to the pier. One was bright yellow and the other gray. But as soon as Mr. Jones informed them that Mr. Jessurun was the donor there was an immediate interruption, rousing cheers and yells.

Mr. Jessurun, smiling, stepped forward and hoped all the children would enjoy the boats. They were named, he said, for Katharine and Francis Allen, two of his small friends who had come all the way from Glencoe to be present for the ceremony.

Years ago the launching of canoes on the Fox rivers no doubt was accompanied by much display of bright feathered head dresses and war paint. Yesterday's launching of the two craft was almost as colorful, for as a group of children climbed into the boats 200 balloons of all colors of the rainbow were distributed among the "tribes," and there were more yells and songs singing Mr. Jessurun's praises. Some of the children who had spent previous summers at the camp remembered that the visitor had added two of the other craft to the camp's fleet.

The camp, the visitors discovered on a tour of inspection, has undergone several improvements since last year. Thanks to Samuel Insull Jr., the swimming pool has been remodeled and deepened at one end.

Sally Learns Further Details of Military Pageant at Ravinia

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Additional information which I received yesterday about the "Army and Navy" day program at Ravinia convinces me that this party will be a perfectly magnificent one and all the boys and girls in and around Chicago who'd like to attend it on July 31 had better rush their letters to me at once, for it's absolutely the last call. Tomorrow is the deadline and the day on which I shall select the winners.

There will be a number of things on the program which should be thrilling—for instance: the dress parade of three companies of bluejackets from Great Lakes Training station and the Navy band . . . the bayonet drill by a detachment of marines . . . the presentation of colors . . . etc.

Doesn't all that sound interesting? And it's really not half the program, so you can get a good idea of what is in store for us when we arrive at Ravinia after our delightful trip on the North Shore. I'm sure if you haven't already written a letter telling me you want to be one of the lucky hundred boys and girls to attend this party on July 31 you'll do so at once.

Remember that every letter must reach my office no later than tomorrow morning and each one must contain the name, address, and age of the writer. It is most important that you write your own letter and in it do not ask for an invitation for any one else.

Aimee's Son Weds a Rich Oklahoma Man's Daughter

Los Angeles, Cal., July 21.—[Special.]—With Angelus temple crowded and hundreds outside unable to gain admittance, Rolph McPherson, son of Aimee Semple McPherson, and Lorna Dee Smith, daughter of a wealthy Oklahoma oil man, were married tonight. Mrs. McPherson, who performed the ceremony, supervised every detail of the nuptials, even to designing the elaborate gowns worn by the bride's attendants. The evangelist was attired in a long, clinging gown of white and silver.

TOSCANINI OPENS WAGNER FESTIVAL WITH 'TANNHAEUSER'

BAYREUTH, Germany, July 19.—(AP)—In the first of the summer festival performances here at Bayreuth, home of Richard Wagner, the opera "Tannhäuser" was conducted today by Arturo Toscanini.

The direction was perfect and the technical production, which was designed by Siegfried Wagner, whose death cast a shadow over last year's festival, was no less creditable.

Art Institute Midsummer Show July 23

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The summer exhibitions open tomorrow in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. In the first large gallery are the modern French paintings from the collection of Oscar F. Mayer. These, at first glance, convey the disagreeable impression of being distinctly out of focus. There is something here that is mentally and physically peculiar. A curious restlessness pervades the color scheme and an unhealthy vulgarity blights the figures. The landscapes and paintings of buildings are chiefly remarkable for their shallow depth and for their resemblance to the artificial.

Capon is a genial humanist, a bit coarse, as witness his merry-go-rounds and the casual flirtation. Lhote is an intriguing contriver of patterns. Marcel Maillot is somberly sane with a gray canal under a somber sky.

Our melancholy vanishes in a flash, however, with the discovery in the two next rooms of a delightful exhibit of decorative arts by Edgar Miller and a showing of brilliant, gay, and vivid canvases by Davenport Griffen. Mr. Griffen is back from a painting trip to the Virgin islands and his account in paint of their tropical beauty is enough to send every one hunting steamer dates.

In the following gallery are hung paintings by Frederic Tellander and Vladimir Roussoff. Mr. Tellander has a splendid showing with, among the most beautiful, the beach scene of blue water cut across at the back by an incoming breaker of green topped with white foam, and a fascinating painting of the book stalls along the Seine. Another Paris canvas very appropriate to the tourist season is "Notre Dame: Twenty Minutes for Tea." Roussoff is, in this company, exceedingly labored and heavy.

Then come a gallery divided between Beatrice Levy and Constantine Pougialis; another divided between Ivan Le Lorraine Albright and George and Martin Baer; three rooms devoted to the superb photographs offered by the International Photographic show and the hall at the back hung with the charming water colors of Anita Willets Burnham and her gifted young daughter, Carol-Lou.

The first prize in the Photographic International was awarded to Mrs. Elaine H. Kern of Chicago for "Industry"; the second prize went to Alvin C. Grainer, Astoria, New York, for "Portraiture"; the third prize was won by Helen Campbell, Rugby, England, with "Architecture," and the fourth by Clifford M. Johnson of Canada with "Chicago Scene."

These summer exhibitions will remain on view through Oct. 11.

Cover the Arms, Bare the Back, Says Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Back views of evening fashions are beauty tests this summer. At the recent opening of the Ambassadeurs on the Champs Elysées there was scarcely a covered feminine back. Décolletés right down to the waistline put a premium on well kept, beautifully curved spinal regions, whereas the bodice front was as modest as any daytime frock and the shoulders and upper arms were covered up.

Many women were wearing chiffon frocks printed with huge flowers or leaves, and all of them with these backless bodices and long skirts, which need a word for themselves. The evening skirts cling half way to the knees, where they burst forth in voluminous fullness that increases toward the hem into a large, complete circle of cloth.

The clinging skirt, the bared back, and the bodice front—these three features of the Paris evening mode as worn—leave no doubt about the importance of a rounded figure if one is going to wear fashionable evening dresses this season.

Jean Patou's flower printed white chiffon evening dress, sketched today, tells the story better than words. The bolero bertha that covers the shirred bodice is tucked in the center front to emphasize the bust. It flares into capelets over the shoulders and upper arm, and divides at the back to leave that part of the anatomy bare just to the waistline, where it meets in a little bow. The skirt has two set-on bands at the front that flare into circular ruffles below the hips. It fits closely almost to the knees and is a full circle below.

Plough's BEAUTY CREAMS

More Than Pictorial Self Needed to Hold Husband's Interest

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Mary Roberts Rinehart, in a current monthly, comments on wives and their pursuit at maturity for beauty. Granting that it is every woman's job to make herself as attractive as possible, Mrs. Rinehart sees tragedy in the frantic clutch at youth, usually to hold her man, exhibited in the "weary round of dieting, cosmetics, and beauty parlors."

The real tragedy, says Mrs. Rinehart, is "that man seldom notices."

An internationally known beautician with a world of experience with women tells me of the daily appearance before her of middle aged women who have let themselves slip painfully, making desperate appeal to her for rejuvenation miracles.

Now, this is not going to be a beauty sermon, as my neighbor Antoinette would prescribe it. But we have just fostered a whole new crop of brides who might mull over Mrs. Rinehart's able comment on the tragedy of pinning too much hope on the purely pictorial. And on my cosmetician friend's experience with women who wait too late to be reasonably pleasing to the eye.

The man may not notice that the figure of his middle aged wife has undergone transformation, nor that her facials have taken some of the lines out, nor that her hair is being done more artistically. But when he doesn't notice, it is because he has got beyond the point of caring whether her hair is gray, red, or platinum blond. Men who care for their wives do notice and regret the loss of figure. Several known to me have recently urged their wives to follow reducing programs. It's the caring, however, that matters.

So, you young matrons, with the modern trend to place cosmetics and a lean silhouette above good meals and good dispositions and good sportsmanship in marriage might better rebudget your wifely plans to include more than eye-pleasing. By all means, be eye-pleasing and be it every day of your life. For the young men have been woman-educated to note the beauty refinements—but man in marriage, doesn't prosper on an eye diet only—not by a long way.

Sanitary Risk

in carelessly-made substitutes for Kotex

SAFETY should be your first concern in sanitary protection. Health safety. The kind of safety you are certain of in Kotex, the pad that is used in leading hospitals.

But how about those nameless substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? What assurance have you of their sanitary safety? Who made them? Where? How? Are you sure you'd use them, if you knew their origin?

There's one certain way of avoiding risk. Ask for Kotex. Genuine Kotex. It's immaculately clean—made by wonderful, patented machines from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital cleanliness.

Kotex is splendidly comfortable. It may be worn with perfect safety on either side. Soft, filmy layers make adjustment easy. Treated to deodorize. Readily disposable.

Food Talk.

Now is the time of the year when the thrifty housewife thinks of her next winter's supply of canned fruits and jellies. A number of pertinent questions have been asked concerning details of the work. One woman recently asked why her currant jelly made by the sun method became mouldy and sour when kept in a damp basement.

A damp basement may be the cause, but there are a number of other things, any one of which might cause the mould on her jelly.

In the first place it is almost impossible to obtain a jelly that will keep when made by the sun method. The heat of the sun and the directness of the sun's rays sterilise the jelly all right, but there are other pitfalls or difficulties encountered.

In a well made jelly, where the proper proportion of sugar to juice has been used, the concentration of the sugar is sufficient to prevent the growth of moulds. However, the proper concentration of sugar is reached only at the point where gelation of the mixture occurs. If the jelly mixture is not allowed to stand in the sun long enough to jell, then the sugar concentration is not sufficient to preserve it.

On the other hand, if the jelly does stand long enough to reach the jelly stage it is difficult to place it in the glasses without having air spaces. The air in such spaces is an abiding place for bacteria, yeasts, and moulds. Glasses that have not been sterilized and that have been carelessly sealed play their part in spoiling the jelly, too.

With currant jelly, especially, the open kettle method is not only easier, but also safer. The washed mashed fruit is cooked in little water, not enough to cover it, until tender or until the currants show signs of of bursting and take on a white color. They are then drained without squeezing through a jelly bag made of heavy cloth like canton flannel, and the juice is measured. The pulp remaining may have more water added and again be boiled to make a second jelly extraction, or it may be run through a sieve, combined with an equal quantity of sugar, and boiled to the jelly stage to make a marmalade. The juice should then be brought to a boil and an equal amount of sugar added. The syrup is boiled rapidly to 218 degrees F., or to the point where two drops will sheet off the spoon. In the meantime the required number of jelly glasses should be sterilized by boiling in water for at least 15 minutes. Drain them of all water, then fill with the hot jelly.

Jelly should be covered at once with a thin coat of paraffin to prevent the entrance of undesirable organisms. After the jelly has cooled, another thicker coat of paraffin should be spread over the top. Great care must be taken to tip the glass slightly the second time the paraffin is added and allow the paraffin to touch all the edge of the glass. This will make the glass completely air tight and preserve the jelly.

Some people claim that, notwithstanding the greater ease of the open kettle method, the sun preserves have a better color. Currant jelly is cooked such a short time that its color is very little impaired. Even so, the benefits of this method exceed the retention of color, the only advantage of the sun method of jelly making.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Partner Not Available.

We were planning a picnic and in the quest for suitable young men I remembered an old school chum who was good company. Seven young women clustered about me and the telephone as I called his home.

"Is Morton there?" I asked.

"No, Morton has left town. Who is this?" asked his mother.

"Just a friend. Where has he gone?" in my sweetest tones.

The receiver clicked. I never will live down that reputation of calling married men on the phone. E. N.

Bright Sayings of the Children

I replied, "Yes."

We were staying at a small lake recently and little Billy seemed to be enjoying himself immensely. Noticing a motor boat on the lake, he quickly exclaimed, "O, look at the automobile boat!" M. J.

AUDITOR REVIEWS 6 YEARS OF STATE BANKING HISTORY

Gives His Reasons for Failures.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson made public yesterday an exhaustive report covering various phases of Illinois state banking practice from 1925 to the present time.

The report, consisting of elaborate statistical tables, graphs and maps, sets forth the number of state banks closed in the last six and one-half years. It analyzes the causes of bank failures, reveals the relative percentage of closings among rural, small town and metropolitan banks, and indicates the strength of Illinois banks as compared with those of other states.

Reaches Three Conclusions.

From the report, the state auditor says, three general conclusions may be drawn, namely:

1. That prior to 1925 the state had too many banks, mainly because of post-war inflation of real estate and commodity values.

2. That in the six year period up to Jan. 1, 1931, the oversupply was being reduced by an orderly process of mergers and voluntary liquidations, resulting in no loss whatever to depositors, with a certain number of failures among smaller banks, resulting, however, in no great losses to depositors.

3. That bank failures since Jan. 1, in Cook county at least, have been due almost entirely to a lack of confidence by depositors, who if they had left their savings in the bank vaults would have seen the institutions in many cases emerge from the current depression as strong as ever.

In 1925, the report discloses, there were 1,403 state banks doing business in Illinois. Since that time 537 banks have suspended business and 179 others have secured new charters, leaving a net decrease of 358 banks, so that 1,045 are operating at the present time.

Only 139 Receiverships.

Of the 537 banks ceasing business 419 closed their doors during the six year period prior to last Jan. 1. Out of the 419 mentioned only 139, or approximately 35 per cent, went into receivership, the others relinquishing their charters through mergers, purchase by larger banks, or by voluntary liquidation, wherein depositors were paid in full.

"This is what I mean by orderly liquidation of the surplus banks," Mr. Nelson explained. "In 65 per cent of the closings the depositors lost nothing. In the case of the remaining 35 per cent almost all the banks had only small deposit liabilities and were in sufficiently good condition to meet the greater part of their obligations."

The record since Jan. 1, 1931, presents a different picture. Of the 118 banks suspending business in the six months' period up to June 30 sixty-six were in Cook county and 52 downstate. Seventeen in Cook county and 39 of those downstate liquidated voluntarily, paying depositors in full.

Causes Appear Clear.

"The causes behind the bank troubles of the last six months now seem fairly clear," Mr. Nelson said. "In Cook county, with its dense population, rumors of one bank's difficulty spread swiftly, precipitating runs on that bank and its neighbors. Bank officers, not knowing their depositors personally as they do in smaller towns, were unable to inspire the confidence to check these runs."

From the audit of the 49 Cook county banks closed by his office Mr. Nelson said he was convinced that in all but one or two cases the banks would have come through solvent except for the runs.

Competition Closes Banks.

Downstate the trouble arose not so much from runs as from competition of the small town against the country bankers, according to Mr. Nelson. The report showed 48 banks closed in villages of less than 1,000 population, as contrasted with only one closing in towns of 5,000 to 10,000 population and no closings in towns of 10 to 20 thousand population.

"There is little doubt but that the country bankers have been suffering principally from the competition of the town bankers," Mr. Nelson said. "The country banker had the confidence of his customers, but he found it impossible to retain their patronage when they were doing most of their business in town. The record bears this out."

One table of the report is given to a listing of the technical causes of bank suspensions. Among those listed for the six and one-half year period are heavy withdrawals, 126; depleted cash reserves, 101; death of officer or defalcation, 30, and robbery, 1.

Total deposits of all state banks closed from January to June are listed at $85,022,000. Total resources are set at $126,847,000. Of all the banks closing in that period, less than 25 per cent were capitalized at more than $200,000.

The report includes a table prepared by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago listing all banks, both state and national, which were closed in the United States from 1927 to the present. Nebraska heads the list with 316 closed banks and Iowa is second with 259.

Illinois had 250 banks closed in the four and one-half year period while Indiana, with hardly half of Illinois' population, had 217. Wisconsin is listed for 76 closed banks; Michigan, 79; Minnesota, 137, and Missouri, 224. Only 23 failures were marked against New York, but several of these were banks with scores of branches and one, the Bank of the United States, was the largest closed in the history of the country.

Included with the report is a map of Illinois, showing active and closed banks by counties for the year ending June 30, 1931.

Adams Blames Congress for Defeats in Cruisers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.]—Could the navy count on congress to provide a steady flow of money, naval designers could produce a progressively improved series of ships, Secretary Adams declared today in answer to questions concerning the rolling proclivities of the eight newest 10,000 tons cruisers.

CHARLES F. ADAMS. [(C) H. & E. Photo.]

Instead of being able to build fewer ships at a time, correcting in the later ships the defects found in earlier vessels, the present tendency, the secretary intimated, is to get every ship authorized into the water before congress changes its mind.

Cracked Sterns Found in 5.

Instead of being divided into smaller groups, to be put into commission successively, the eight cruisers, for example, were all commissioned within 14 months. Since their commissioning, cracked stern posts have been found in five of them and all of them have been subject to a jerky roll in certain types of seas.

Both defects, said Secretary Adams, might properly be laid to the fact that these cruisers are the first of a new type. Maximum efficiency in design, he pointed out, could be attained only through a long process of refinement.

Claim Defects Exaggerated.

Navy officials insisted today that the seriousness of the roll had been exaggerated. The Houston, it was pointed out, had just completed a record breaking gunnery test, and the others have made excellent records.

The enlargement of the vessels' bilge keels, the provision of anti-rolling tanks, and perhaps increasing the superstructure weight, will remedy the roll, it was claimed at the department. The reason for the roll, it was explained, lay in the fact that the center of gravity in the vessels had been designed to be very low in order to increase the safety factor in case of damage in action.

Roll to Be Eliminated.

The seven cruisers now building have been so modified in design, it was said, that the tendency to roll will be eliminated.

The Northampton and Pensacola are already laid up undergoing alteration, the bilge keels being enlarged in one and anti-rolling tanks being installed in the other. Modification of the other six cruisers will take place after the devices in these two ships have been thoroughly tested out.

COUNTY BOARD IN CLASH OVER PLUMBING BIDS

Votes Payless Vacations for Preserve Force.

The county board yesterday found it easy to decree payless vacations for forest preserve employés, but it reached a deadlock after verbal tilting in which one commissioner intimated that there was unfair discrimination against a bidder when the board sought to award one of several contracts.

The bid of the Carl John Stein company for plumbing work on a swimming pool and bath house to be constructed at 159th street and Torrence avenue, was challenged by Commissioner Walter L. LaBuy when it was learned that no financial statement of the company to insure its responsibility had been filed with the bid. It is the rule of the board that such a statement shall accompany all bids.

"There was a statement, however," Commissioner Mrs. Edward J. Fleming insisted. "It was handed around the committee when we discussed the bids and then Mr. Stein took it away with him."

"Where is it? It's not here now. I didn't see it and it was not formally filed. You know the rule of the board. I move that the contract be returned to the committee for further consideration," retorted Commissioner La Buy.

"I don't understand just what's behind this," Mrs. Fleming said. "Is not the fact that the statement was seen by the committee sufficient? These cheap technicalities don't fit well with the whole circumstances of the affair."

"Well," replied LaBuy, "you know that the M. J. Carboy company, whose bid was really the lowest was rejected by the committee because its statement was not complete. I don't see why we should discriminate against one company more than another."

Commissioner George A. Miller recommended that all the bids on the plumbing contract be rejected and the motion was passed. The board will readvertise for new bids.

Three other contracts for work on the clay hole swimming pool and for another pool at Milwaukee and Devon avenues were let by the board. The total costs amounted to $145,764.

The enforced payless vacations for the forest preserve employés, passed by the board at the opening of it's session, will constitute a saving of $16,500 at the expense of 450 employés.

The plan for the reorganization of the county hospital recommended by the hospital subcommittee was accepted. Under the plan the hospital physicians and four university medical schools will collaborate to improve medical care of the patients and educational facilities for internes.

FALL SERVES FIRST DAY AS CONVICT 6991 IN PRISON HOSPITAL

Santa Fe, N. M., July 21.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, now convict No. 6991 in the New Mexico state penitentiary, was reported in good spirits tonight after his first day in prison. He was confined in the penitentiary hospital.

Dr. Eugene W. Fiske, prison physician, found physical ailments which had been reported by physicians, who had previously examined Fall.

10,000 CHICKENS BURN TO DEATH; SEEK INCENDIARY

Ten thousand chickens were burned to death last night in a fire, possibly of incendiary origin, which broke out in the wholesale egg and poultry establishment of Keeshin Brothers at 1111 Fulton street.

A 3-11 alarm was sounded. Firemen confined the flames to the one structure which had three stories. Fire Marshal Corrigan, who investigated, said evidence of incendiarism had been found.

Charles Keeshin, one of the owners of the business, said he had had trouble recently with the Chicken Pickers' union and that he had discharged his whole force and replaced it with non-union Negroes. Since then, he added, he had received threats purporting to come from the union.

ROBINS BEAT CUBS, 4-3; O'DOUL'S BAT HELPS

SHARKEY FIGHTS WALKER BEFORE 25,000 TONIGHT

Jack Believed Too Heavy for Mickey.

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Eight years of gloved warfare, success, failure and disappointments, converge tomorrow night for Jack Sharkey in the same ring in Ebbets field where he leaped into fame over night in 1926. If by any chance the bellicose sailor lad from Boston should fail to whip Mickey Walker, the overstuffed middleweight who aspires to be a giant killer, he will be right back where he was before he conquered Harry Wills, the all black menace, that October night in the Brooklyn National league ball park five years ago.

Experts Pick Sharkey.

The main difference, of course, is that Sharkey, before he humbled the Negro whom Jack Dempsey was supposed to have feared, was a rough and tumble youngster, fresh from a battle wagon in Uncle Sam's navy, spoiling for a fight, his whole career ahead of him. Tomorrow night he faces Walker at the crossroads, his conquests of Wills, Loughran, McTigue, Godfrey, Stribling, Delaney, McTigue, Godfrey, Stribling, Loughran behind him. Defeat will settle him from the front rank and rob any chance the sailor has of another opportunity to win the heavyweight championship from Max Schmeling, the man he fouled into the 6th more than a year ago.

The fight experts, however, after poring at the two warriors in training for several weeks, can see little reason why Walker should win the 15 round duel.

Walker 20 Pounds Lighter.

Sharkey will have about 20 pounds' advantage over the barrel chested, ox legged Walker. He is a head taller, has a longer reach, and more speed, skill and socking power on his side. Mickey hits hard with a left hook to the body—for a middleweight. He still has remarkable powers of endurance despite a dozen years of warfare. The betting is light, but what there is favors Sharkey at 2½ and 3 to 1. The match will not be broadcast.

The advance sale was around the $200,000 mark and the last day's rush for ringside seats tomorrow may shove the receipts up above the $200,000 mark. The attendance may reach 25,000.

Both Sharkey and Walker exercised lightly and rested today in their training camps, Mickey in his Orangeburg, N. Y., hillet and Sharkey across the river in New Jersey. They are due in New York tomorrow afternoon for the weighing in.

Foul Can't End Bout.

Inter-camp bickerings, the discovery of a Sharkey "spy" in the Walker stronghold yesterday, and a mutual exchange of predictions from the managers that the other fellow intended to "foul out," have kept the ballyhoo running for the last few days. There are no as fouls tomorrow night, however, as the boxing commission ruled some time ago that bouts no longer are to be terminated by low punches.

The heavyweights have been paired in a series of five round preliminaries to the supporting card. The lineup follows: Al Monro vs. Tommy De Stefano, Arthur De Kuh vs. Frank Cawley, Jack McCarthy vs. Pavess Prodelin, Babe Hunt vs. Walter Cobb, and Jackie Hewitt vs. Chester Matan.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If it hadn't been for Lefty O'Doul yesterday might have worked to the advantage of the aging Cubs. The ex-pitcher, however, was out to prove the fallacy of his own argument that he can't hit on Wrigley field. He proved it by hammering across three runs on two of his three hits, thus providing the Robins with sufficient margin to accomplish a 4 to 3 victory, which was delayed 54 minutes between the eighth and ninth innings by rain, darkness and some aggravating stalling by Uncle Robby's men.

O'Doul staged his field day at the expense of Bob Smith, whose style at present is hampered by a cracked left thumb. Lefty's first hit was a single on which a dividend wasn't declared. He came up again in the third and this time took the cheer out of 15,000 spectators by doubling to complete a three run rally. Then he was up later and doubled again to brew a run from the only pass given up by Smith in his seven innings of labor.

Attack None Too Robust.

The Cubs' attack in support of Smith wasn't exactly overpowering. They did their heaviest firing of the afternoon in the third, when they scored a pair of runs and partly melted down a three run lead the Robins had just assumed. After this they were just about helpless before Babe Phelps, at least until the eighth, when with the clouds heavy and rain coming on, they put on a rally that Pea Ridge Day, the champion hog caller, choked off with one run across and three men still loitering on the bases.

The rain which stopped play just before the ninth opened was of about 20 minutes' duration. Ten minutes more were consumed while the groundkeepers did their stuff. Then everything was in readiness for play, but the Robins wisely remained hidden in their dugout. The umpires also remained in seclusion on the excuse that it was so dark that the ball was not visible. Some of the arbiters can't even see it in sunlight, so the plea wasn't logical. President William Veeck was so perturbed about the matter that he informed league President John Heydler he would protest the

Miss Helen Filkey, holder of several hurdle records, was declared a professional yesterday by the A. A. U. under the rule which prohibits amateur athletes from selling trophies and medals. Miss Filkey has been employed for the last two years by a Chicago firm specializing in the distribution of athletic awards.

HELEN FILKEY.

Notice of her ineligibility was served on Miss Filkey by Roy Davis, chairman of the Central A. A. U. registration committee, as she was preparing to leave with the Chicago team to compete in the National championships at Jersey City, N. J., next Saturday.

Miss Filkey competed in the central A. A. U. meet here last week under protest and qualified for the 800 meter hurdles by setting a new American record of 0:12.3, three-tenths of a second faster than the old mark for the event.

HELEN MOODY IN QUARTER-FINALS OF ESSEX MEET

Manchester, Mass., July 21.—(AP)—Seven of the nation's first ten women tennis players and the unranked Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who, in other years topped them all, today gained the quarter finals in the Essex County club's brilliant tourney.

To gain the quarter finals Mrs. Moody had to overcome two sturdy and hard driving rivals. She engaged Mrs. Ary Lamme, New York, for a 6-1, 6-3 victory and then caught up with the fourth round winners by overcoming Charlotte Miller, New York, 6-2, 6-2. These wins moved her into position for an encounter with Virginia Hilleary, Philadelphia, with a semi-final bracket going to the winner.

MATRON STAKE MATCHES MARES, FILLIES TODAY

Another in the series of rich stake events, offered by the Arlington Park Jockey club, will be run this afternoon when a field of ten will line up at the starting gate for the renewal of the Matron handicap. The race, over the mile Herts course, which will have a gross value of $14,875, is one of the few run in America to which fillies and mares of 3 years old and upward are eligible.

In the overnight betting the New York mare, Con Amore, from the Worthington Farm stable, was the favorite. But there was a lot of support for Manta, a Kentucky 4 year old, which came to Arlington this week after two brilliant stake triumphs at Latonia.

It was expected that Cousin Jo, the Kentucky Oaks winner, which turned in a brilliant workout over the Arlington main course yesterday morning, would be the third choice, with Risque and Valenciennes, representing Mrs. John Hertz as an entry, also mustering support.

Sweet Scent at Long Odds.

Despite the brilliant victory Sweet Scent scored earlier in the week, she was at tall odds and you could get 10 or 15 to 1 if you wanted to wager on her. Her Grace, after running a bad race at Arlington a short time ago, did not have many backers.

Con Amore is held by many to be the best racing mare in America. She never has been beaten in a race for mares, and she won a dash of six furlongs at Arlington not long ago in better than 1:11, turning back Cousin Jo and Risque. The Matron is to be run as the fifth race this afternoon.

There wasn't a stake race on yesterday's Arlington program, but enough handicap stars met in the $1,800 Palestine purse at a mile to make it a standout race. It also brought a finish that would do credit to any great stake event. Five of the six starters fought it out down the stretch in a blinding rainstorm, and as they came up to the finish line Calf Roper's nose was showing in front. Dark Sea's nose was next, only a couple of inches in front of Minotaur. And fourth, not far back, came Morsel. The other two starters were Satin Spar, the California wizard, and Modern Times.

Calf Roper Pays $41.

Calf Roper's triumph was unexpected; yet he ran a scorching mile under the conditions, turning the eight furlongs in 1:37 3-5. In the mutuels he paid $41.04 to win, $10.58 to place, and $5.76 to show. Dark Sea was the favorite and was at $3.14 to place and $2.52 to show, while Minotaur, which grabbed the lead at the head of the stretch, then weakened in the final strides, paid $5.52 to show.

Mackinac Sailors Take a Dip When Racing Fleet Is Becalmed in Lake

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Aboard Schooner Quick Silver, Somewhere in Lake Michigan, Sunday, July 19.—This being the day of rest, the winds accompanying the fleet to Mackinac Island in the Chicago Yacht club's 24th annual race from Belmont Harbor got religion in the small hours of the morning and refused to labor, thus becalming a majority of the 20 boats for several lazy hours. They relented somewhat along toward noon, however, and 4:30 o'clock found a diligent southern breeze working overtime in pushing the little navy up toward its first important objective, Point Betsie, Mich., 203 miles from the Chicago starting line.

The Quick Silver II., owned and skippered by Col. Albert E. Peirce of the Chicago Yacht club, did noble by its master and crew during the early part of the race, but this morning found itself in the same position as a dozen others in the cruising division, hoisting every sail aboard in an effort to coax the truant breezes back to full time duty.

Reporter Likes Cook.

It was at 8 o'clock last night [Saturday] that the Quick Silver II., with sails close hauled, fetched the Point Betsie course, which is north by east, ¼ east according to the compass. Skipper Peirce swung back on the course after sailing seven miles east of the starting line. When he found the course three of his rivals, Linn Williams' Elizabeth, E. F. Knight's big schooner Bimeea II. from Toledo, O., and Bob Benedict's Bagheera, were to the leeward of him, but Quick Silver liked the northeast breeze a trifle better and soon outfooted them.

By this time your correspondent, the only landlubber in the ship's company of the Quick Silver II., had come into full possession of his sea legs after a somewhat inauspicious start. He had committed the folly of going below while the Quick Silver II. was still under power of its engine prior to the start of the race. He staggered up the ladder to the cool of the deck, in a short time, however, and there, with the aid of several encouraging remarks by Col. Peirce and Dr. Frank Blatchford, together with some suggestions on diet by Cook John Clark, he managed to weather what had started out to be a full blown attack of seasickness. Within an hour or so he was wondering why he had not gone to sea earlier, and was hailing Cook Clark as one of the culinary geniuses of the lakes.

Two Watches on Yacht.

Clark and the landlubber are the only members of the party who do not have to stand watch on the Quick Silver II. The others are divided into two groups of five who alternate at four hour periods in manning the big, handsome schooner. The starboard watch includes Skipper Peirce; his son Jimmy, who will be a senior at The Hill school, Pottstown, Pa., in the fall; Capt. Albee of the ship's regular crew; Steve Davis, a veteran yachtsman, and Frank Blatchford Jr., a 1930 Harvard graduate, who is now preparing for his medical degree at the University of Chicago.

W-G-N Gives Weather Reports.

The personnel of the port watch is composed of Dr. Frank Blatchford, Henry Grebe, Bunny Rich, who will enter his last year at Dartmouth within a few months; Albert E. Peirce Jr., who attends the University of Virginia, and Lester Hovick, a young Norwegian sailor who belongs to the regular crew.

The Quick Silver is 65 feet in over-all length. Its mainmast is 82 feet high, while the foremast towers 65 feet above the deck. In addition to the owner's quarters there is a starboard cabin. The landlubber was assigned to this, and a right snug berth it has been. Forward of this is the main cabin, with bunk for four, and the world's most amiable dining table. This bit of furniture is constructed on a kind of bridge, with a weighted rudder dropping off the under side of the table proper, so that no matter what the weather Cook Clark's highly palatable menu, including soups, tea, and coffee, may be enjoyed without danger, for as the ship rolls so rolls the table.

From the start of the race until after midnight Sunday the crew of the Quick Silver was regaled with radio pieces produced through two loud speakers, one for the deck and one for the main cabin. W-G-N, The Tribune's radio station, supplied the weather reports for the Mackinac race to Quick Silver II.

The landlubber went below at 10:30 last night (Saturday) for a nap and returned to deck shortly after 4 o'clock this (Sunday) morning. There he found the starboard watch on duty, with Skipper Peirce at the helm. The Quick Silver II. might have been anchored at its mooring in the north end of Belmont harbor for all the momentum it was receiving. There was nary a puff of breeze to be had.

Boys Take a Dip.

This water was not the Lake Michigan which gets all riled up a half a dozen times a year and spills its wrath over Chicago's outer drives and knocks boats from one end of the lake front to the other. The smooth, glassy sea looked more like some tropical lagoon, and a withering sun beat down on the sailors of the fleet to lend strength to the south sea effect.

The Quick Silver II. was heading the fleet yet, and from the deck at dawn—looking like ghost ships—could be seen three rivals. The nearest appeared to be the Bagheera, with Elizabeth and B. A. Halperin's Circe astern of it. When the sun rose, full and high, no fewer than fourteen sails were sighted by the crew of the Quick Silver II. and all of them were in the same plight, becalmed.

The progress of the boat was so negligible that Skipper Peirce agreed to let his two sons, together with Frank and Bunny, go in for a dip. They peeled down to the original wrapper for this performance, and when all were in the water along the ship's port side the skipper shouted at them in some irony, "Swim up a couple of miles and see if you can find a breeze."

Everybody Good Natured.

The Quick Silver's crew took the calm with good nature, trying first one set of sails then another, and so back to the first, seeking for a single puff to send them northeast. The

CARDS CONQUER GIANTS; UMPIRE OUSTS BANCROFT

St. Louis, Mo., July 21.—(AP)—The Cardinals knocked Fred Fitzsimmons off the mound in the fourth inning today, scoring five runs, and added three more off Bill Walker in the seventh to defeat the New York Giants, 8 to 5, in a stormy game.

GOLFERS RAISE THEIR ANNUAL HULLABALOO OVER BOB O'LINK'S COURSE

W. M. Dewey, manager of the Worcester Beach hotel, sends one down the fairway to the ninth green at Bob O' Link's Hullabaloo.

Wins by a Nose.

Chickahominy won by a nose by dint of as good a finish as has been put up by a jockey this season. Pete Walls was the winning rider and his efforts, coupled with his mounts' game finish, were too much for Deploy and Eddie Barnes.

George D. Widener's Scatter landed third, three lengths back of Deploy. Then in order finished Gildella, Squeaky, the Gen and Smear, the other seven which had been named over night having been scratched because of the change in track conditions.

Bad Day for Favorites.

Winning favorites were harder to find today, and in several races the horses were as uncertain as the weather. The sun would be out for one race, and then a pile of black clouds would be dropping rain on the next.

So it was with the Gen, backed down to favoritism at 8 to 5. The last time out he was 10 to 1 and won easily after a tremendous rush in the stretch.

Hawthorne to Have 8 Races 3 Days a Week

The Chicago Business Men's Racing association announced yesterday it will run eight races a day on three afternoons each week during the meeting at Hawthorne, Aug. 3 to 22.

This decision followed request by numerous business men, who find it impossible to reach the track in time for the first race at 2:15, but who now can arrive in ample time to make the effort worth while.

Last season during the summer meeting post time at Hawthorne, except for Saturdays, was 1:30 o'clock. This year post time every afternoon will be 2:15.

OVERLOOKED AT YEARLING, MATE MISSES 2 RACES

New York, July 21.—(AP)—Because A. C. Bostwick, youthful millionaire sportsman, failed to see in the bloodlines of Mate a 1931 champion, the conqueror of Twenty Grand will have few opportunities to meet his only rival for the 3 year old title again this year.

Entries for the Travers and the Lawrence Realization are made as yearlings, and Bostwick thought so little of Killahandra, Mate's dam, that he did not bother to name her offspring by Prince Pal, when the nominations closed two years ago. Twenty Grand, however, was named for both.

If Mate and Twenty Grand match strides again this year they either will have to step out of their class or battle it out in some small stake. It is not likely that either will start in the Saranac or the Kenner, $3,500 events at Saratoga for which they are eligible, but in all probability will meet in the Saratoga cup, Sept. 5, and the Jockey Club Gold cup later in the month at Belmont Park.

DANCING BOY had the most early speed, but, taking a short lead soon after the start, stood a hard stretch drive gamely to the last to win. RUFFIAN met with some interference in the early running but closed fast on the outside and would have won in another stride. PLAYING was a close quarters factor after half the distance but continued to improve in game fashion. CHATTER ON was also crowded early. NIGHT VINTAGE met with some interference. SEMESTER and ELEANOR'S CHOICE displayed early speed. LINGUIST broke slow and was far back all the way. ROKEBY had some early speed.

OUTER HARBOR, prominently placed soon after the start, came gamely through the stretch and got the decision in a driving finish but pulled up sore. COPPERFIELD, well in the early running, took a short lead in the stretch and would have won but DACITE dropped back slightly after going half the distance but came again in the stretch and would have been dangerous with a better ride. ANNIE REE was going well at finish. RAG SMASHER was in tight quarters after the first two were dangerous. LIL. LIAM TOBIN displayed early speed but tired. GREY KITTY was used up making the pace.

BLACK BULL, away last and taking a short lead entering the stretch, held on gamely to beat PAL TO PAL. Latter gained steadily in the last half mile and, challenging in determined fashion in the final eighth, barely missed. DUSKY BOY was in early trouble and made good ground. SWEET AIR acted badly at the barrier and started from the outside, broke well, but could not keep up with the leaders although racing evenly to the finish. ATILL, shuffled back after the start, made up much ground and would have been dangerous but for being blocked repeatedly while trying to get through on the rail. ORANGE PLUME and HIGH POCKETS tired. JOHN R. was in close quarters after the start.

HIGH DEVINE, showing great improvement over his last effort, set a fast pace and, shaking off Phantom Legion in the final eighth, was going away at the finish. PHANTOM LEGION raced strongly in the early stages and challenged gamely in the stretch but weakened in the last sixteenth. FREDERICK ran in spots and was going well at the finish. DESERT SUN was sharply blocked in the first quarter, then moved up close to the leaders but was forced wide at the stretch turn and was tiring at the end. TOMMIE KIRNAN displayed some early speed. The others were outpaced.

CALF ROPER moved up fast on the outside after going a half and although forced to race a trifle wide at the stretch turn caught MINOTAUR in the final eighth and held sway to the finish to win under a drive. DARK SEA, easily best, was in close quarters next the rail for the entire journey and was blocked repeatedly but continued gamely and, coming with a rush when clear in the stretch, would have won in a few more strides. MINOTAUR, close up from the start, took a short lead at stretch turn and raced gamely to the end but was considerable interference. MODERN TIMES tired after forcing the early pace. SATIN SPAR was done after going six furlongs.

BETON took command after going a quarter and, racing well in the going, withstood the challenge of STOP GAP to lead to the finish. STOP GAP was prominent from the start but was tiring slightly at the end. TARNISH acted badly at the barrier and was slow to get going but closed an immense gap to finish fastest of all. VOLT METER went fairly well on a track that was to his liking. SAM PASS loomed up dangerous at far turn but weakened in run home. TOMMY TICKLE and GRIER OF SPAIN had some early speed.

GALAHAD, far back for over half the distance, came fast on the outside when called upon and, wearing down PLEASE, was going away at the finish. PLEASE broke quickly and, opening up a long lead in the early running, held on fairly well but could not resist the winner. MONTANARO made up some ground but did not threaten the first two. DIXIE LAD improved his position slightly under punishment but was never dangerous. RIVER FOREST stopped badly after going six furlongs.

Ten to Race Saturday for Arlington Cup

Otto Lehmann, president of the Arlington Jockey club, figures on a field of eight or ten on Saturday for the Arlington cup, one mile and a quarter, first of the season's weight for age races for 3 year olds and over, which should gross close to $30,000.

Sun Beau, Gallant Knight, The Nut, Spinach, Spanish Play, Sun Meadow, Paul Bunyan, Mike Hall, and possibly Caruso and Sidney Grant are prospects.

Announcement that Sun Meadow and Spanish Play would compete in the cup came from Thomas Roderock and Pat Knebelkamp yesterday. This pair of capable 3 year olds also are pointing for the Arlington handicap.

Arlington Cup day will be also Governor's day at Arlington. Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, who has been too busy so far to get out to the track, will be present with several members of his official family and present the cup to the winner's owner.

Raymond E. Daly and F. K. Benzing, associates of William Ziegler of New York, were visitors with Fred Burton of Chicago, proprietor of the Everglade stable.

No candidate for the Arlington cup attempted serious work yesterday morning, but several were out for constitutionals. Spinach, which turned a flattering mile and a furlong in 1:54 on Monday, breezed a half in 49 seconds.

Sun Beau, which squaled Blue Larkspur's record of 1:49 2-5 for one mile and a furlong, when he licked Mike Hall in an overnight race on Saturday, turned four furlongs in 50 3-5 and pulled up five in 1:04.

Cousin Jo, the Kentucky Oaks winner, sharpening for the Matron handicap inaugural today, stepped a quarter in 23, three furlongs in 35 and a half in 47 flat. She was not distressed.

Otto Lehmann's Maid of Honor, an Illinois bred 3 year old, did a half in 49 seconds. Silverdale turned seven furlongs in 1:32 and Hypnotism accomplished a mile in 1:42.

WILLIAMS, BRADY LEAD BOB O' LINK GOLF HULLABALOO

176 Play First Round of Annual Tourney.

Two home club boys, Chet Williams and William Brady, tied for the lead in Bob o' Link Golf club's historic "hullabaloo" yesterday, each turning in a net score of 68 for the first day's play. The field of 176 will play another round of 18 holes today.

The tournament which had been postponed from June 23 because of rain did not escape entirely from the downpour yesterday. A heavy downpour late in the afternoon caught many of the tardy starters in the middle of their play. Bob Gardner of Owentsia was one of the victims. He had just left the first tee when the storm struck and as a consequence had a 6 on the par 4 first hole. He had a card of 75—1—74 for the first round.

Williams Shoots Low Gross.

Besides tying for the low net lead, Williams also had the best low gross with a 77—34—71, one under par. He was one over par on the first nine but got back to par figures on the 10th, where he scored a birdie 4 by sinking a 15 foot putt. He shot even par on the next 4 holes. He negotiated the 15th with a birdie 3 when his second shot stopped six inches from the pin. His card:

Out—444	355	434—36
Out—455	345	434—37
In—453	443	344—34—71

Burton Madge of Knollwood had good low gross with 37—37—74. He did consistent golf all the way, being one over par on the first nine when he three putted the fourth. He took a 6, one over par, on the 15th to place him two over for the 18 holes.

Brady's Score His Best.

Brady, one of the early finishers, shot the best golf of his career to tie for the lead with a score of 35—17—68. He had a birdie 2 on the 8th.

A number of prominent citizens tested their golfing skill yesterday, among whom were Francis X. Busch, corporation counsel; Champ Carry, vice president of the Pullman company; L. E. Myers, president of the board of education, and I. C. Elston, president of Bob o' Link. Leading scores:

MOON MULLINS—WHEN MAMIE THINKS

Miss Roesslein Victor in First Round Match

Miss Marge Roesslein of Lincoln park, medalist in the annual Cook county women's golf tournament, fought an uphill battle to win her first match from Mrs. Kathryn Frieder, Jackson park, 1 up at the 19th at Cog Hill yesterday.

Miss Roesslein was at a disadvantage from the start as some one stole her clubs the night before. Playing with sticks borrowed from her opponent's daughter she was off her tee shots. After five holes she was four down. At the turn she was still four down, having won only one hole. She was out in 46 to Mrs. Frieders' 42, 3 over par. The turning point came at the 520 yard 12th when her par 5 won. She had the "feel" of the clubs and from then on shot six consecutive pars to square the match at the 17th.

The 18th was halved in 6. A three foot downhill putt stopped just short of the hole for a win for Miss Roesslein. They both had 87 for the round.

The 550 yard 19th was won by Miss Roesslein's 6 to Mrs. Frieder's 7.

Today Miss Roesslein meets Mrs. James Faltus, wife of a Chicago professional.

Mrs. Rose Marshall, Marquette, was on her game yesterday and with the help of a one putt green turned in 85, the lowest score of the day. She took her match from Mrs. C. M. Swiney, Jackson, 9 to 7.

Hutchison Plays Ayton Today for Junior Crown

Laurie Ayton Jr. and Jock Hutchison Jr., both sons of club professionals, today will play for the Chicago District Golf association junior championship in the 36 hole final at the Evanston Golf club.

Yesterday Ayton defeated Winfield Day of Elmhurst, the favorite, 5 and 4. This was probably the most severe beating Day has received in match play. Ayton won two under par at the end of nine holes and finished the 18 holes with perfect golf.

In the afternoon Ayton was paired with Lefty Steffins of Wilmette. He coasted in with a 4 and 3 victory.

Hutchison had to defeat Wilbert Kokes of Acacia and Emil Schmidt of Evanston to win his way to the finals. He won his morning round from Kokes, 3 and 2, and in the afternoon scored a 2 and 1 victory over Schmidt.

In the other morning matches Steffens of Wilmette defeated Eddie Blonsten of Mission Hills on an extra hole after evening the score on the 18th, and James Harrison of Exmoor, son of a veteran tournament golfer, lost to Schmidt.

President J. J. Rutherford and Secretary Thomas Stirling headed the golfers. Stirling won low gross with 84. F. Z. Wood had low net with 90—18—72. R. L. Holland was low guest with 96—24—72. Three tied at 89 for second best low gross, E. T. Stille, F. A. Jensen, and C. H. Schinke. Rutherford was far down the list with 95—5—90. C. M. Baldwin had the high gross and net, 133—21—112.

Henry Hofer of Flossmoor scored 39—27—76 to win the Chicago Coal Merchants' association annual golf tournament at Westward Ho yesterday. Harold Stein of the Idlewild Country club, took second prize with 41—40—81.

DISTRICT WOMEN GOLFERS DRILL FOR TITLE MEET

McDyer and Mrs. T. C. Quinton, Mohawk, and Mrs. O. M. George, Glen Oak. On the playoff Mrs. McDyer won at the first hole. Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Crystal Lake, had 104—18— 6 for low net.

In the third flight two Glen Oak players, Miss Mary Dresser and Mrs. T. S. McCarty, tied for low gross. Miss Dresser won the playoff on the first extra hole. Mrs. George Herron, Acacia, and Mrs. G. F. Sargent, Knollwood, tied for low net, Mrs. Herron having 114—25—89 and Mrs. Sargent 117—28—89. Mrs. Herron won at the first extra hole.

The next District Open day will be held at Skokie on Friday, and on Monday the city championship willl open at Calumet.

Last Day's Entries Boost Total to Twice 1930 Figure

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Yesterday's mail deluged our desk with entries for THE TRIBUNE 100 yard swimming championships, which will be held Sunday afternoon in the Lincoln park lagoon. The final tabulation will not be available for another day, but it now appears that the entry list will be double that of last year. Fourteen hundred competed last year.

Franklin park, 14th street and Kolin avenue, sent in one of the largest team entries. Seventy-seven boys and girls will compete for Franklin park in the ten races. Director Louis Wilk and Instructors Elva Lindau and Irwin Weiner have organized a team of west side boys and girls which they believe will give Franklin an excellent chance to win the team trophy.

Thirty-one Girls Enter.

Thirty-one girls will compete for Franklin. They are listed as follows: Class A, 4; class B, 7; class C, 9; class D, 7, and class E, 4. The boys' entry of 46 is divided as follows: Class A, 8; class B, 8; class C, 19; class D, 9; class E, 2.

P. C. Buschmann of California park, Irving Park and California, submitted an entry of 44, of which 35 were boys. Buschmann's team, park district champion, is another favorite to capture the team trophy.

Athletic Director Jene Finet of the United States Gypsum company will have six swimmers in Sunday's races. Four of the entries will compete in class E for boys 19 years of age and over.

Esther G. Parris of the Emmet playground entered five girls yesterday in THE TRIBUNE races. Helen M. O'Malley of Ryerson playground, 624 North Lawndale avenue, entered 18 girls. Eight of the entry will compete in class B for 13 and 14 year olds and seven will swim in class C.

Clark playground will be represented by four boys. Steve Stracchia filed the entry. McKinley park, 39th street and Western boulevard, has entered five girls and seven boys through Daniel K. Penny, the instructor at the park.

Cornell Square Has 23.

Arthur P. Butler at Cornell square has 23 boys and girls who are anxious to receive merit badges for the 100 yard tests and try for the championships. Five of the team are girls. Butler also filed a supplemental list in the last mail yesterday.

The Victorian Athletic club, 3127 Van Buren street, will have 16 girls in the races, according to Coach Marie Wagner. Beradette Connelly, champion last year in the 12 and 13 year old class, will compete in the 13 and 14 class this year.

Robert Marriott, boys' champion in 1930 in the 12 and 13 year old group, will compete again Sunday. Marriott is on the team which will represent the Saugatuck Recreation company, Saugatuck, Mich. Fourteen are listed by Charles McCaffree Jr., the coach.

Sailors Swim as Mackinac Yachts Pause

younger sailors contented themselves with comments on the "girls" and Jimmy Peirce pursed his lips and blew mockingly against the flat canvas of the big mainsail.

There was much conjecture about the whereabouts of the Bimesa II., all thinking that the black hulled boat astern was the Bagheera, and that the Bimesa II. had disappeared down the western shore of the lake during the night. It took Dr. Blatchford and a pair of binoculars to discover that the alleged Bagheera was really the Bimesa II. and that the Benedict boat was farther astern. This came under the head of good news, for the Bimesa II. was the only boat in the race giving the Quick Silver II. a time allowance.

Circe Leaps Ahead.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, a light wind came up and within an hour it had freshened considerably, sending the Quick Silver II. and its rivals forward at a goodly pace. The Peirce schooner flew a Genoa jib and a spinnaker for several hours thereafter, these two billowing sheets of canvas, rigged from the tip of the foremast to the end of the bowsprit, made the boat look like some great white bird, coasting over the turquoise ripples just before taking flight.

During the late morning and in the fore part of the afternoon, Bimesa II., with its sinister hull giving it the appearance of a buccaneer come back from Sir Henry Morgan's time, crossed Quick Silver's bows and appeared to head for the Michigan shore. Circe, with Bill Whalen's gentle voice cooing from somewhere astern, also leaped ahead, but cut in behind Quick Silver to make its move.

The Elizabeth, which was to be her companion during the night's storm, kept to her course, but outfooted the Peirce boat. Bagheera, well sailed by Skipper Benedict, also charged ahead during the day. It was the combination of Genoa jib and spinnaker which enabled Quick Silver II. to overhaul and pass Circe and hold her own with Elizabeth, Bagheera and Bimesa II.

COURT UPHOLDS WRIT BLOCKING CARNERA FIGHT

New York, July 21.—[Special.]—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals t day unanimously upheld the decision of Judge John C. Knox, who granted an injunction to Madison Square Garden of Illinois restraining Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight, from meeting Jack Sharkey or any other boxer until he fought Max Schmeling, who defeated W. L. Stribling in Cleveland. Judge Knox's decision was rendered late in June before the Stribling-Schmeling bout July 3.

As Carnera and Schmeling have tentatively agreed to a bout in September today's ruling means little.

Judge Harrie B. Chase wrote today's opinion, which was concurred in by Judges Larned Hand and Augustus N. Hand.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PLYMOUTH, England, July 21.—Having crossed the Atlantic in less than seventeen days, the yawl Dorade, owned and sailed by Olin J. Stephens of Scarsdale, N. Y., slipped into Plymouth sound this evening, the first yacht to cross the ocean in the trans-Atlantic race that started at Newport, R. I., July 4.

No one was more surprised than the yacht's young skipper when he was congratulated on being the first to reach England, for the Dorade had forty-six hours' time allowance over the scratch boat. However, it will not be known whether she is the winner until the arrival of the remaining competitors and computation of the various time allowances.

FRENCH SOLONS LACK FUNDS FOR OLYMPIC TEAM

PARIS, July 21.—(AP)—The executive committee of the French Olympic association decided today that insufficient funds were available to permit sending a French team to the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

This decision, however, is subject to the action of the association as a whole. A general meeting is scheduled for Thursday to consider the problem of raising additional funds.

Eiller Faces Harder Task in Second Chicago Bout

Johnny Eiller of Louisville will attempt to make it two victories in a row on his Chicago invasion when he fights Bud Saltis of Logan Square tomorrow night at Shrewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen. He will have a harder assignment than last week, when he whipped Jerry Kucera.

SHARKEY AND WALKER.

JACK SHARKEY, the Boston Lithuanian of erratic ring conduct, but exceptionally good to his family, is "on the spot" tonight in his contest against Mickey Walker at Brooklyn. If Sharkey loses he is out of the heavyweight challenger picture. If he wins he is just where he was before—awaiting the pleasure of Herr Max Schmeling for a return bout.

From the Sharkey viewpoint The Wake sees no reason for the bout except extreme confidence in the result and therefore willingness to annex a purse without extreme hazard. This does not imply that Sharkey ever has dodged hazard or tried to pick 'em. Unless memory fails he was the chap who took on and eliminated Harry Wills after Jack Dempsey's sponsors for real or imaginary reasons had drawn the color line.

Unless the Bostonian has deteriorated sadly since meeting Schmeling, then Walker, little gamecock that he is, does not appear to figure in the same class with his opponent. There is that thirty pounds or more weight handicap to consider. Neither boxer is young in the ring sense. To all advance estimates, however, must be attached the proviso that Sharkey keep his head.

There are the usual sinister rumors. The only answer to that is too much seems at stake in the future for other than a contest on its merits.

Winning but Not Cashing.

Picture, if you will, a young man turf wise to the mutuels and worldwise to sports events at Arlington Park on Classic day. Naturally venturesome, he had by the fourth race enough left for only three modest wagers. Appeal to the conservative manager of the family's reserve bank roll brought no response. So this member of our party placed his three speculative units on Mate to win and Spanish Play to place and show.

After these horses had finished that way our hero remarked, "I'm some picker." Then he reached for his winning tickets. They were somewhere other than in his pocket—perhaps left at the mutuel window, perhaps thrown away with losing tickets of the first three races, perhaps left on the table as he stepped to view the race, thereby becoming public property.

After twice frisking himself and searching all pockets our hero remarked philosophically, "After all these years at the races I've joined the boob class. It would be funny if it were any one else, so I guess it must be funny anyhow."

U. S. CAN'T USE HENNEPIN LINK OF WATERWAY

Needs Millions Worth of New Construction.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—[Special.] — Barge service between the Mississippi and Illinois rivers via the Hennepin canal was indefinitely postponed today when Secretary of War Hurley announced that service would not be inaugurated until the completion of extensive lock and channel improvements not yet authorized by congress.

SECT. HURLEY. [© Harris & Ewing.]

Secretary Hurley's announcement constituted an approval of the recommendations of the advisory board of the Inland Waterways corporation, which met with Maj. Gen. T. G. Ashburn, manager director, last Friday, to hear arguments in favor of establishing service on the canal.

A trial trip through the canal had shown that operation at the present time would be at a loss, the advisory board declared. To put the Hennepin canal in shape for practical operation, said the board, would require a large capital outlay, including dredging, piling at the locks, lighting, and the provision of new barges and towboats.

Therefore, said the board, the corporation would not feel justified in commencing service until congress or some other authority had seen that the following conditions were fulfilled:

Reduction of number of locks from 33 to 18 or 16.

Construction of approaches and exits from the locks to allow of continuous safe navigation, day and night, and proper night illumination of the locks.

Completion of the Illinois project to Chicago.

COL. J. M. SNYDER, G.A.R. ORGANIZER' DEAD AT CANTON

Noted for Service to State Also.

While serving as military secretary to Gov. Richard J. Oglesby in 1866, Col. Snyder, Chaplain W. J. Rutledge, Maj. B. F. Stephenson and other started the movement which culminated in final organization of the G. A. R. in 1866. He was elected first quartermaster general and aided in the formation of the department of Minnesota and later organized the first Cook county posts Nos. 26 and 27. He served as commander of the department of Illinois in the jubilee year, being elected at the state commandery meeting in 1916.

The G. A. R., according to statements made many times by Col. Snyder, was organized at Springfield, although the charter for post No. 1 was issued to a number of veterans at Rockford, and because of this it has been erroneously stated that the organization was formed in that city.

Col. Snyder enlisted in the 8th Illinois [Grierson's] cavalry in 1861 at Jacksonville and was appointed first lieutenant and quartermaster. Later he was transferred to the 101st Illinois infantry. In 1864 he was appointed aide-de-camp to the war governor, Richard Yates, with the rank of major and later served as his private secretary. He was given the rank of colonel when appointed military secretary to Gov. Oglesby in 1865.

THOMAS DUNBAR TO BE BURIED AT PHOENIX, ARIZ.

The body of Thomas Dunbar, connected with the Pullman company for 51 years at the time of his retirement in 1918, was taken to Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday for burial. He died Monday at his summer home, Elkhorn, Lauderdale lakes, Wis.

Mr. Dunbar was born in Watten, Scotland, in 1864 and came to the United States while a boy. He was employed by the old Pullman Palace Car company, becoming superintendent of all Pullman shops in 1909. He is credited with bringing the wooden sleeping cars to a high state of development and also aided in changing manufacturing methods when steel cars were introduced.

He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the Lauderdale Lakes Country club, the Mystic Shrine of the Medinah temple, and the Oriental consistory.

Seeking to reclaim the body of his wife from an unknown pauper's grave, William Rieve, 76, yesterday produced her will leaving her estate of $5,000 to him before Oscar Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner, and declared after it was admitted to probate that he would find her remains and place them in proper ground.

Rieve said that he had gone to visit friends in Aurora last May and when he returned home three weeks later he discovered that his wife had become suddenly ill and was taken to the county hospital, where she died. Through a clerical error her name had been erroneously recorded and she was buried in potters' field when the public administrator was unable to find heirs.

He said that he had made strenuous efforts to find her body, but thus far he has been unsuccessful.

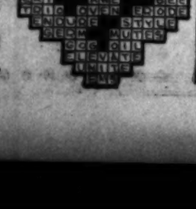
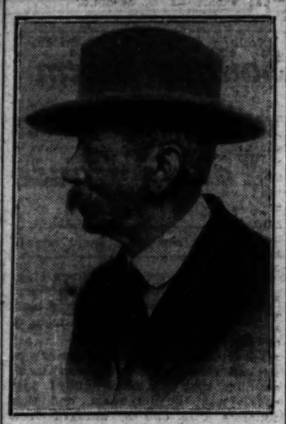
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



G. A. R. Founder Dies



COL. JOHN M. SNYDER.

PRIVATE FUNERAL RITES TODAY FOR MARY L. LYFORD

Private funeral services for Mrs. Mary Lee Lyford, 67 years old, long active in Chicago women's clubs, who died in her home at 222 East Chestnut street Monday night after an illness of two years, will be held this morning in the chapel at Oakwood cemetery. Interment will be in that cemetery.

Mrs. Lyford founded the Wheaton Garden club and for years was active in the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild, in which she was formerly an executive vice president. It is the work of the guild to see that flowers from thousands of gardens near Chicago contribute their surplus to crippled, sick, and needy of the city.

Mrs. Lyford was one of the organizers of the Woman's Athletic club and interested herself in the club's work of erecting a new clubhouse at 626 North Michigan avenue. She also was a member of the Fortnightly club and others.

For 15 years the Lyfords lived in Wheaton, in the house known after that Hawthorne's story, "The House of Seven Gables."

Mrs. Lyford was born in Nebraska City, Neb., coming to Chicago to live as a bride 45 years ago. Surviving are her husband, Will Hartwell Lyford, a lawyer; a son, Calhoun, of Los Angeles, who with his wife attended his mother during the last six weeks of her illness; a daughter, Gertrude, now Mrs. Edwin R. Boyd, of Ayr, Scotland; three grandchildren, daughters of Mrs. Boyd, one of whom was born July 6, and two brothers, Duke and Rufus F. MacComas, both of Chicago.

PROBE BOMBINGS OF SALOON AND AUTO SALES CO.

The police last night were investigating two bombings early in the day. One bomb was exploded in the doorway of a soft drink parlor at 228 South Halsted street, shattering windows in the two story building and causing $300 damage. Jacob Kauffman, 308 South Halsted street, said he had just bought the place and denied the contention of neighbors that he had been selling home brew.

The other bomb, which exploded in front of the Fullerton Avenue Auto Sales company, 3333 Fullerton Avenue, was placed before the door by one of two men in a small sedan. Michael Marquette, a salesman for the company, fought the pair in the car, but could not capture them. The bomb was thrown into the middle of the street by Edward E. Monroe, Negro porter, where it exploded with little damage.

RED CROSS TO FEED NEEDY IN OKLAHOMA TOWN

Henryetta, Okla., July 21.—(AP)—Aid for Henryetta's jobless and hungry was arranged today by the Red Cross and municipal and state officials.

Henry M. Baker, national Red Cross representative who arrived from St. Louis, announced a trained Red Cross worker would come here to handle the situation in this coal mining district.

Only those unable to work and needy women and children will be given food, Baker said. Employment for all who want work will be provided, but there will be no handouts as during the emergency several months ago, he added.

At Oklahoma City, Mayor Barclay Morgan and Ben Furr, chairman of the Okmulgee county commissioners, placed relief plans before Gov. W. H. Murray.

John Benz, Interpreter for Pershing, Is Buried

Funeral services were held yesterday for John Benz, who during the world war was interpreter for Gen. John Pershing. Military honors were paid the former sergeant during the obsequies at St. Ignatius church, Loyola and Glenwood avenues, at 3 o'clock. Chicago's own post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars provided the escort and the firing squad. Benz, who lived at 1946 Winnemac avenue, was drowned in the lake off Granville beach Saturday afternoon. Interment was in St. Joseph's cemetery.

WHIRLPOOL WITH REVERSE ENGLISH SEEN IN ATLANTIC

Spins Outward; Pushes Ships Away.

Boston, Mass., July 21.—(AP)—A whirlpool in the ocean, 150 miles eastward of Cape Cod, so strong that it repels a ship, was described today by Capt. William E. Parker of the Hydrographer, one of four United States coast and geodetic survey vessels engaged in the first complete charting of Georges banks.

The whirlpool was reported by Capt. Parker as spinning outward instead of towards its center. He said he had made several attempts to force the Hydrographer through it, but the force of the water immediately threw the vessel off its course. He planned, he said, to investigate the phenomenon further upon his return to the banks. Capt. Parker left with his crew to resume the survey after four days in port for supplies.

Finds Many Shallows.

Although the banks extend some 150 miles off Cape Cod, Capt. Parker said he found scarcely 12 feet of water in some of the shoal spots. One of the results of the survey probably will be the marking of such dangerous localities by the lighthouse service. Such markings are much in demand by the fishing industry. The banks, with submarine peaks and valleys, correspond to a mountainous region ashore and probably were thrown up during the last glacial period, according to Capt. Parker.

Small TNT bombs play an important part in the survey. Extremely accurate distances are obtained by measuring the time required for the sound of underwater detonations to travel between a working vessed and one at a fixed position. The sound is picked up on hydrophones by the ship at a known position and broadcast by radio back to the operating vessel. Sound travels faster in salt than in fresh water and in warm than in cold water, Capt. Parker said.

Continue Work Another Year.

Other vessels engaged in the work are the Lydonia, Gilbert and Oceanographer, the latter formerly the private yacht of J. P. Morgan.

Capt. R. F. Luce, head of the coast and geodetic survey station here, director of the work, estimated today the survey would be completed next summer and charts made available to navigators containing much information not hitherto obtainable.

DISCOVER TOXIN TO TREAT CANCER BY TEST ON MICE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 21.—Two major steps towards freeing the world of cancer were revealed in the eighth report of the British empire cancer campaign issued at the annual meeting yesterday. One is a method whereby known elements in tar, which are said to cause cancer, have been practically isolated, bringing "an advance of the first magnitude towards knowledge of the cause of cancer." The other is the result of experiments in inoculation, whereby it was found possible to cure and immunize mice, infected not only with artificially implanted cancer, but those in which the disease was spontanous.

The latter discovery is hailed as opening horizons, which a few years ago seemed impossible. The toxin was a development of experiments on sheep. Human cancer cells injected into sheep did not produce the disease, but antitoxin, it was discovered.

This was applied to cultures of mouse cancer living in tubes, and to normal living tissues under similar circumstances. The cancer tissue died, but the living tissues were unaffected. The antitoxin is so trong that it caused death of mice when administered to them. Means to separate the anti-cancer element from other elements in the serum was found by Dr. Munsden of the London hospital. He produced a nonpoisonous substance ten times stronger than the original serum.

Daniel J. McMahon, 68 years old, a practicing attorney in Chicago since 1893, died yesterday at his home, 4859 South Michigan avenue. He had been ill for six months. He was president of the Cook County Democracy and a leader in Democratic circles in Chicago for many years, and for several years was attorney for the school board. The widow, Mrs. Susie J. McMahon, and four children, Mrs. E. V. Zimmerman, Mrs. H. C. Stickelmaier, Daniel J. McMahon Jr. and Marshal I. McMahon, survive.

A DINING-ROOM TRAGEDY!

TABLES spread with delicious food . . . most of it soft, highly refined—lacking in the "bulk" and iron your body must have to keep well and strong.

This is the dining-room tragedy that occurs daily in millions of homes. No wonder most people suffer from constipation. No wonder headaches, backaches, and dull days are frequent!

Just add one delicious food to your table—and you will help correct all this suffering. Add Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in some form every day.

ALL-BRAN adds the necessary "bulk" or "roughage"—and iron—that is so often lacking in our diet today. This bulk is needed to prevent constipation—to sweep the system clean of poisonous wastes—to exercise the intestines and keep them healthy.

ALL-BRAN is delicious as a cereal with milk or cream. Sprinkle over other cereals or use in cooking.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases with each meal. At your grocer's—in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WINS ACQUITTAL ON SPEED CHARGE OF CONSTABLE

In the Cook county investigation of speed traps, which has been taken over by the grand jury, Joseph Braun, general counsel of the Chicago Motor club, appeared yesterday before Police Magistrate Hollis Reeves, colored, of Robbins, and defended State Highway Patrolman Henry Larson, who had been arrested by O. E. De Witt, colored constable of Robbins, on a charge of driving thirty-eight miles an hour on Rexford road.

An acquittal was won on the argument that the village can not enforce a 25 mile an hour speed limit on open country roads which happen to be included in the municipality's corporate boundaries, unless there is proof of actual recklessness.

"No municipality," said Mr. Braun, "can enforce arbitrary speed ordinances which are a violation and in contempt of the state motor vehicle act."

On leaving the court room, Sergt. Edward Van Laningham of the state police, who had been riding with Patrolman Larson at the time of the arrest, reported that the motorcycle used by Constable DeWitt lacked a state license plate and that the star on the machine was of the "I gotta drag" variety. The village of Robbins is two miles southwest of Blue Island.

A committee of the grand jury tomorrow will hear reports of speed traps, garage and parking extortionists and other crimes against the motoring public.

DRAIN CREEK TO FIND GUN USED IN KILLING WARDEN

In the belief that Charles M. Eldredge, state game warden and political leader in McHenry county, was slain by a bullet from a high powered rifle, authorities last night started to drain Nippersink creek, beside which Eldredge's body was found on July 4.

They believe his murderer may have thrown the rifle into the creek. State's Attorney V. S. Lumley of Woodstock and Capt. Hal Carr, assistant chief of the state police, directed a force of fifteen men, who started work on a dam to hold back the waters of the creek.

The McHenry county board of supervisors has voted a $2,000 reward for the arrest of the slayers of Eldredge.

STEEL UPTURN, OIL RECESSION SIGNS OF CHEER

BY O. A. MATHER.

For the first time in a number of weeks five of the great basic industries, steel and petroleum, produced really cheerful news yesterday. A slight expansion in steel production in the last week was taken to indicate that the long decline has ended, and the industry is "scraping bottom" and holds prospects for improvement next month.

The petroleum industry reported one of the largest declines on record in crude oil output last week. This was largely the result of the shutdown movement in the Oklahoma fields, where producers have "struck" against the lowest crude oil prices in the history of the midcontinent area. At the same time, the Continental Oil company announced a flat price of 40 cents a barrel for all grades of crude oil in the Kansas, Oklahoma and north Texas fields, compared with the previous prevailing scale of 10 to 15 cents a barrel adopted by the major purchasing companies.

Highest Price in Months.

The new price is the highest posted in the midcontinent field in months and is even 2 cents higher than the maximum rate of 37 cents that was in effect before July 8, when several companies cut prices to a minimum of 10 cents and a maximum of 22 cents a barrel. However, the Magnolia Petroleum company made a flat rate of 35 cents a barrel for Oklahoma City oil on June 30 and has maintained that price despite reductions by other companies.

The daily average gross crude oil output of the country last week was 2,660,850 barrels, a drop of 97,850 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Production in Oklahoma fell 111,650 barrels a day and most of the other fields also showed recessions. However, output expanded 27,000 barrels a day in the east Texas field, while California and Wyoming showed moderate increases.

Refiners took more oil last week and operated at 67.8 per cent of capacity, compared with 65.9 per cent in the preceding week. But gasoline stocks declined 965,000 barrels to a total of 37,377,000 barrels.

Predict Expansion.

For the first time since steel mill operations began their protracted decline early last spring, ingot production of the United States Steel corporation, largest factor in the industry, is expected to show an increase of 1 per cent to 33 per cent of capacity for the week ended Monday. This output will appear in the official trade reviews today.

Independent steel concerns, however, have slackened operations to around 20½ per cent of capacity, against 21 per cent a week ago and 32 per cent a fortnight ago. But because of the betterment by United States Steel it is probable that the week's operations for the whole industry will average a shade higher than during the preceding week at a fraction above 21 per cent of capacity. A year ago U. S. Steel was running at nearly 75 per cent, independents were around 55 per cent and the average for the whole industry was about 57½ per cent.

Out After Business.

"Volume of steel business shows no change in the last week, with ingot production being maintained at approximately 33 per cent," the American Metal Market says. "The chances are this will prove to be the low rate of the year, but this is by no means certain as mills have almost no backlog, are maintaining their operations with difficulty, and making strenuous efforts to obtain all orders possible.

"The usual summer experience has been for orders to pick up slightly after the middle of July and to show a little further gain in August, but at present there are few signs of any pickup and there is a theory that definite recovery will begin to show itself later than usual by reason of buyers being extremely conservative. That a substantial improvement will begin early in September is still predicted."

Initial Hearing on Rail Plea for Higher Rates Concluded

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 21.—The initial hearing of the interstate commerce commission on the application of the railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates was concluded today.

After hearing argument on a motion made by Grenville Clark, counsel for the railroad security owners, that the hearing be continued from day to day until finally concluded, the commission announced a decision would be made as soon as possible as to changing the present program under which the hearing will be resumed Aug. 31.

Such an emergency faces the railroads with respect to earnings that the commission should sit continuously so that a decision might be had by Sept. 1, declared Mr. Clark.

Spokesmen for the shippers, on the other hand, asserted there was no such emergency as to require a change in the program and that more progress would be made by taking the planned recess to enable shippers to prepare their replies to the carriers' testimony.

Roads Urge Expedition.

The railroads urged expedition of the hearing and suggested that the hearing be resumed Aug. 3.

With the warning that the commission had made no valuation of the railroads, an exhibit prepared by the bureau of valuation of the commission was put in the record by Commissioners B. H. Meyer and E. I. Lewis, showing compilations as to reproduction cost and other items of value.

On the basis of 1930 "period prices," or prices averaged over a period of years, the data showed cost of reproduction, new, of all railroads—classes 1, 2, and 3—to be $28,056,475,952, and for class 1 railroads alone, $26,864,303,934. Cost of reproduction, less depreciation, on the same basis, was stated as $22,269,536,110 for all the railroads and $21,298,024,016 for class 1 railroads.

On the basis of "spot," or current prices, cost of reproduction, new, of all railways was stated as $27,189,657,479, and less depreciation, $21,581,016,255. For class 1 railways alone the figures were $26,033,317,372 and $20,638,679,367, respectively.

Replies to Protest.

Ezra Brainerd Jr., chairman of the commission, replying to a telegram from Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.], protesting against a statement issued by Representative Beck [Rep., Pa.], who asserted that if the commission delayed the rate case he would propose abolishing the commission, said the commission would decide the case on the record as made "undisturbed by all the winds that blow."

C. E. Hochstedtler, traffic director of the Chicago Association of Commerce, testified that the association had, through its executive committee, adopted a resolution favoring a reasonable increase in rates, if it was the opinion of the commission that such an increase would increase revenues of the railroads.

Railroad executives had advised him, Mr. Hochstedtler said, that a 15 per cent increase in rates would yield only about an 8 per cent increase in revenues because of adjustments that would have to be made.

Of Benefit to Roads.

In considering the effect of motor, waterway and pipe line competition on the railroads, Mr. Hochstedtler said the development of inland waterway transportation, which, he said, his association favored, would not injure the railroads, because they would benefit by increased industrial activities that would be made possible by the waterway transportation.

Ordered to Cut Rates.

Washington, D. C., July 21.—(AP)—The St. Joseph Stockyard company of St. Joseph, Mo., has been ordered by the agriculture department to reduce rates on live stock marketed in that city.

Renick W. Dunlap, acting secretary, said the order reduces the present rate on live stock received at the stockyards by rail by seven cents per head in the case of cattle and calves, two cents for hogs and one cent for sheep. Similar reductions are made on live stock received by vehicles, such as trucks, or on foot, except that the rate on calves is reduced six cents instead of seven. Dunlap said the new rates will save live stock shippers approximately $120,000 annually.

Proposes Reduced Rates.

Helena, Mont., July 21.—(AP)—The Northern Pacific railway today joined the Great Northern in proposing reduced rates on shipments of feed into dry sections of Montana.

WILL FIGHT INCREASE

An organized effort to combat the 15 per cent freight rate increase asked by the railroads will be made before the interstate commerce commission, it was announced yesterday by J. T. Scott of Topeka, Kas., chairman of the committee of western state commissions that met at the Hotel Sherman to draw up plans for the fight.

The committee present at the meeting yesterday represented the agricultural interests in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Arkansas, North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Colorado.

"The battle," Mr. Scott said, "is between the industrial east and the agricultural west.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR IMMEL, LINCOLN AND WEST TOWN BANKS

Receivers for three outlying banks, the Immel State bank, 2800 Belmont avenue; the Lincoln State bank, 3105 South State street, and the West Town State bank, 2400 West Madison street, were appointed yesterday by State Auditor Oscar Nelson.

R. F. Gentzel was named receiver for the Immel State bank, which closed on July 2, while Louis J. Behan was appointed attorney. Mr. Gentzel is a brother of Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel and, according to Mr. Nelson, has had considerable experience in real estate and financial affairs in the vicinity of the bank. Resources of this bank total $872,161, while deposits and other liabilities total $650,759.

The receiver for the Lincoln State bank, which closed June 10, is J. P. O'Brien, a real estate dealer. State Senator Roy C. Woods is attorney. The bank's resources are $1,595,989 and deposit liabilities are $1,076,269.

Thomas B. Roberts, a real estate man, was appointed receiver for the West Town State bank and the law firm of Urion, Drucker, Reichmann & Boutell will represent him legally. The bank's resources are $5,104,424 and deposit liabilities, $3,827,560. It closed June 10.

All three receivers will be paid on a salary basis, while the attorneys will be compensated on a fee basis. Mr. Nelson believes that all the depositors will get back virtually all their money. He says that the situation will be helped greatly if the real estate market improves.

Members of the board of directors of the Berwyn State bank, the Lyons State bank, and the 12th Street State bank conferred with Mr. Nelson yesterday.

Bankers Draw Inferences from Hoover Proposals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—A survey of the principal banks in Wall street, commercial and private, brought out general approval of the objectives sought by President Hoover in his proposals cabled to the London conference, but general disapproval of any measures whereby existing credits to Germany would be definitely "frozen" for a period of time.

It was pointed out with considerable emphasis by a prominent banker that there are many banks which have either extended individual credits to Germany, or to German concerns or which have participated in credits granted by the larger banks; hence to give effect to the Hoover proposals would necessitate thousands of individual negotiations, not only in this country but in others.

Cite Other Difficulties.

Furthermore, in many instances it would be hopeless to expect consent to such a plan, and consent on the part of a large majority of creditors would be required. Then, too, the situation applied to Germany is also applicable to creditors of other countries, who would naturally seek corresponding favors, leading to a general tieup of banking capital throughout the world.

It is recognized, of course, that a temporarily frozen condition now exists, but many of the larger banks would prefer to continue as they are now doing, renewing such lines of credit as may be necessary, watching the situation closely from day to day, and hoping that confidence in Germany gradually will return, bringing about a restoration of confidence on the part of Germans themselves, and leading to the repatriation of German money which flowed out in volume prior to the present crisis.

Bankers drew the inference from summaries of the Hoover proposals that a more or less definite agreement to tie up credits for a more or less definite time was suggested by the President. Mr. Hoover did not, it is true, suggest any period of months or years. It is recognized that one interpretation of the President's suggestions might be to maintain a status quo, as is now being done. By necessity most bankers realize that this must, within limits, be done.

Disturbs Creditors.

Nothing is calculated to disturb a bank creditor more, it is pointed out, than a suggestion that he cannot get repayment at maturity, or that he must renew a loan or credit because he cannot collect on it. Such a state of affairs would not be calculated to encourage bankers to increase lines of credit, even where they were justified, and if an agreement was made to extend all German obligations for a definite period there would be a greater rush to withdraw capital at the end of the period than there was at the time the present German crisis began.

So far as the federal reserve banks, with their $25,000,000 participation in an existing credit to the Reichsbank are concerned, federal reserve bank officials would not comment upon what the attitude of the regional institutions might be. It was generally assumed that the reserve bank attitude would be more clearly defined if concrete propositions emerged from the somewhat vague generalities involved in the proposals made by President Hoover.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 21.—Cheer leaders of the trade fraternity tried to work up a little excitement on the strength of an early morning cable from Berlin suggesting that Germany was in line for a much larger credit than had heretofore been discussed, but the party never reached the headache stage. It began to fold up when the text of President Hoover's new plan for relief, as forwarded to the American delegates to the London conference, came along and tapered gradually down to a quietus as traders came to digest the unvarnished meaning of the proposal.

The President urged maintenance of short term credits already existent to the account of the reich, but did not appear to indicate the necessity for any rapid action in setting up additional credits. On the contrary, his statement conveyed the impression—to the rank and file at any rate—that there was no reason to anticipate any wild rush in pouring funds into central Europe, however strained the situation there may be.

In view of all which, speculative Wall street decided that somebody had been talking off the book earlier in the day and that it was too hot, anyhow, to overdo things in the stock shopping line. By early afternoon the last vestige of flurry had faded out and the market was wallowing about in much the same fashion as it did in the dullest of all sessions yesterday.

Prices Hold Up Well.

Prices held up well, however, considering the utter subsidence of interest and final figures were, in most cases, around the best of the day. Volume was recorded at 1,100,000 shares, as compared with Monday's total of 700,000.

There was little in the way of domestic news to influence the course of dealings and once more group movements were largely lacking. Railroad shares swung back to the "up" side for no particular reason and the oils again came in for some profitable attention, due to the production figures of the week ended July 18, showing

CITY ICE, FUEL SIX MONTHS' NET TOTALS $2,052,631

City Ice and Fuel company, which operates in twenty-six states and in Canada, reports net earnings after all charges for the six months ending June 30, 1931, of $2,052,631, which compares with $2,150,756 for the period last year. Total sales for the six months amounted to $12,621,707, which compares with $12,676,565 a year ago.

President R. C. Suhr states: "A mild winter and a warm spring season brought decreased coal sales in the company's fuel division, which caused net earnings for the first six months to fall somewhat below the figures for the same period last year. Starting with the summer period, however, business has been excellent, net earnings for June being $92,439 better than June last year.

"The heavy volume of business is continuing into July, and with normal temperatures for the remainder of the month company's officials believe that earnings for the month will break all previous records."

Great Western Loadings Show First 1931 Increase

Showing an increase in weekly car loadings for the first time this year over a similar period of 1930, as well as an increase over the preceding week of 1931, Chicago Great Western Railroad company reports total loadings for the week ended July 18 of 6,745 cars, as against 6,508 in the same week last year, an increase of 237 cars. This total also compares with 6,020 cars handled in the preceding week ended July 11 this year, an increase of 725 cars. Increases were largely the result of increased shipments of grain and oil. Operating results of the road for June, to be ready in the next few days, are expected to show the same relative increase in net income that has been reported in previous months, according to Patrick H. Joyce, acting president of the road.

Cite Big Cotton Exports of U. S. to Japan, China, India

A striking development in the statistical situation on American cotton in recent months has been the heavy exports by the United States to Japan, China and India, the New York Cotton Exchange Service reports. In the five and a half months since the end of January exports to the orient have aggregated 837,000 bales, compared with 357,000 bales in the corresponding period last year, and 467,000 bales two seasons ago. "One has to go back to 1927," the service says, "when rising prices were stimulating heavy forward buying to find larger exports of cotton from this country to the orient in the same five and a half months."

Expects Replacement Program by Next Year

In the opinion of F. B. Rentschler, president of United Aircraft and Transport corporation, a general replacement program by practically all aerial lines in the United States can hardly be delayed longer than the early part of next year. For his own company, he said that a large part of the planes and engines on United Aircraft lines shortly will be completely amortized and ready for replacement. He added that in May of this year planes of United Airlines, the company's transport subsidiary, carried 2,228 passengers, a new high record.

PRICES OF ALL GRAINS ADVANCE; SHORTS BUYERS

Movement of Wheat Is Tapering Off.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A better undertone has developed in the wheat market which shows more resistance to bearish influences and a disposition to respond to substantial news.

This change has been developing for several days and has proved rather surprising to the trade, so there is less disposition to press the short side on breaks and more inclination to buy whenever the market presents any weak spots.

Foreign and political news was more encouraging yesterday and the stock market was stronger. Prices on all grains moved upward and closed well toward the top, with wheat ⅝@1⅝c higher, the latter on July. Offerings of July were at no time large and there was good buying, especially early due to covering shorts by one of the local professionals, which moved the price up from 52⅞c to 54⅝c, with a finish at 54⅛@54c. September closed at 54@53¼c and December at 58⅛@58c.

World Supplies Increase.

The market absorbed sales of 100,000 bu of cash wheat bought by a Chicago operator at Kansas City, which will be brought here for delivery this month, without attracting any attention. The wheat movement in the southwest, while large, is tapering off. Primary receipts, however, continue heavy. Bradstreet's world supplies increased 4,432,000 bu as compared with 4,474,000 bu last year, making total supplies 382,579,000 bu as compared with 295,264,000 bu last year, showing that there is plenty of wheat and a large excess over last year.

There were spreading operations between Minneapolis and Chicago and a good business in buying Chicago September and selling December at 4c difference, against 4¾c a few days ago.

Foreign news was mixed. Liverpool showed fair strength and closed unchanged to ¼c higher. Later in the day, however, Russia reported charters for 3,700,000 bu, making about 40,000,000 bu or more chartered of late for exporting grain.

Crop News Mixed.

Crop news in the American and Canadian northwest was more spotted. There were many sections on both sides of the international line where spring wheat is said to be too poor to pay to cut, while there are other sections where a good average promise is indicated.

One large Canadian elevator house reports the condition of the three western provinces as 57, of the same as the last three weeks.

Winnipeg was strong and closed ⅝@⅞c higher, with July 55⅛c and October 60⅛c. An exchange of 1,000,000 bu of cash was made for the same quantity of October by an export house against wheat held in the east, the wheat being taken for export, confirmation coming from New York, which finally placed the quantity at 1,200,000 bu.

Hot Weather in West.

Reports of a hot wave in Nebraska, with fears of it working eastward, was a late factor in the corn market, while early in the day there was nothing attractive developed in the trading or fluctuations. July showed congestion and advanced nearly 1c to 53¾c, after a dip to 57c early, with a close at 57⅛@58c. September was 51¼@52¼c and December 45½c, net gains on the list being ⅝@1¼c. The trade became uneasy toward the last and offerings were reduced.

Outside of the unfavorable report from the west there were reports of rains and of most favorable condition of the crop. Country offerings were not so large, although only 51,000 bu were bought to arrive and 250,000 bu were sold to go to store. The cash market also showed more activity. Trade sentiment, however, is largely bearish, the price being considered too high as compared with wheat.

Oats were sold early by tired holders and bought on the break by commission houses. Strength in other grains had a good influence but net gains were only ¼@⅝c, with July at 32c. September, 26⅝@26⅞c and December, 29⅜c.

Rye was hard to buy and closed at 1@1⅛c higher, on the basis of 35c for July and 37⅛c for September.

Refined Sugar Advance Brings Beet Offering

New York, July 21.—(AP)—The advance in refined sugar to 4.75 cents a pound, scheduled to become effective at the close of business tonight, brought limited offerings of refined beet sugar in the New York market today at 4.15 cents a pound. Ordinarily the eastern market is free from such competition, but price movements in the last few months have brought offerings of beet sugar to the New York market.

COTTON MARKET LOSES RECENT ADVANCE

Monday's advance of about $1.25 per bale was lost in final cotton prices yesterday. Foreign news is the dominant factor and uncertainties as to the outcome of affairs abroad create uneasiness in sentiment in domestic markets. American markets opened off on lower Liverpool cables, but reports of too much rain in south Texas and part of Georgia had a strengthening influence for a time, followed by profit taking which caused prices to recede, with the close around the lowest of the day, with net losses in Chicago of 23@26 points and in markets of 23@30 points. Spots in New York declined 25 points to 9.40c, with New Orleans off 20 points to 9.20c. Galveston was 9.30c and Houston, 9.25c. Liverpool closed 11 points net higher, with spot sales 5,000 bales. Prices follow:

MOLER'S GREAT SUCCESS IN TEACHING BEAUTY CULTURE

IS NOT BECAUSE
Moler gave a commission to students while learning. Moler graduates those who desire to earn money while learning.
NOR BECAUSE
BUT BECAUSE
Moler's thousands of graduates running their own shops send to Moler for their help who have Moler's more professional degree. Some every day and every evening.
Call, write or phone.

39 E. MONROE-ST. CENTRAL 6393.
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Mr. Moler: Please tell me "how I can earn a commission while learning Beauty Culture." Also about your more professional degree that enables me to make more money after graduating.
